DEMOCRATS WIN ALL BUT ONE TOP OFFICE AT STAKE IN MAINE

Muskie Unseats Payne as Senator — Party Takes Governorship and Two of Three House Seats.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 9 (AP)—Maine Democrats won a United States Senate seat for the first time in 47 years and scored other major triumphs in the state's last September general election yesterday.

Gov. Edmund S. Muskie ousted Republican Senator Frederick G. Payne by a 3 to 2 margin in a contest bearing undertones of the Bernard Goldfine case. Payne, like Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams, has acknowledged receiving favors from the Boston industrialist.

The Democrats picked up a seat in the House of Representatives and retained the Governor's office. One Democrat and one Republican won re-election to the House.

Clinton A. Clauson, former mayor of Waterville, won the governorship by a close margin over Horace A. Hildreth, a G.O.P. former Governor.

James C. Oliver, a Cape Elizabeth real estate man, beat out Republican Representative Robert Hale, who was seeking a ninth term.

Democrat Frank M. Coffin, a Lewiston lawyer, won re-election over Neil S. Bishop, Stockton Springs farmer. Coffin, when first elected two years ago, was the first Maine Democrat to serve in the House in 22 years.

Only G.O.P. Winner.

Representative Clifford G. McIntire, a Perham potato farmer, was the only Republican in major office to survive the Democratic wave. He won re-election over Gerald J. Grady, a professor of government at the University of Maine.

Complete, unofficial returns from the state's 632 voting precincts gave:

For Senator: Muskie 171,942; Payne 112,178.

For Governor: Clauson 145,619; Hildreth 134,998.

Congress, second district: Coffin 59,698; Bishop 37,014.

Congress, third district: McIntire 38,826; Grady 31,354.

The total vote—284,120 for Senator—fell far short of forecasts that it would exceed the state election record of 311,488 cast in 1936.

Muskie was the first Democrat ever sent to the Senate by the normally Republican Maine electorate. The Legislature chose the last Democratic Senator in 1911—before Senators were elected by popular ballot.

Payne carried President Eisenhower's indorsement into the campaign, but in running against Muskie, a Polish immigrant tailor's son who worked his way through law school, Payne faced the most popular candidates ever put up by the Democrats.

While Muskie did not stress it, the man in the street commented frequently that Goldfine lent $3500 to Payne toward purchase of a house, gave a vicuna coat to him and paid some of his hotel bills.

Hard Hit by Recession.

Economic conditions in Maine apparently were a factor. The state has been hard hit by the nation-wide recession.

Payne telephoned Muskie at Democratic headquarters in Augusta to congratulate him on his victory. Muskie did not dis-

Police Say Sharp Rise in Crime Proves Need for More Funds

Board Hopes City Restores $640,000 It Cut From Budget, Considers 'Some Sort of Court Test.'

The recent sharp increase in crime in St. Louis emphasizes the Police Department's need for the budget increase the city administration has turned down, police officials said today.

Major crimes committed last month totaled 3642, a 10.2 per cent increase as compared with August 1957. It was the third consecutive month in which criminal activity increased here. There had been a 7.5 per cent drop last May as compared with May a year ago.

Russell L. Dearmont, vice president of the Board of Police Comissioners, said the department was proceeding under the $14,232,352 operating budget it submitted to the Estimate Board last spring, although the Board of Aldermen appropriated only $13,592,352 for the fiscal year, a cut of $640,000.

In a letter to city officials a month ago, the Police Board announced its intention of refusing to accept the cut on the ground not only of need but also of its statutory contention that the city must appropriate funds requested by the board.

Dearmont said the Police Board was hopeful the city "will recognize the situation and make the necessary funds available." He added that if the city persists in its refusal, "some sort of a court test probably will have to be made."

City officials have left the door open for possible reconsideration of the police department budget later.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker was out of the city today. President Donald Gunn of the Board of Aldermen, who is a member of the Estimate Board, said any police request for a supplemental appropriation "would have to be carefully analyzed before submission to the Board of Aldermen."

President H. Sam Priest of the Police Board said the recent upsurge in crime, follow-

U.S. OFFERS PLAN TO KEEP ORDER IF LITTLE ROCK HAS INTEGRATION

Attorney General Rogers Says Department of Justice, Attorney, Marshal Will Help Local Officials.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Attorney General Rogers submitted today to Little Rock, Ark., officials a proposed federal-local plan for preserving order in the event Central High School there is directed to continue its racial integration program.

The Attorney General released letters addressed to City Manager Dean Dauley and President Wayne Upton of the Little Rock school board setting out the proposal. Rogers had received word the communications were now in their hands.

The letters were dated last Sunday, Sept. 7. This was one day after Rogers held a lengthy conference with President Eisenhower.

The letter to Dauley confirmed reports that the Justice Department has arranged for temporary expansion of the United States marshal's staff at Little Rock. However, the letter said the marshal's force was simply available for conferences on preserving peace in the community and that the expansion should not be misconstrued as a move to "in any way intrude upon the primary responsibility of the state and its subdivisions to maintain peace and order."

Hearing Thursday.

The letters, conciliatory in tone, did not attempt to anticipate what action the Supreme Court may take after it hears further argument Thursday on an Arkansas district court order postponing integration at Central High for 2½ years. The federal government has asked the high court to set that order aside.

However, Rogers told Dauley: "Because of the possibility that the Supreme Court may affirm the decision of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals (overturning the district court order), it seems desirable that careful plans should be made now by responsible officials to prevent disorder or violence in the event of such affirmance.

"With this objective in mind, the purpose of this letter is to say that the Department of Justice and its representatives in Little Rock, the United States Attorney and the United States Marshal for the Eastern district of Arkansas, are ready to co-operate fully with the city of Little Rock and the Little Rock police within the limits of our respective responsibilities.

Primary Duty With State.

"Our federal-state system of government necessitates both state and national authorities in the same geographical area at the same time, each operating in their proper sphere of responsibility. The presence of one should not affect the duty or limit the responsibility of the other. The history of our republic has made clear, too, the wisdom of reposing the primary duty for the preservation of peace and order permanently with the state authorities.

"Because of this fact, the United States marshal and his deputies do not propose to serve as peace officers, but plan to perform their proper functions to assist in the execution of the orders of the United States courts and to do it co-operatively in a way which will be helpful to you.

"By effective use of the city police, other law enforcement officers of the state and locality, with the co-operation of the Department of Justice is indicated, it is hoped that mob violence and disorder may be prevented. Surely our national interest requires all public officials who have responsibility in this matter to strive earnestly and resolutely to that end."

Injunction Suggested.

Rogers' letter to the school board president suggested the board give consideration to seeking an injunction against anyone who opposes any integration order by unlawful acts.

The letter recalled that the Court of Appeals at St. Louis, in canceling the proposed delay in integrationu at Central, had observed that the Little Rock school board never sought an injunction against those who fought the board's integration plan through violent demonstrations. That court said the injunctive process had "apparently proved successful in the Clinton, Tenn., and Hoxie, Ark., situations" during the last two years when violence flared at schools in those cities.

The Attorney General told Upton:

"In view of this observation by the court and because such a course of action might be effective in preserving order, I am sure that the school board will want to consider seeking such relief. Recognizing the problems which confront the school board in this connection, the purpose of this letter is to

DULLES STICKS TO TOUGH, KEEP-THEM-GUESSING LINE ON SITUATION IN FORMOSA

HINTS SLIGHTLY AT CONCESSIONS IF RED CHINESE RENOUNCE FORCE

But Secretary Says He Doesn't Expect General War if U.S. Continues to Stand Firm and United.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hewed to a tough line on the Formosa crisis today but said he did not expect a general war if the country stands firm and united.

He continued at his press conference the Administration "keep-them-guessing" approach to the problem of what the United States would do if the Chinese Communists tried to capture the Quemoy or Matsu islands off the mainland coast.

The secretary hinted, but slightly, that the United States might offer some concessions if Red China would renounce the use of force in the Formosa Straits. Such renunciation would constitute a new element in the situation, he said, adding that "quite a lot" could be negotiated if force were renounced. He declined to be specific.

Asked whether the United States would recommend that the Chinese Nationalist regime on Formosa, with which this country has a defense treaty, evacuate the Quemoys and Matsus if the Chinese Communists forego the use of force to obtain territorial objectives, Dulles declined to say because the answer would involve the rights and interests of an ally.

Calls Firm Stand Necessary.

Dulles compared the situation in the Formosa Straits to the Berlin blockade and the Korean war in the sense that, in his view, the United States must take a firm stand. If it falls back its position would be weakened and America's allies would feel this country was not dependable, Dulles said.

The Secretary stressed throughout an unusually long conference his belief that United States support of the Chinese Nationalists should be regarded in a much wider context than a fight over several small islands. The position of this country in the western Pacific is at stake, he said.

Dulles said that, this morning, United States Ambassador Jacob D. Beam in Warsaw got in touch with Ambassador Wang Ping-nan of Communist China and told Wang that the United States is ready to start talks at any time on easing tension in the Formosa area.

The fact that these talks were in prospect was one reason cited by Dulles for the United States not "rushing" to the United Nations with the Formosa problem. The other reason, he said, was that indications were the Chinese Communists would not recognize this course on the ground their dispute with Chiang is an internal matter.

Hopes for Agreement.

Dulles said he hoped the talks, resumption of which was proposed last week by Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai, would result in an agreement on some method of operating. He indicated he thought it was too much to hope that issues would be resolved.

The ambassadorial talks were suspended last December. The resumption proposed by Chou was welcomed by the White House.

Dulles said the hoped-for agreement in the ambassadorial talks might take the lines of a renunciation of force or something more specific. He said he did not want to discuss the possibilities.

When a reporter noted that both the Communists and the Nationalists regard the Formosa struggle as a civil war, Dulles said it did have elements of an internal conflict but that it was unrealistic to hold that the situation did not have international meaning because it might lead to world war.

He pointed out that at the time the United Nations intervened in Korea the Soviet Union regarded the Korean fighting as a civil conflict.

Dulles was asked whether the United States encouraged Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to build up the Nationalist garrison on Quemoy island after the passage of the defend-Formosa resolution in 1955.

That resolution authorized President Eisenhower to order the defense of Formosa and the nearby Pescadores, but it was never made clear as to whether this defense might involve de-

TWO POLICEMEN INDICTED IN FATAL SHOOTING OF GIRL

HARRISBURG, Ill., Sept. 9 (AP)—Two Harrisburg policemen were indicted on charges of murder yesterday in the shooting of a teen-age Michigan girl

Glen Schwartz and Winston Gidcumb were charged by a circuit court grand jury in the fatal shooting of Margo Hallwood, 14 years old of Millington, Mich., July 21.

She was riding through Harrisburg on an elopement trip with Del Whitaker, 17, also of Millington, when the two policemen, in Schwartz's personal car, attempted to halt them for a traffic violation.

The officers, both in uniform, were using Schwartz's car because the regular squad car was in a repair shop. Schwartz testified the officers fired warning shots. He said one shot may have ricocheted from the pavement and struck the girl. Whitaker stopped after the girl was hit. Whitaker told the inquest jury he believed the pursuing car contained robbers.

FIGURES IN PHOTO GHOSTS, BRITISH AMATEUR SAYS

LONDON, Sept. 9 (UPI)—Amateur photographer T. L. Taylor thought he was photographing empty choir stalls inside Winchester Cathedral, but the pictures came out with people sitting in the stalls. Ghosts, he said, crept into the pictures.

Taylor took two pictures inside the cathedral nearly a year ago. The first shows the choir stalls empty. The second, taken an instant later, shows 13 figures in the stalls, most of them dressed in medieval costume. Taylor, his wife, their daughter and a girl who was with them saw no one there.

"It gives me the creeps," said 16-year-old Valerie Taylor.

The South Staffordshire metaphysical society, which keeps tabs on ghosts in Taylor's part of England, is interested.

"It seems a genuine case warranting investigation," society president A. Mills said.

Taylor, an electrical engineer, said his camera has a device to prevent double exposures and that the company which made the film confirmed the ghosts were not caused through faulty film.

PRESIDENT WORKS IN OFFICE ON YACHT, THEN PLAYS GOLF

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 9 (UPI)—President Eisenhower put in an hour at his improvised office aboard the presidential yacht Barbara Anne this morning, then went to the Newport Country Club for a round of golf. He played with three New York friends who came up for the day.

It was the President's ninth round on the oceanside course since he arrived here Aug. 29 for a late summer vacation.

The President's golfing companions were investment banker Clifford Roberts and business executives W. Alton Jones and Barry Leithead.

OFFICER DOWNED BY AUTO, DRIVER CAUGHT IN CHASE

Kirkwood Policeman Shoots Windshield in Pursuit of Speeding Car.

A Kirkwood policeman was knocked down by an automobile at Lindbergh boulevard and Meacham street, Kirkwood, early today. The officer fired a revolver shot through the fleeing machine's windshield and arrested the driver following a chase.

The incident occurred after Patrolman Richard Strehl and a companion had halted three men running after another man. The man told the officers his pursuers were planning to "cut me to pieces." The officers were questioning the men when they heard a machine speeding west in Meacham street.

Strehl, flashlight in hand, attempted to stop the speeding driver. He reported that the machine swerved toward him, brushing him to the ground, as he attempted to leap away.

Shoots Windshield.

Getting to his feet, Strehl fired a shot through the windshield of the speeding car as the driver turned north into Lindbergh boulevard. Strehl then ran to his police car and chased the other machine for about one-half mile, to Rose Hill avenue, where he forced it to the curb.

The driver, booked as William E. Davis, a 20-year-old grocery clerk living in the 300 block of Rose Hill avenue, Kirkwood, had been drinking, police reported. He was charged in a warrant issued in magistrate court with assault to do great bodily harm. Patrolman Strehl was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for bruises. Davis was not injured.

Meanwhile, the other patrolman held the three men and their intended victim until assistance arrived. The three were booked for peace disturbance and police are investigating a tavern where the trouble was reported to have started.

Fleeing Motorist Shot.

A motorist, who fled after failing to observe a major stop sign, was shot in the back and wounded seriously by a policeman today. He is Donald Blake, 20, living in the 2300 block of LaSalle street.

Patrolman Aloys LaGates, operator of a tricar, chased an automobile occupied by Blake and a second young man after observing the machine go through a major stop at Jefferson avenue and Stoddard street. In the 2300 block of Benton street the men jumped out and fled after striking two parked cars.

LaGates said he followed Blake on foot, firing several warning shots. He then fired at the fugitive, who collapsed. Blake is in serious condition in City Hospital.

Eisenhower Sizes Up Maine Vote: Republican Party Took a Beating

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 9 (AP) — President Eisenhower today sized up the Democratic sweep in the Maine elections as a Republican party beating there is no use trying to disguise.

His reaction of disappointment was reported to newsmen at the summer White House by press secretary James C. Hagerty shortly after the Republican National Committee in Washington had supplied Mr. Eisenhower, at his request, with final returns on the contests, in which Maine Democrats won a United States Senate seat for the first time in 47 years.

"I haven't anything to say except that the Republicans took a beating," Hagerty commented. "That's all you can say on it."

Asked about Mr. Eisenhower's reaction, Hagerty said the President regrets the defeat of Republican candidates.

"He also feels the same way I do—that the Republican party did take a beating and there is no use disguising it," he said.

Mr. Eisenhower also hopes "it may help a little in making everybody work a little harder for the November elections," Hagerty added.

Hagerty replied, "I don't know — I haven't any comment," when asked what effect, if any, the Democrats' success in Maine would have on the tenure of Sherman Adams as Mr. Eisenhower's chief aid.

TV CONTESTANT SHOT, CAPTURED ON BRIBE CHARGE

Brooklyn Man Alleged to Have Offered $3000 to 'Price Is Right' Mail Sorters.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—A Brooklyn man is accused of offering a $3000 bribe to two mail sorters in an attempt to win a $30,000 house on an audience participation television give-away show.

Gerard Mignone, 38 years old, shot in the cheek when he ran from officers, was reported in fair condition today at Kings County Hospital. He was arrested late yesterday on complaint of the producers of "The Price Is Right" show televised by NBC.

Assistant District Attorney Bernard Patten of Queens said Mignone offered the bribe to two 16-year-old boys employed by Radioland Mail Service, Inc., of Queens. The firm handles mail for "The Price Is Right," which offers prizes both to contestants in the studio and to the audience.

Offer Reported to Boss.

The boys reported the alleged bribe offer to their boss and authorities were notified. Two district attorney's detectives went to Brooklyn to arrest Mignone on a warrant. They said Mignone ran into an alley and one of the detectives fired a warning shot. The bullet struck the side of a building and ricocheted into Mignone's cheek.

Mignone's alleged attempt to rig the house giveaway came to light as the office of the Manhattan district attorney continued its investgiation of several other TV shows. A number of contestants have charged that shows were fixed. About 30 more witnesses were questioned yesterday.

The Queens district attorney's office said Mignone tried to rig the house give-away this way:

Last month the show displayed several articles of merchandise plus a photograph of a home and invited viewers to send in postcards up to Aug. 29 estimating the total value of all of them. They were to be awarded the person coming closest without going above the exact figure.

Mails Cards to Self.

Mignone mailed a number of postcards to himself Aug. 24 in order to get pre-deadline postmarks on them.

Early this month the show announced the price for the various items totaled $31,051.90. Mignone erased his own address on two cards, substituted that of the TV quiz program and listed his "guesses" as $31,251.90 and $31,251.80.

Mignone then approached Robert Griffin, worker for the Radioland firm, and asked him to slip the cards in with the legitimate mail. Griffin and a fellow employe, Frank Killane, were to receive $3000 between them if Mignone won the prizes. (He would not have won, in any vent, because he overbid.)

Queens Magistrate Corning McKennee signed a warrant for Mignone's arrest on a charge of attempted bribery in offering an illegal gratuity.

RED ARTILLERY RENEWS HEAVY FIRE ON QUEMOY

Nationalists Criticize American Refusal to Use Guns on Communists.

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sept. 9 (UPI) — Communist artillery bombarded the Quemoy and neighboring offshore islands today.

Soviet-built guns on the mainland blasted Quemoy, Tatan and Erhtan with about 4000 rounds.

The bombardment was heavy but nothing like the record 53,000 shells poured on the Quemoys within a nine-hour period yesterday. That bombardment continued sporadically through the night and into the morning hours. Shelling was resumed after a brief lull.

The United States Navy was sticking to its guns in spite of Chinese Communist and Russian threats, but there were no new reports today of American naval vessels convoying Nationalist supply vessels through the Communist blockade of the offshore islands.

Bad Weather Blamed.

(The Associated Press said bad weather forced cancellation of an attempt to get a third supply convoy to Quemoy in daylight today with United States escort to the three-mile limit.)

A Nationalist Chinese air force plane did get through the blockade this morning and landed on an emergency strip on the Quemoy beach during the bombardment with three American and two Chinese correspondents on board. A first attempt was thwarted when an air raid alert sounded and the plane put back to the Pescadores.

Nationalist military officials meanwhile expressed private but strong dissatisfaction at the American convoy system in operation in the Formosa straits—especially the refusal thus far to fire at Communist attacks.

Shot Up in Daytime.

"We can try to sneak in at night without American escort and perhaps escape trouble," one officer said. "But with an American escort we sail in daytime in a pompous way and get shot up. It is ridiculous."

He was referring especially to yesterday's action in which a Nationalist ammunition ship was blown up on the beach shortly after United States Navy vessels had convoyed it to the islands. The Red artillery did not fire on the American ships and the American ships did not fire on the Red gun positions on the Chinese mainland.

The Peiping radio broadcast new warnings to the United States that it was "playing with fire." It said use of navy ships in the area violated Red China's sovereignty.

One Peiping broadcast said

JAPAN TO INSIST ON JURISDICTION IN KILLING BY G.I.

TOKYO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Justice Minister Kiichi Aichi said today Japan will insist on jurisdiction over an American airman whose bullet killed a Japanese on a passing train last Sunday.

Newspapers indicated that if the United States does not turn Airman Third Class Peter E. Longpre of Lakewood, Calif., over to the Japanese for trial, the Americans will have another Girard case on their hands.

Aichi told a cabinet meeting he didn't think the shooting occurred during "performance of official duty" although Longpre was on guard duty at the entrance of Johnson Air Force Base.

The 19-year-old airman said his carbine was discharged accidentally and he did not know it was loaded. The bullet hit Sachiyuki Miyamura, who was on his way to play a musical engagement at the base 20 miles northwest of Tokyo.

The Air Force is still investigating the shooting and is holding Longpre.

Specialist Third Class William Girard in 1957 shot and killed a Japanese woman scrap collector. After an international controversy the United States Supreme Court finally upheld Japanese jurisdiction. Girard got off with a suspended sentence.

DR. M. C. MOOS TO BE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH WRITER

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — President Eisenhower this week is going to appoint Dr. Malcom C. Moos as his new speech writer, replacing Arthur Larson, who resigned last month.

Dr. Moos, a former associate editor of the Baltimore Evening Sun, taught political science at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore until last November when he became a supposedly temporary member of the White House staff, where he has performed a variety of functions. His new title will be administrative assistant to the President, at a salary of $20,000 a year.

Another impending change in the White House is the transfer of Robert E. Merriam, deputy director of the budget, to the President's staff. His new title has not been disclosed. Merriam was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for Mayor of Chicago in 1955.

Beside being a professor of political science, Dr. Moos is a practical politician, who currently is chairman of the Republican organization of Baltimore county.

Horsepower Race Hits Links--- Full-Size Cars Used as Golf Carts

BRENHAM, Tex., Sept. 9 (AP)—The horsepower race has reached the golf courses. Tom Whitehead, spokesman for a group of golfers, charged yesterday that management had allowed some players to turn a local course into a race track.

"Full-sized automobiles, stripped down to look like hot-rods, are used on the course as golf carts," he said. "If you don't move along fast enough they start honking at you."

FEDERAL COURT HEARINGS GO ON IN INTEGRATION CASE IN VIRGINIA

Judge Paul Continues His Examination of Charlottesville Board's Rejection of 30 Negro Pupils.

HARRISONBURG, Va., Sept. 9 (AP) — Charlottesville residents looked to a federal judge today for a decision on whether their school officials were justified in rejecting the applications of 30 Negro pupils for admission to white schools.

A ruling of "no" by United States District Judge John Paul could mean integration of the city's schools — and their immediate closing under state law.

Paul was to resume a hearing today on the merits of the school board's reasons for turning down all 30 applications. School officials defended their action yesterday; attorneys for the Negro students argued that the rejections were not justified.

In previous court sessions in this desegregation case, Paul has said that if he feels Charlottesville school officials engaged in racial discrimination, he will take over the job of assigning pupils himself. Charlottesville schools are due to open Monday.

In Courts Three Years.

The Charlottesville case has consumed more than three years. Paul told city school superintendent Fendall R. Ellis yesterday the guidepost of "deliberate speed" erected by the Supreme Court for desegregation cases "means nothing in Charlottesville. This litigation has been going on for years. You haven't done anything."

The 74-year-old judge yesterday directed the school board of Warren County to admit 22 Negroes to the county's only high school — a white school.

He would not stay the injunction himself, but he did give the county one week in which to seek a formal stay pending appeal from one of the three justices of the United States Fourth Circuit Court (of Appeals).

Gov. J. Lindsay Almond said that if Virginia's request for a stay is denied the school would automatically close under Virginia law.

All told, eight localities in Virginia are involved in desegregation suits.

In Norfolk, Judge Walter E. Hoffman refused to grant a preliminary injunction restraining the Newport News school board from barring 10 Negroes from a white elementary school. Hoffman said it would be unfair to order desegregation during a school year. Schools in Newport News opened Sept. 4.

'Politicians' Accused.

© New York Times News Service

Judge Paul charged "politicians" and "officers of the state" with inciting public hostility to the racial integration of Virginia's public schools.

Judge Paul remarked that the "atmosphere" in Virginia two or three years ago was "much more favorable to acceptance of integrated schools than it is now." In stern tones, he added:

"The time (since then) has been consumed by officers of the state government and politicians building up hostility."

New Orleans College to Admit Qualified Negroes.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 9 (UPI)—Louisiana State University's New Orleans branch agreed today to admit academically-qualified Negro freshmen.

Dean Homer Hitt made the announcement after a morning of consultation between state and university authorities.

The main campus of L.S.U. has been integrated for several years, but at the graduate level. The New Orleans case was the first involving L.S.U. at the undergraduate level but some other Louisiana white colleges have admitted Negroes under court orders.

A preliminary injunction issued yesterday by United States District Judge Herbert Christenberry struck down segregation at the school even before it began its academic life.

In an atmosphere of growing tension at the approach of the United States Supreme Court's deliberation Thursday on the Little Rock (Ark.) Central High School case, there were these other developments:

Negro students attended second grades at previously segregated schools in Nashville, Tenn., with no hint of the violence that raged for a week last year when the first grades were desegregated. The federal courts have given their blessing to a grade-by-grade system of integration in the city schools.

About 50 Negroes took over an all-white city park at Memphis, Tenn., and after a brief demonstration were dispersed by police.

U.S. 'BORROWS' LEBANON WHEAT TO AID ETHIOPIA

BEIRUT, Sept. 9 (AP) — The United States embassy disclosed today it is taking wheat from American shipments to Lebanon and sending it to drouth-stricken Ethiopia. The embassy said 5000 tons was being "borrowed" from 65,000 tons being supplied to Lebanon under an emergency program.

Muskie Well Equipped for Role As a Political Giant-Killer

—UPI Telephoto.

SENATOR-ELECT EDMUND S. MUSKIE (left) and GOV.-ELECT CLINTON A. CLAUSON in Governor's Mansion in Augusta today reading newspaper report of their victories.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 9 (AP) — Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, 6-foot 4-inch son of an immigrant tailor from Poland, made a lot of political history in Maine even before becoming the first Democratic Senator elected by popular vote from his state. The last Democratic Senator from Maine was chosen by the Legislature in 1911, before direct elections became general.

The gangly, curly haired Waterville lawyer was the first Democratic Governor in 20 years. He was elected in 1954 with a plurality of 22,375 votes.

Two years later Muskie won an almost unprecedented—for a Democrat—second term with the greatest vote ever given a Governor of either party. He polled just under 180,000 votes, defeating Willis A. Trafton Jr. (Rep.) by almost 56,000.

A Roman Catholic, Muskie was the first of his faith to be elected Governor.

Well Equipped for Role.

"Ed" Muskie is well equipped for his role as a political giant-killer.

Perhaps his greatest asset is magnetism—a charm just as effective on the television screen as in personal contact.

Others are a pretty, friendly wife and an excellent World War II record.

Along with a keen legal mind, he possesses a canny grasp of practical politics. He has an easy, persuasive manner, a good speaking voice and a lot of patience, perserverance and determination.

All these qualities helped him in dealing with an all-Republican Governor's council and a heavily G.O.P. legislature.

He also has a good sense of humor—one that doesn't stop at jokes on himself.

Jane Gray Muskie, a dozen years younger than her husband, campaigned with him in 1954. She stayed pretty close to home in the 1956 campaign, as she was expecting their third child, Melinda, born while the Muskie's occupied Blaine House, the executive mansion.

It was disclosed last night that the Muskies are expecting a fourth child in December.

"Ed told me not to breathe a word of it, because the voters would say we did this in every campaign," she said after it was definite that Muskie had been elected to the Senate.

Their first two children were Stephen, born in 1949, and Ellen, a year younger.

One of Six Children.

One of six children, the Governor was born March 28, 1914, in the paper mill town of Rumford, where his parents had settled in 1910.

He earned his way through Bates College, graduating with honors in 1936, and Cornell University, where he got his law degree.

He barely had time to hang out a shingle in Waterville before he found himself in the Navy. He spent three and one-half years in the Atlantic and Pacific theaters as a destroyer engineering officer and won three battle stars.

In 1946 he was elected to the Maine House. The next year came his only political defeat—for mayor of Waterville. He was re-elected to the House in 1948 and 1950, serving as minority leader in two legislative sessions.

Then he spent a year as Maine director of the Office of Price Stabilization, resigning in 1952 to become Democratic national committeeman.

In the winter of 1953-54 he and a few other young Democrats decided that "the time was ripe to develop the party," which had long been in the dolrums.

The result, after a campaign in which Muskie stressed Maine's need for two-party government, was Muskie's surprising victory over Republican Gov. Burton M. Cross.

Some of the G.O.P. heirarchy made the mistake of intepreting the results as anti-Cross, rather than pro-Muskie. They found out in 1956 how wrong they were.

Delays Claiming Victory.

Muskie held off claiming victory over Republican Senator Frederick Payne last night until long after it became apparent to everyone.

"I don't want to jump the gun on Fred," he told newsmen.

That sort of consideration is a clue to Muskie's success in persuading two Republican legislatures to adopt the bulk of his lawmaking program and in winning the Republican executive council's consent for his appointments and policies.

In his first term as Governor, he won bipartisan support for revamping the state's development efforts, placing more emphasis on seeking new industry.

His second legislature, also Republican-controlled, adopted his proposal for state guaranteed loans to build modern factories.

In his second term also, the Legislature passed a complete revision of public school administration and adopted a number of changes in basic government recommended by a survey team Muskie pursuaded the 1955 Legislature to employ.

ENCEPHALITIS IN FAR EAST BELIEVED EBBING; 1613 DEAD

SEOUL, Sept. 9 (AP)—A total of 1613 persons have died in South Korea and Japan from sleeping sickness (encephalitis) but the disease appeared on the wane today.

A Health Ministry spokesman said the number of South Korean cases had reached 5158 but that the disease was being checked through combined American and Korean efforts and the approach of cooler fall weather.

Medical supplies, including 17,000 drums of insecticide to combat virus-spreading mosquitoes, have been furnished by the United States.

Red Guerrilla Killed.

KUALA LUMPUR, Sept. 9 (AP) — A Malay army patrol killed a Communist Guerrilla in a clash in Perak state Sunday, it was announced today. The guerrilla was Tin Kien, a district committee member of the Malayan Communist party. A British officer attached to the patrol was wounded.

U.S. 'NEAR EDGE OF PRECIPICE,' MOSCOW WARNS

But Khrushchev Is Said to Have Made It Clear He Wants Negotiation.

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 (UPI) — The Moscow radio warned today that the United States was "nearing the edge of the precipice" in the Far East, but political observers said Premier Khrushchev had made it clear he would prefer negotiation to war.

The latest Moscow attack on the United States followed publication of a note from Khrushchev to President Eisenhower declaring there could be no peace in the Far East until the United States withdraws its troops and the Seventh Fleet from Formosa.

Commentator Nikolai Andreyev, in a broadcast beamed to the United States, declared today:

"Mr. Dulles and certain of his colleagues, who at one time mapped out the policy of non-recognition of People's China . . . are nearing the edge of the precipice wearing the unconstrained smile of the tight-rope walker for whom there is no way back."

Calls Chiang 'U.S. Puppet'.

The broadcast said Russia had no respect for President Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China. It called him "an American puppet, a traitor to the people of China and a political corpse."

"What have the American ruling quarters lost in China?" the broadcast asked. "What are they looking for? What aim does their intervention pursue? Is it supposed to support their line of non-recognition and blockade of China?

"Surely that policy does not answer the interests of the American nation."

Khrushchev's message to Mr. Eisenhower incorporated all the recent Soviet warnings that the Soviet Union would regard American attacks against China as an attack on itself and that Russia was prepared to aid Peiping with the Soviet arsenal of conventional and nuclear weapons.

He also accused the United States of committing blackmail, of provocation and of direct aggression in the Formosa strait. He made it plain the Soviet government was seriously disturbed by the situation which has arisen there.

This aspect of the letter did not surprise western observers in Moscow. They noted that his tone did not close the door to negotiation.

Drive for Top-Level Talks.

The present Far Eastern situation offers the Russians another excellent opportunity to renew and intensify their drive for top-level East-West talks. A careful reading of Khrushchev's message suggests this is what the Soviet Union intends to do.

The fact that Chinese Communist Leader Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai have said in recent speeches they are willing to resume ambassadorial negotiations with the United States, taken together with Khrushchev's statements, indicates the Communist bloc leaders may have met to discuss the crisis and formulate a common policy for future action.

PEOPLE REALIZE FAR EAST RISKS, DULLES SAYS

He Insists Fate of Isles Is Vital to Free World —Sees No Impact in Maine Vote.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—In response to a crossfire of questions on whether or not the American public supported Administration policy in defending Quemoy and Matsu, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at his press conference today insisted that most Americans realize the risks involved.

A reporter pointed out to Dulles that Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, who triumphed over Senator Frederick G. Payne in yesterday's election in Maine, had attacked the Eisenhower-Dulles foreign policy. But the Secretary said he saw no significance in the Maine outcome and he aded that American foreign policy would continue to be bipartisan.

He declined to comment on the attack of former Secretary of State Dean Acheson who charged last week that the Administration's stand on Quemoy and Matsu risked a major war over two islands completely unrelated to America's security. Repeatedly at his press conference Dulles stated that the whole position of the free world in the western Pacific was involved in what happened over the offshore islands.

Alerted to Dangers.

"The country is pretty well alerted on the dangers in the area," Dulles said when asked whether he did not feel an obligation to consult with Congress and to tell the American public what the real situation was in the Formosa straits. "Perhaps the vital point could be better understood. That is, that these island are not just isolated pieces of real estate. The whole position of the free world and the vital interests of the United States are at stake."

Dulles said that efforts had been made to consult congressional leaders. This was difficult, he added, in view of the congressional recess. The resolution passed in 1955 giving the President power to defend Formosa and the Pescadores and to decide whether an attack on Quemoy and Matsu was related to that defense gives the Executive ample authority, according to the Secretary of State. He noted that the resolution had been adopted with only six dissenting votes, three in the Senate and three in the House.

Up to President.

Another reporter called Dulles's attention to an analysis in the Wall Street Journal showing that a large proportion of the public either knew little or nothing about the Quemoy-Matsu policy or opposed it. The Secretary responded by saying that elements going into the decision were so delicate that only the President could consider them as they were his sole responsibility.

"They cannot be shared with the general public," Dulles declared.

Hussein-Nasser Deadlock Slows Down Hammarskjold

U.A.R. Chief Said to Agree to 'U.N. Presence' in Damascus After Rejecting It in Cairo.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

AMMAN, Sept. 9 — A deadlock between King Hussein of Jordan and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic has stalled the Hammarskjold peace mission, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Their dispute is over whether a proposed "United Nations presence" should have an office in Cairo as well as Amman.

Nasser rejected flatly any idea of having a new United Nations agency in Cairo, when he met United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold there last week.

But Nasser added he would be willing to have a U.N. representative stationed at Damascus, Syria, as part of a U.N. presence in the Middle East, the Post-Dispatch was told by a usually reliable source. Syria is a province of the U.A.R.

Jordan Insistent.

When Hammarskjold arrived in Amman last night he found the King and Prime Minister Samir Rifai still insisting that the new agency should be represented in Cairo as well as Amman.

Hammarskjold takes off this afternoon for Beirut, where he expects to stay until he returns to New York at the end of the week.

Jordan's position apparently remained unchanged two weeks ago when Hammarskjold reached Amman at the start of his mission. His assignment is to "make such practical arrangements" as will help maintain the independence of Jordan and Lebanon "and thereby facilitate the early withdrawal of foreign troops."

Persons close to Nasser had said in Cairo that he had rejected completely any idea of having a new U.N. representative at either Cairo or Damascus. The report that Nasser would accept a U.N. presence in Damascus was heard for the first time here.

The Damascus arrangement would have some logic. Syrian broadcasts have continued to attack Hussein and his regime bitterly despite the Arab U.N. resolution of Aug. 21 with its pledge to reduce tension. Egyptian broadcasts have mostly stopped assailing Hussein although they have continued to attack "western imperialists."

Damascus Drama.

The Damascus radio carried last Saturday an hour-long drama portraying Premier Nuri Said and Crown Prince Abdul Ilah of Iraq in hell. The two assassinated leaders, victims of the Iraqi revolution last July, met King Abdullah, Hussein's grandfather, who was assassinated in 1951 hen accused of negotiating with Israel.

When they asked Abdullah "How do you do?" the Syrian broadcast continued, he told them he still was suffering from the villainies he had perpetrated against the Palestinian people.

Abdullah then asked Nuri Said and Abdul Ilah if his grandson was "still as foolish as I was at his age."

Some persons saw in Nasser's willingness to have a U.N. office in Damascus as an indication that relations were cooling between Egypt and Syria, merged last Feb. 1 to form the U.A.R.

The deadlock, if unresolved, could mean failure of the Hammarskjold mission although further negotiations undoubtedly would take place at the U.N. after his return.

One informed source put the situation this way: "Hammarskjold got an agreement in Cairo and an agreement in Amman. But the Cairo agreement is unacceptable in Amman and the Amman agreement is unacceptable in Cairo."

The source said Rifai accused Hammarskjold of going at his assignment backward—starting at Amman instead of heading first for Cairo, the source of economic and propaganda campaigns against the Jordanian regime.

"All Jordan wants from Hammarskjold is to help get an agreement from Nasser to call off his hounds," the source said.

65,400,000 JOBS IN AUGUST FOR SEASONAL HIGH

Unemployment Decreases 600,000 as Students Return to Schools.

By WILLIAM K. WYANT JR.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—Employment in the United States in August reached a seasonal high for the year of 65,400,000, while unemployment dropped by 600,000 during the month to 4,700,000, the Government reported today.

In a joint statement, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell and Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks said the drop in unemployment was principally among young workers who found jobs and students who withdrew from the labor market to go back to school.

Those are normal developments for this time of year. The report said no significant change took place in August in the number of unemployed adult workers. In the month, the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment was 7.6 per cent, compared with 4.3 per cent in August last year.

When the business downturn was in its early stages in August 1957, the number of persons employed was 66,385,000 or 1,073,000 more than the present figure. The number of unemployed then was 2,609,000.

Unemployment last month fell materially below the 5,000,000 mark for the first time since January, but the number of unemployed workers 25 years of age or older was virtually the same as in June and July, and the jobless rate among factory workers also was virtually unchanged.

While there continued to be improvement in the steel industry, jobs in the automobile industry persisted in a declining trend.

Farm employment was almost unchanged in August from July, with a total of 6,600,000 persons employed. Ordinarily there is a reduction in August. The Government said the current stability was caused by the low level of farm operations in July, when weather was bad.

Judge Called to Jury.

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 9 (AP)—William W. Hoffman had the best excuse possible for getting out of jury duty. He returned the mailed summons to the court clerk yesterday, calling attention to a fact that he is the presiding judge.

WILBUR DANIELS IS RE-ELECTED STATE CHAIRMAN BY DEMOCRATS

Other Officers Selected — Symington Says U.S. Power Is 'Rusting' Through Neglect by Administration.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9—Wilbur F. Daniels of Fayette was re-elected chairman of the Democratic State Committee at the party's biennial state platform convention here today.

Daniels, who has served since 1952, was not opposed and was chosen by acclamation. He had the support of both state-wide candidates in the November election—United States Senator Stuart Symington and State Auditor Haskell Holman.

In the only contested election for a committee office, Mrs. Jean Briscoe of New London was chosen secretary over the incumbent, Miss Elva Denning, Nevada. The vote was 21 to 17.

Other Officers.

Other officers, elected without opposition, are Mrs. Marjorie Roberts of Richmond Heights, who succeeds Mrs. Opal Rhodes, Bethany, as vice chairman, and Charles R. Layland, and Independence banker, who succeeds Richard C. Muckerman, St. Louis, as treasurer. Neither Mrs. Rhodes nor Muckerman was a candidate.

Symington, in a keynote address to the convention today, declared that American prestige and power "are rusting through neglect" under the Eisenhower Administration.

He asserted the United States must rebuild its military machine, revamp foreign policy "from the bottom up," and place greater emphasis on education and scientific research.

Above all, he added, the United States must have sound leadership—"leadership which will no longer, through inaction, complacency and evasion, jeopardize our beloved nation."

Campaign Opened.

Later, the Democratic convention was to adopt its state platform, outlining the party's stand on major issues. The meeting officially opened the Democrats' general election campaign, in which Symington will head the party's ticket as a candidate for re-election to the Senate.

In whipping up party enthusiasm for the campaign ahead, Symington lashed out at Republicans for pursuing a foreign policy of "jet-propelled slogans, but with model T ideas."

He contended the United States has lost ground all over the world in the last five years and now has fewer friends among neutral nations and fewer allies.

"We tell the world—and it's the truth—that we are dedicated to peace," Symington asserted. "But we offer, in our defense, only the armament of universal suicide.

"We invite civilization to play Russo-American roulette with a hydrogen six-shooter.

Hiding Behind H-Bombs.

"We are hiding behind our hydrogen stockpile, much as the French hid behind their Maginot Line. Since we advertise that nuclear weapons are our principal shield, is it so surprising that a world which shudders at the idea of a nuclear war watches us with a very special misgiving."

He chided John Foster Dulles as "the fastest moving, most widely traveled Secretary of State in history, but most of the time he's moving round and round instead of forward." A good slogan for foreign policy under Dulles, he said, is "fly now—pay later."

Symington charged the Republicans "have already moved into intellectual receivership, and the American people intend to put them into bankruptcy next November."

The G.O.P. effort to "manipulate the economy," he continued, had much to do with the recent recession, and the Eisenhower Administration was ineffective in trying to correct the trouble. At the same time, he said, inflation continues "relentlessly."

Helps Hoffa, Hoodlums.

United States Senator Frank Church of Idaho told a state Democratic women's picnic meeting last night that defeat of the Kennedy-Ives labor reform bill helps only Teamster President James R. Hoffa and "the fringe of hoodlums and racketeers who have infilitrated the American labor movement."

The 34-year-old Idaho Senator blamed Republicans for defeat of the bill in the House, after it had been passed by the Senate 88 to 1. He said more than two thirds of the Democrats voted for the measure, but three fourths of the Republicans opposed it.

Church charged the Republicans killed the bill so they could claim the Democratic Congress was responsible for the defeat. But the voters will not be fooled by this, he said.

More Disclosures.

At a meeting yesterday of the State Federation of Democratic Women's Clubs, Representative Morgan M. Moulder (Dem.), Camdenton, predicted there would be more disclosures of improper influence on federal regulatory agencies under the Eisenhower Administration.

Moulder, who last February resigned as chairman of a House subcommittee investigating regulatory agencies, said he took this drastic step to spotlight efforts to keep the inquiry from uncovering Republican wrongdoing.

His resignation and that of Bernard Schwartz, chief counsel of the subcommittee, served to "get the inquiry going," he said, and evidence was produced that revealed that favors had been granted to persons who had made large contributions to the Republican party.

"We showed that the great, pious, sanctimonious (Sherman) Adams was not as clean as a hound's tooth," he said.

Moulder was a member of a panel with Representatives Leonor K. Sullivan of St. Louis and William R. Hull of Weston, Mo., who declared that Missouri Democrats plan a campaign based on charges that the Eisenhower Administration has fallen down on both domestic and foreign issues.

Mayors Discussing Consolidation

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

LEFT TURNS OK'D AT TWELFTH FOR TRAFFIC ON OLIVE

Left turns will be permitted at Twelfth boulevard for eastbound traffic on Olive street for the first time in many years, Director of Streets Henry S. Miller said today.

Miller said that workmen started installing equipment at the intersection yesterday, ahd the new left turn cycle should be in operation by tomorrow afternoon. It will shorten the "walk" signal for pedestrians crossing Twelfth by a few seconds, Miller said.

A left turn also is planned for westbound traffic on O'Fallon street at Twelfth, Miller said, but no date has been set for a start of work on installing it.

SOCONY MOBIL TO CLOSE MARKETING OFFICE HERE

Socony Mobil Oil Co. plans to close its St. Louis marketing division headquarters at 4140 Lindell Boulevard, Division Manager J. Harold Meyers announced yesterday. Many of the 235 employes will be offered jobs in other offices of the company, he said.

The shutdown, part of a national reorganization, is to be carried out gradually over a period of a year, it was explained. The office has been supervising marketing operations in the St. Louis, Springfield (Ill.) and Indianapolis districts. The St. Louis marketing district will become part of the Kansas City division, and the other two districts will report to the Chicago division.

The three-story division headquarters building here ultimately will be sold. Operations of the company's East St. Louis refinery will not be affected by the change.

County Mayors Differ Widely On Solving Area-Wide Problems

Re-entry of St. Louis into St. Louis county was described last night by Mayor Henry J. Deeken of Olivette as "a vital and necessary step" toward solving the problems of the metropolitan area.

Mayors Jule A. Schweig of Clayton, A. Ray Parker of Brentwood and Walter L. Meyer of Bellefontaine Neighbors expressed differing opinions in an appearance before a committee of the Board of Freeholders on Educational Television Station KETC, Channel 9.

"The barrier between city and county must be knocked down as the first step toward putting all the communities of the metropolitan area on the same legal level," Mayor Deeken said.

Schweig Disagrees.

Mayor Schweig said, "I basically disagree, and I doubt that the majority of mayors in the county would be willing to break down those barriers and have the city come back into the county.

"Parking, planning, zoning, traffic, assessments and economic development have suffered because of political expediency."

He added that the most logical solution to correcting the problems is to have a "metropolitan authority with power to act without interference."

Mayor Parker said that "the primary and fundamental question is what do the people really want. I think too much has been said by biased sources.

Wants 197 Municipalities.

"They talk about 97 municipalities as if it were a sin. I think it's wonderful. I wish there were 197 municipalities."

Mayor Parker said he thought the majority of the people in county municipalities favor retention of their boundaries and city governments as they are at present.

He added that a study of any other major city in the United States would show that it faces the same problems as those of hte metropolitan area of St. Louis.

"In St. Louis county we have one of the lowest crime rates in the United States," Mayor Parker said. "I think that is something to be proud of."

Referring to St. Louis's problems and their lack of solution, Mayor Schweig said, "They aren't giving the people the services needed. They permitted the city to deteriorate. They have created their own problems.

"You don't create slums overnight. The building department of St. Louis makes inspections of rooming houses, and what did they do about enforcement? The rules were on the books. When you permit rooming houses in a high grade residential area, it's only a short time before you have blight. A a lot of St. Louis's problems exist because they didn't go out and do something about them."

Mayor Meyer said that "from 3000 personal contacts" he had reached the conclusion "that a city-county merger won't go. It's something the people won't buy."

He said the only possible plan under which the freeholders could proceed would be a metropolitan district authority, and he expressed doubt about the feasibility of some of the ideas incorporated in that proposal.

CITY COMPLETES CONVERSION OF PARKING METERS

Conversion of 3034 of the city's parking meters from five cents an hour to five cents for 30 minutes parking has been completed, it was announced today.

Four nickels may be inserted at one time in the converted meters, which no longer take pennies or dimes. The 3034 meters are in the downtown area and the midtown section east of Spring avenue. The balance of the 9700 meters, many in outlying shopping centers, still take pennies, or a nickel for 60 minutes parking.

The change in the cost of street parking resulted from an ordinance adopted last June to increase city revenues in order to meet mounting operating costs.

FAMILY AWAY ON VACATION, HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

A two-stroy frame house on Ossenfort road, western St. Louis county, was destroyed by fire yesterday, with loss estimated at $6500.

The occupants, the D. W. Owens family, were away on vacation when the blaze was discovered by neighbors. The Ballwin and Chesterfield fire departments responded. Origin of the fire was not learned.

Fire broke out in the home of Charles M. McCarty, 10180 Page avenue, Overland, in the absence of the family last night. Damage to the living room and a bedroom, to which the fire was confined, was estimated at $2500 by firemen. The cause was undetermined.

H. K. WANGELIN RENAMED HEAD OF STATE G.O.P.

Albert E. Schoenbeck, Finding His Support Insufficient, Decides Against Running.

By EDWARD H. THORNTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 9—H. Kenneth Wangelin of Poplar Bluff was re-elected chairman of the State Republican Committee here today by acclamation after pre-convention skirmishing revealed his opponents lacked sufficient strength to unseat him.

Wangelin, who heads the state Republican faction once led by the late Barak T. Mattingly of St. Louis, will be serving his first full term. He was elected about 18 months ago to serve out the unexpired term of Perry Compton of Montgomery City, who resigned.

Although Wangelin was the only nominee, the anti-Wangelin forces did not capitulate until the last minute. They were trying to gain enough votes of the 44 members to elect Albert E. Schoenbeck, St. Louis attorney. Although 23 votes were needed, they were unable to muster this number.

G.O.P. Gains in View.

After Schoenbeck decided against making the race, he said the Republicans had a good chance to win at least three Congressional seats in Missouri in November and to make a first step toward electing a Republican governor in 1960.

"My friends and I are going to do everything possible for a Republican victory in November," he said.

Other officers elected were Miss Anne Richards, Brookfield, vice chairman; Mrs. Ivan Forshee, Leadwood, secretary, and Louis Eckelkamp, Washington, treasurer. All were incumbents except Mrs. Forshee who succeeds Miss Harriet Combs of Kansas City. Miss Combs was not a candidate for re-election.

Symington Denounced.

After the organizational meeting was concluded, the convention was told that speeches by United States Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, "belittling", the United States defense might have encouraged Chinese Communists to shell islands off the China coast. The statement was made by United States Representative Richard M. Simpson (Rep.), Pennsylvania, in a prepared speech.

Other scheduled speakers were Miss Hazel Palmer of Sedalia, the Republican nominee for the Senate seat of Symington, and Meredith (Pete) Garten of Pierce City, the G.O.P. canidate for state auditor.

"It is disheartening to note that just a few days after Symington belittled the American defense effort on the floor of the Senate," Simpson said, "the Chinese Communists launched a heavy attack on the islands."

The Chinese Communists might have "believed" the Missouri Senator's speeches "belittling the United States Army and the American missile program in comparison with the Russian program," Simpson told the delegates.

'Carping Criticism.'

The Pennsylvania Republican said Symington has kept himself in the public print "through his carping criticism of the nation's defense efforts."

Simpson said Symington; Senators Lyndon Johnson of Texas, majority floor leader, and John Kennedy of Massachusetts, and "other Senate Democrats have been badly bitten by the bug of unbridled ambition."

"They seem to be thinking in terms of the Democratic presidential nomination and apparently feel that they can further their ambitions at the expense of the taxpayers by outspending (the late President) Franklin D. Roosevelt and (Former President) Harry Truman," Simpson said.

Congress set a record in peacetime appropriations this year, he said, "because the Democrats planned it that way." Simpson, chairman of the G.O.P. congressional campaign committee, said the nearly $81,000,000,000 in appropriations amounts to an average of $465 a person in the United States. He added, "The Democrats will spend even more recklessly if given a chance."

Oher Spending 'Prevented.'

Republicans in Congress, he said, were backed up by presidential vetoes and veto-threats and thus were able to prevent another nine billions dollars in appropriations or loans proposed by Democrats.

In a speech prepared for delivery, Miss Palmer urged the election of a Republican Congress to support President Eisenhower's program in the last two years of his presidency "lest he be thwarted in his worthwhile legislature proposals by political ambitions of others for 1960."

"You and I witnessed such a catastrophe under the last two years of President Hoover's administration," she declared. "This we cannot let happen again to the American people.

"We must not put President Eisenhower in a position to have him bridled with a Congress bent on his political destruction in order that they might build up a case for a return of the New Deal, Fair Deal to power in 1960."

Task For G.O.P.

Miss Palmer said there was much to do in the days ahead if Republicans wished to stem the tide of "Communism, socialism, corruption, racketeering, labor bossism and deficit spending."

Garten, announcing a "great resurgence" of Republican sentiment in Missouri in his prepared speech, decried reports he had already been beaten by his Democratic opponent, State Auditor Haskell Holman.

Mothers Rise Against Removal Of Stop Signs on Way to School

Group Forms Human Chain Across Jamieson Avenue to Help Children — Second Day of Demonstrating.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Mothers of Lindenwood School children stopped traffic at Pernod and Jamieson avenues today to let their children cross heavily traveled Jamieson. The demonstration was a protest against the removal of stop signs.

This was the second day some of the group appeared. They are objecting to removal of stop signs on Jamieson at Lindenwood place and at Pernod and from Lansdowne avenue at McCausland avenue. Removal of the signs was voted by the Board of Aldermen, following recommendations of the Barton traffic survey.

Mrs. Clifford D. Spitler, 4201 Prather avenue, one of the mothers, said the group's complaints have resulted in an investigation of the situation by the city traffic department.

"This is the only way we know to attract attention to our problem and to protect our children," Mrs. Spitler said. "We have complained to the traffic division previously, but nothing happened."

The mothers held hands, forming a human chain across Jamieson today. Some of them carried signs saying: "Stop! Let our children across."

More than 100 school children use the three crossings each day, Mrs. Spitler said, and although there is an adult crossing guard at Lansdowne and McCausland, he reported difficulty in stopping traffic. At the other crossings, school safety patrol members are on duty before and after school.

Yesterday's demonstration by the mothers was short, because they found a traffic policeman on hand to take charge. Director of Streets Henry S. Miller said his department would investigate and recommend corrective measures.

13 OF 16 KILLED AS B-52S TRYING TO LAND COLLIDE

Debris Smashes Service Station Sign Near Spokane — No One on Ground Hurt.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 9 (AP)—A giant B-52 jet bomber sliced into the side of another at sundown last night and both planes crashed in flames near a busy highway. Thirteen of the 16 men were killed.

A 200-pound chunk of landing gear smashed through a service station sign and skidded to rest on the shoulder of Highway 2, a main link between Spokane and Seattle.

The crash, flying debris and the explosion as the planes hit the ground terrified two fleeing service station attendants and two customers, along with patrons of a nearby tavern, but no one on the ground was hurt.

The $8,000,000 B-52s, prime atom bomb carriers of the Strategic Air Command, were making landings at Fairchild Air Force base when they collided about 1500 feet over the highway.

Joe Martella, a service station attendant, said both planes were turning at the time.

"I looked up when I heard a tremendous roar from the engines of one plane," he said. "The pilot seemed to be trying to get out of the way. Then they hit. The wing of one hit the other right behind the cockpit and it looked like it was cut in two." Martella and the station owner, Mike Anderson, ran across the highway and dived into a ditch.

A big hunk of fuselage fell within 40 feet of the highway and burned. The other plane crashed about a mile away. There was a third pile of wreckage in a farmer's field, 10 miles west of here.

The planes were less than two miles from the airport runway when they collided. Nine months ago, another eight-engine B-52 crashed on takeoff from Fairchild, killing eight persons.

Sgt. Charles Eihlers was sitting in the tavern about 150 yards down the highway from where one plane hit.

"I ran out in this field and found one captain who was badly hurt," he said. "I also noticed three parachutes in the air."

The parachutes apparently were part of automatic ejection seats that were touched off by the crash, Martella said he did not see anyone in them.

The B-52s were carrying some "classified materials" but officials said these did not include nuclear weapons.

AEC TO EXPLODE ATOMIC WEAPON FROM BALLOON

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 9 (AP)—Explosion of an atomic weapon from a balloon will set off the final phase of the United States's 1958 nuclear test series about Sept. 15, the Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday.

The AEC did not specify the size of the weapon, but has announced that all of the 10 scheduled tests at the Nevada test site will be relatively small. The largest, it said, will be in the range of 20 kilotons, equal to the force of 20,000 tons of TNT.

The second shot at the test site 90 miles northwest of here is scheduled for Sept. 25. This will be detonated atop a 50-foot tower, the lowest firing platform ever used in Nevada. Several of the explosions will be in deep underground tunnels. All 10 tests will be open to observation by newsmen.

MAN ARRESTED ON GIRL'S CHARGE HE ATTACKED HER

Irby Williams, a former convict, was held today on complaint of a 16-year-old girl, who told police he criminally attacked her in a garage back of his home in the 2900 block of Eads avenue last night.

The girl said she met Williams, 23 years old, at a drive-in restaurant and got into his automobile after he took her small radio and locked it in the glove compartment. He drove her to the garage, and following the attack, returned her to the restaurant, she told officers.

Williams, an automobile assembler, denied the charge. Police said he served a penitentiary term for rape committed in Shannon county.

YOUTH CONVICTED OF ATTACK ON GIRL ADMITS ANOTHER

Alvin E. Snell, 17 years old, previously convicted of statutory rape and sentenced to serve six years in prison, received a concurrent six-year term on a plea of guilty to a similar charge before Circuit Judge William E. Killoren yesterday.

Snell, who gave an address in the 1600 block of Hogan street, was convicted by a circuit court jury last June of an attack on a 14-year-old girl. He entered a guilty plea in an attack on a second 14-year-old girl, who was dragged into an automobile by Snell and a 20-year-old companion.

Formosa Crisis

fending other islands such as the Quemoys and Matsus. It still is not clear, but Mr. Eisenhower said recently that the so-called offshore islands were now more closely tied to Formosa than three years ago. Reports say Chiang has stationed about a third of his army on Quemoy.

Dulles said the shifting of troops by Chiang was not urged nor encouraged by the United States, but he added that this country did not oppose it. The decision, he said, was taken by the Chinese Nationalists, whose government he described as sovereign. Formosa is not a puppet, he said.

Asked whether he thought it wise to stand by while Chiang was taking troops from Formosa and putting them on Quemoy, under easy reach of Communist shore batteries, Dulles replied that an effort to impose United States will on the Nationalists would have weakened the defensive position of the United States in the area.

This country must maintain the good will and morale of its friends, Dulles said. He stressed again that the prestige of the free world in the western Pacific was involved.

Replying to a question, Dulles conceded this country has neither sought nor obtained assurances of support from its allies in pursuing its Formosa policy. Regardless of the merits of the case, he said, America's allies and neutral countries are in general agreement the issues should not be resolved by force.

Dulles also said he did not think there would be a general war if we stand firm and united, and he was asked later how the allies could be united if they were not consulted.

He replied he had misunderstood the earlier question, but added the United States should not try to require all its allies to agree to everything it does in an area in which it has primary responsibility. He apparently meant that the United States is bound by treaty to Formosa, which Britain and other United States allies do not recognize.

Dulles was asked several questions bearing specifically on whether a decision has been made to defend Quemoy and Matsu and how the United States would react to certain eventualities.

He repeatedly stressed that Mr. Eisenhower has not made a decision, and that specific answers could not be given to other questions.

"What happens if a Communist shell hits an American ship?" Dulles was asked by a reporter who had referred to United States Navy convoys of Nationalist Formosa - Quemoy shipping.

Dulles replied he could not say, that it would depend on whether the attack was deliberate or accidental. If it was a deliberate attack he would expect the American vessels to reply in some way, Dulles said.

Dulles was asked whether the United States would agree to Nationalist air raids on Chinese Communist air fields if Communist bombers based on those fields bombed Quemoy, which hitherto has been subjected only to shelling. Dulles said he thought it would not be in the national interest to discuss this.

The Secretary said that all of President Eisenhower's top military and civilian advisers are in agreement on Formosa policy.

RUSSIA IS URGED TO CURB PEIPING

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 9 (AP)—President Eisenhower wants Russia to put a check-rein on Red China's territorial expansion ambitions in the dangerous Far East crisis.

A proposal that the Chinese Communists be cautioned strongly by their Moscow allies was issued at the summer White House lat yesterday. It was the President's reaction to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's demand that American forces be withdrawn from the Formosa strait area.

Khrushchev, in a letter to Mr. Eisenhower declared that Russia would regard an attack on Red China as an attack on the Soviet Union.

He warned of a "situation which no one would be able to get out of, neither you nor we, should war break out in the Far East."

He accused the United States of "atomic blackmail" and "open provocation." He said the United States had seized Formosa by force and now is trying "to extend its aggression to China's offshore islands."

The United States came back with an accusation that the Peiping government has taken unprovoked military action against the Chinese Nationalists in heavy bombardment of the offshore island of Quemoy.

Moscow made public Khrushchev's message just four hours after Red China's Mao Tse-tung had expressed hope in Peiping that talks with the United States at the ambassadorial level would begin as soon as possible in Warsaw.

White House Proposal.

The White House had proposed Poland's capital as the site after the Chinese Communists suggested negotiations looking toward Far East peace.

In the light of the further indication that the Reds are willing to negotiate, the general reaction at both the President's headquarters and in Washington seemed to be that Russia and Red China alike are much more anxious to talk than fight.

United States officials let it be known privately that compliance with Khrushchev's demand for withdrawal of the Seventh Fleet and other American forces from the Formosa area is not in the picture at all under circumstances now existing there. The officials said the United States won't be cowed or browbeaten.

The withdrawal demand was coupled with a fresh call by Khrushchev for United States diplomatic recognition of Red China.

Administration officials are sizing up the recognition call and the withdrawal demand as a Soviet-Red China power move aimed at throwing the Formosa area crisis into the United Nations with a view to winning a U.N. seat for the Peiping regime.

Success in that maneuver would oust Nationalist China as a U.N. member. The United States is committed to defense of the Nationalist government and already is convoying Chiang Kai-shek supplies to heavily bombarded Quemoy, offshore island bastion of the Formosa Chinese.

The initial United States reaction to the latest Khrushchev message to Mr. Eisenhower came several hours after the vacationing President received it, but shortly after the Moscow radio made it public.

Authorized Statement.

Mr. Eisenhower—after twice talking by telephone with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Washington—authorized Press Secretary James C. Hagerty to issue a statement saying:

"President Eisenhower received this morning from the United States embassy in Moscow the text of a lengthy communication from Chairman Khrushchev. After the President has had an opportunity to study it more fully he will make such reply as seems appropriate.

"The letter deals with the situation which has developed in the area of Taiwan (Formosa) and the Taiwan straits. Mr. Khrushchev's communication calls this a dangerous situation. The United States has already recognized the danger and hopes that it will be mitigated by resumption of the ambassadorial talks between the United States and the Chinese Communist regime.

"The evident cause of the danger is the unprovoked military action taken by the Chinese Communists who, beginning Aug. 23, have been subjecting Quemoy to heavy artillery bombardment and harassing the regular supply of Quemoy with its population of some 125,000 persons. This military activity is proclaimed by the official Peiping radio as being in order to take by armed force Taiwan (Formosa) as well as Quemoy and Matsu.

"The President earnestly hopes that the Chinese Communist regime will not again, as in the case of Korea, use armed force to achieve territorial ambitions.

"That would be to defy the basic principles upon which world order depends.

Quemoy Attack

the Communists' land, sea and air forces opposite Formosa had made "full combat preparations" for any attack.

Ready to Respond.

These forces "are ready to respond to the call of the motherland to give annihilating blows to the United States aggressors if they dare to invade China's territorial land, sea or air," the radio said.

The radio said airmen "declared they would fight to the very end in defense of the territorial air of the motherland." It said navy units were "fully ready and determined to defend the territorial sea of the motherland and to deal blows to the United States war provocateurs."

Infantry units, Peiping said, "have also made full preparations to defend the territory of the motherland against aggression."

The Peiping People's Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist government, said:

"The United States should immediately rein in its horse at the brink of the precipice." This echoed a broadcast by the Moscow radio which said the United States was standing on the brink of a precipice in the Far East.

The newspaper said of the United States naval escort of Nationalist ships:

"The United States has fallen into an extremely dangerous position in which it might at any time come into direct military conflict with China."

It called the American actions the "most dangerous military adventure since the end of the second world war."

The Nationalists meanwhile awarded $500 to each pilot shooting down a Communist MIG in yesterday's big air battle—$1000 to Capt. Liu Hsien-wu, 27 years old, who shot down two. The Nationalists also offered a gold reward to Communist sailors deserting to the Nationalists and promised them they would retain their same rank.

Assurance of Supplies.

By the Associated Press.

With United States help the Chinese Nationalists can keep the Quemoy islands supplied despite "a relatively determined effort by the Chinese Communists" to blockade the besieged outposts, V. Adm. Wallace M. Beakley said today.

The commander of the United States Seventh Fleet in the Formosa strait indicated, however, that United States help at present consists in escorting Nationalist supply convoys no closer than within three miles of Quemoy. The United States recognizes only a three-mile limit to Chinese coastal waters despite a Communist claim last week of a 12-mile limit.

The first American escort Sunday "was to show that the United States is not going to stand by idly and see these islands starve," Beakley said on his flagship, the Cruiser Helena.

"The mission was to see that the Chinese Nationalist supply ships and their escorts had a safe passage through international waters and this mission was accomplished," he said in an interview for broadcast by the armed forces' Far East network.

On Sunday, Communist artillery on the mainland withheld fire but yesterday it blasted away at the Nationalist ships as they beached on Quemoy. The Nationalist defense ministry said an ammunition ship was blown up and a food ship was forced to retreat without unloading.

Beakley said "none of our (American) ships has been shot at yet," but the resumption of heavy Red shelling "changes the picture completely."

Up to midafternoon there were no reports of a third United States escort mission today, but word from the fleet indicated the holdup was because of bad weather.

Tough Job for Nationalists.

"The Chinese Communists' great interdiction capability lies in their shore batteries," the admiral said. "If these must be silenced, it will be a tough job for the Chinese Nationalists to take on."

The Nationalists on Formosa continued to indicate they might bomb the mainland batteries. Radio broadcasts renewed appeals to civilians to move away from Communist artillery emplacements.

Responsible quarters asserted, however, that United States approval still was needed for any strike at the mainland and there was no indication such approval was forthcoming.

The Peiping radio reported millions of Chinese demonstrated on the mainland against the United States. "Demonstrations against United States aggression are sweeping both town and country in Honan province with more than 20,000,000 people—half the population—taking part," the broadcast said.

QUESTION: How did you decide where to buy your new car?

William A. Fitzsimmons, president of Fashion Lane Tailors, Inc., 704 Washington Blvd.: "In my business it is necessary that I travel many states so I need good, reliable transportation. As I had been thinking about buying a new car for several for months, I naturally got prices from a lot of dealers in my territory as well as in St. Louis. Well, the way it turned out Bob Swan at Pioneer Plymouth made me by far the best deal I could find anywhere so I ended up buying two new 1958 Plymouths from him. They had just the cars I wanted in stock and really went out of their way to make the transactions most pleasant. I heartily recommend Pioneer Plymouth at 2323 South Jefferson as the best place to buy your new car."

Robert Marts, Warehouseman, 2832a Lyon: "I noticed the testimonials that Pioneer Plymouth has in the newspaper and I figured that if so many people are satisfied with their dealings it's a nice place to do business. I was more than happy when I found out that the car I bought carried a full year written guarantee that covered both labor and parts on all major repairs and is good anywhere in the United States. I certainly would recommend Chas. Bushawn, the salesman who took such good care of our needs, and Pioneer Plymouth, 2323 South Jefferson."

Two Things Every Person Should Do:

1. Once a week, check your weight on accurate scales. Weigh at the same time, and with the same weight of clothing. If weight increases or decreases sharply, see your doctor.

2. Eat a well-balanced diet of the "Basic Foods" . . . don't cut out necessary foods . . . eat enough of each to maintain normal weight.

Lactalbumin, The Protein "Booster" From Milk, Gives It A "More Complete Protein-To-Calorie Ratio"†

In the brain's hypothalamic region, the appetite control center acts, in normal people, to increase your appetite . . . or to reduce your appetite.

Eating any good protein, carbohydrate food 30 to 60 minutes before your regular meal can help you curb your appetite.

Obviously, the less you crave food . . . the less you eat!

Follow The Profile Bread Plan To Help Control Weight

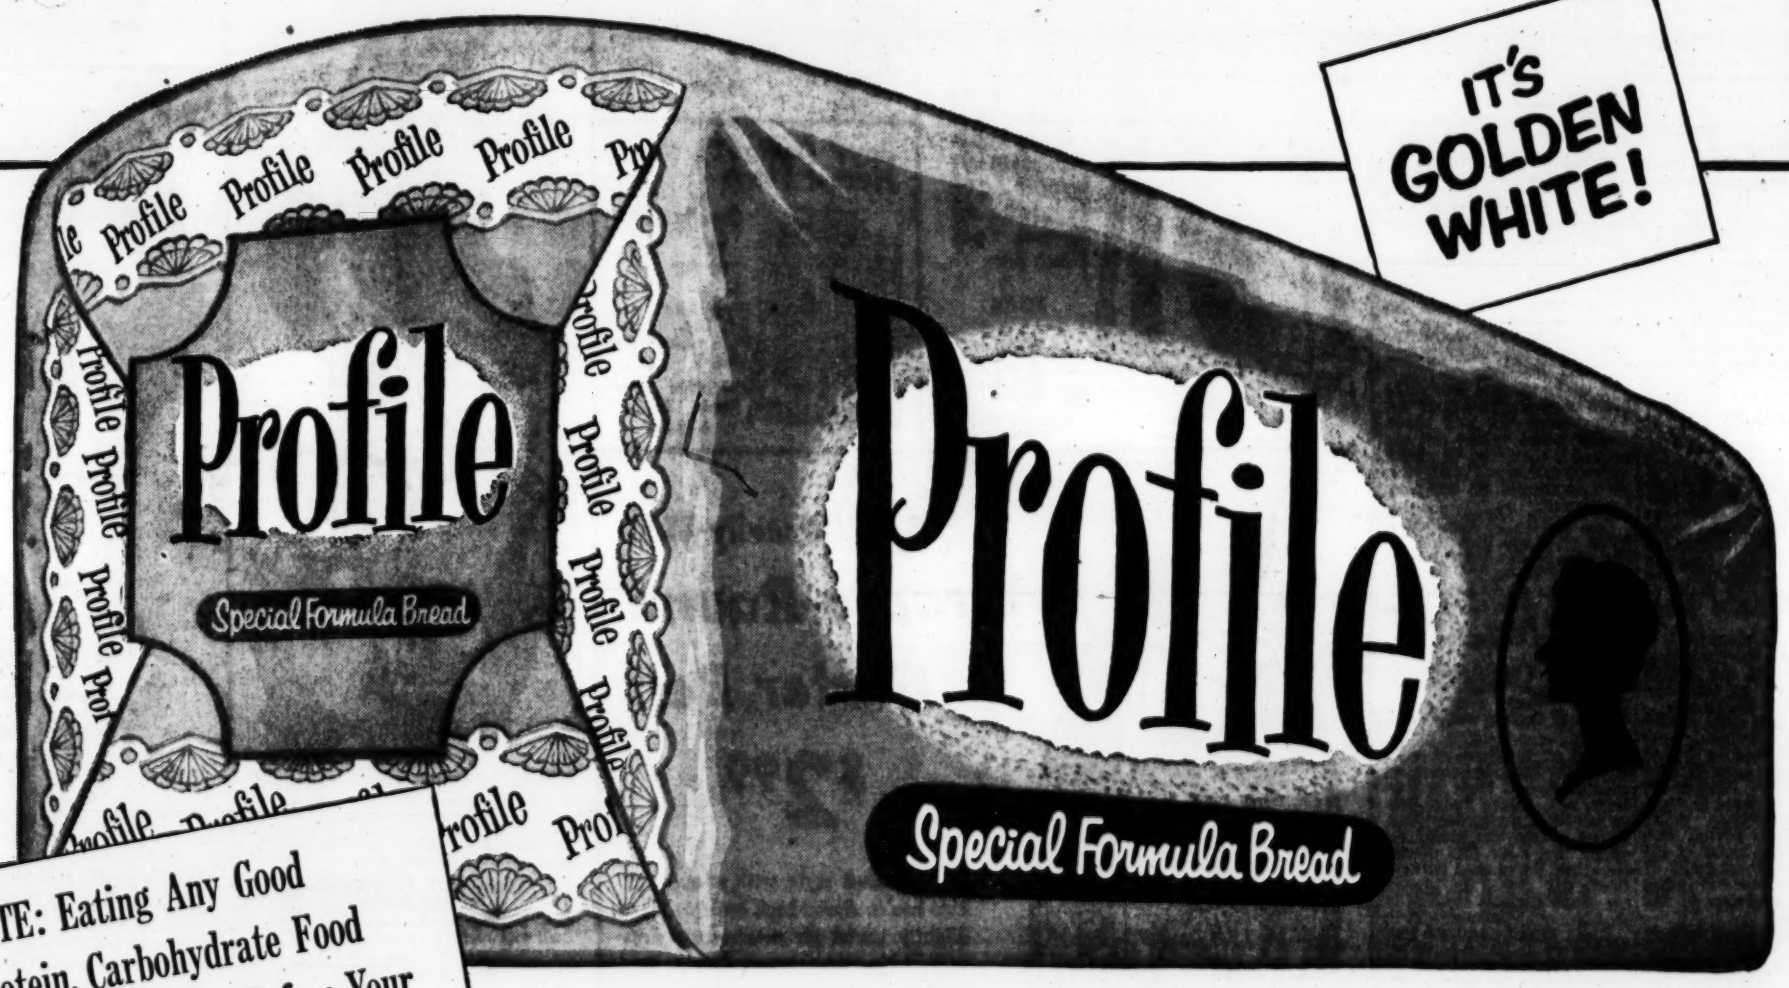

Eating two slices of Profile Bread 30 minutes before lunch or dinner should appease your appetite. So the average person can avoid gaining weight. That is the essence of the Profile Bread Plan for controlling weight.

Then there are the people who find it possible to reduce by one means or another, but find it difficult to control their weight after reducing.

Thus, may start gaining weight again. The simplest way to weight control is through appetite control. That's where the Profile Bread Plan comes in. To help you appease appetite—to avoid gaining weight.

Four slices of Profile Bread cost about a nickel. Many ordinary wafers, pills, and tablets, used for hunger appeasement, cost up to twice as much. Thus, the Profile Bread Plan can help curb appetite for less money.

Because The Profile Bread Plan Can Help Normal People Appease The Appetite Control Center In The Brain—So You Don't Overeat

Following The Profile Bread Plan, You Don't Need More Expensive Hunger-Appeasing Wafers, Pills, And Tablets

A Wonderful Loaf For All The Family Because About 24% More Complete Protein Than Ordinary Bread!

Two Things Every Person Should Do:

1. Once a week, check your weight on accurate scales. Weigh at the same time, and with the same weight of clothing. If weight increases or decreases sharply, see your doctor.

2. Eat a well-balanced diet of the "Basic Foods" . . . don't cut out necessary foods . . . eat enough of each to maintain normal weight.

Lactalbumin, The Protein "Booster" From Milk, Gives It A "More Complete Protein-To-Calorie Ratio"†

In the brain's hypothalamic region, the appetite control center acts, in normal people, to increase your appetite . . . or to reduce your appetite.

Eating any good protein, carbohydrate food 30 to 60 minutes before your regular meal can help you curb your appetite.

Obviously, the less you crave food . . . the less you eat!

Follow The Profile Bread Plan To Help Control Weight

Eating two slices of Profile Bread 30 minutes before lunch or dinner should appease your appetite. So the average person can avoid gaining weight. That is the essence of the Profile Bread Plan for controlling weight.

Then there are the people who find it possible to reduce by one means or another, but find it difficult to control their weight after reducing.

Thus, may start gaining weight again. The simplest way to weight control is through appetite control. That's where the Profile Bread Plan comes in. To help you appease appetite—to avoid gaining weight.

Four slices of Profile Bread cost about a nickel. Many ordinary wafers, pills, and tablets, used for hunger appeasement, cost up to twice as much. Thus, the Profile Bread Plan can help curb appetite for less money.

advise you that the Department of Justice is prepared to give its co-operation and to assist in any way which may be helpful to you in making the suggested application to the district court."

In a petition filed with the Supreme Court yesterday, the school board asserted that "the legislative and political departments of the United States Government have displayed little willingness to assist in the implementation" of the High Court's original decision against school segregation.

Gives Reason for Letter.

Rogers took note in his letter that school board attorneys had urged the Supreme Court to permit a delay in Central integration. He said his letter was "not an attempt to affect that position in any way," and added:

"It is written rather in the hope, whatever the contingency, that with careful, advance planning by responsible officials concerned each will be able effectively to perform the solemn duties imposed on him by law, and that violence and disorder, which are so harmful to the national interest, may be thus prevented.

"Officers of the Department of Justice will be ready to confer with you, your counsel, or any representative or representatives of the Little Rock school board, as soon as it is convenient for you."

Officials told reporters the two letters were the final drafts of proposed communications to the local authorities on which top department officials have been working for more than a week.

ANOTHER PLEA MADE FOR DELAY

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — The Supreme Court had before it today another plea by the Little Rock Board of Education for delay in the racial integration program in the Arkansas capital's Central High School.

The petition for a writ of certiorari was filed in accordance with the instructions of the court at a special session Aug. 28. The board, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Department of Justice are to file briefs on the merits of the case. The court will hear oral arguments Thursday.

"This case calls for a decision more far-reaching, studied and comprehensive than the superficial treatment accorded the matter in the Circuit Court of Appeals," the petition said.

The Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis last Aug. 18 upset a ruling of United States District Judge Harry J. Lemley, granting a 2½-year suspension of Little Rock's integration schedule. The appellate court stayed its decision to permit appeal to the Supreme Court. The N.A.A.C.P. has asked the Supreme Court to vacate the appellate court's stay.

No Action Against Mob.

In addition to the findings of the district court, the petition continued, there are other factors revealed in the record.

"Many of the mob participants were identifiable but none were charged by federal law enforcement agencies," the petition went on. "The pupils who became involved in disciplinary investigations were being guided by adults. The FBI made a full report of the situation; the Department of Justice has not seen fit to make this report available to the school board.

"Nor was the report utilized by the Department of Justice since it publicly dropped plans to prosecute agitators. The legislative, executive and judicial departments of the State government opposed the desegregation of Little Rock schools by enacting laws calling out troops, making statements villifying federal law and federal courts, and failing to utilize state law enforcement agencies and judicial processes to maintain public peace."

Obstruction by State.

The action offensive to the Fourteenth Amendment (forbidding states to abridge the priviliges of United States citizens) "is mass opposition to integration by the people of the state and obstruction by the state itself," the petition said.

Late last month the opening of school in Little Rock was delayed until next Monday. It was in connection with the new opening date that the Supreme Court scheduled this week's actions.

"Whatever the answer may be," the board's petition said, "it certainly is not to simply return the school district to the bedlam, turmoil and chaos which has been destroying the school district and has emasculated the educational program."

Three courses seem open to the Supreme Court: It could refuse to review the appellate court's decision and in effect order continuation of integration at this time. It could review the decision and affirm it, which also would mean resumption of the integration process. It could accept yesterday's petition and reverse the Eighth Circuit, which would be a ruling for the school board.

Criticizes State and U.S.

In the petition the board criticized both the federal and state governments, and by implication Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who called out the National Guard to prevent integration last fall and who has been devising various means for thwarting the program this year.

The school board said that the questions presented are:

"Whether a court of equity may postpone the enforcement of the respondents constitutional rights if the continued enforcement thereof will result in an intolerable situation and great disruption of the educational process to the detriment of the public interest, the schools and the students, including the respondents.

"Whether a school district has a duty and obligation, by invoking extraordinary legal processes and otherwise, to quell violence, disorder and organized resistance to desegregation."

Broad Scale Decision.

The board appeared to be asking for a Supreme Court ruling that would apply on a much broader scale than to Little Rock alone. The petition stated:

"Denial of relief to the school district will have a profound effect over the nation. There are thousands of school districts that have not made a step toward desegregation. In their repose these districts are conducting educational programs without harassment of any sort albeit constitutional rights declared by the Brown decisions are being violated.

"Thus it would be the height of irony if the Little Rock school district, having made the start in good faith, were denied this postponement at the expense of the entire educational program at the high school level."

Denial of the petition, the board said, "would discourage any further voluntary compliance by school districts with the Brown decision (directing integration.)"

NO INJUNCTION AT VAN BUREN

VAN BUREN, Ark., Sept. 9 (AP) — United States District Judge John E. Miller declined yesterday to give immediate injunctive relief to permit Negro students to attend Van Buren High School. He suggested that an attorney for the National association for the Advancement of Colored People follow proper legal procedure by filing a new suit and seeking a temporary injunction at that time. The attorney indicated he would follow the judge's advice.

Thirteen Negro students have stayed away from Van Buren High School since last Thursday when about 45 "striking" white students threatened to prevent them from entering the building. Negro leaders here indicated that all would remain out of school pending the outcome of court action.

Three white students and two adults maintained a watch across the street from the high school today. The three students left about 45 minutes after school opened. One of them said the "strike" would be resumed if Negroes returned to class.

School officials reported that about 40 of the "strikers", had returned to school.

A white citizens committee opposed to integration of the high school met last night, elected a new leader and appointed a committee to confer with the city school board on a possible method of restoring segregation.

Sam Cox Jr., 30 years old, a truck driver, took over as chairman of the citizens committee following the resignation of George Links. Earlier the latter returned his three children to school and said he thought the boycott was near an end.

Van Buren police Chief Voll Russell said last night that the striking students were doing what they thought was right.

U. Simpson Tate of Dallas, counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, went to Harrison, Ark., where Judge Miller was holding court yesterday, to seek a temporary restraining order. The N.A.A.C.P. wanted the school board cited for contempt for failing to protect the Negro students enrolled in the 635-pupil Van Buren school.

Judge Miller told Tate that he had no desire to shirk responsibility and added that he was going to administer the law as he saw it.

Reviewing the history of the Van Buren case, the judge said he had dismissed a suit against the school board in August 1956 after the board "in good faith" had submitted a plan for integration.

He said that if the N.A.A.C.P. attorney would file an entirely new suit in his home court at Fort Smith by Sept. 19, he would hear the case on its merits by Sept. 25 or 26.

"I regret that some of the students might be inconvenienced by the delay," the judge said, "but I am looking to the ultimate solution."

Tate commented, "When the king speaks, the serf acts. . . ."

Maine Vote

close what the Senator said, but was heard to reply:

"Thank you, Fred. I know it isn't easy for you to call and it isn't easy for me to answer. I appreciate your sentiments and your courtesy."

Muskie said in a statement later he believed this was the first time in 100 years the Democratic party had a majority of the state's congressional deelgation—one of two Senators and two of three Representatives. The other Senate seat is held by Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, a Republican whose term expires in 1961.

"This is an overwhelming indorsement by the people of Maine of our efforts to make the Democratic party a responsible and effective political force, truly interested primarily in doing a job for the people of Maine," Muskie commented.

The Senator-elect said he intends to take a vacation, probably next week. He said he expects to campaign for Democratic candidates in other parts of the country, although he does not yet have any specific engagements.

Biggest Victory Margin.

Although the total vote was short of a record, Muskie's 171,942 gave him his largest victory margin ever, 59,764 votes. He was re-elected to his second term as Governor two years ago by 55,859 votes.

Payne's 112,178 votes represented a sharp drop from his 139,205 in 1952 when he was elected to the Senate by a margin of 56,540.

Adding to Republican woes, Clauson's governorship term will be for four years instead of two, under a state constitutional change.

Warm, sunny weather favored the voters as they engaged for the last time in the traditional September election. The September date was chosen when Maine became a state as a favorable time between early and late harvests. Also, November rains often turned dirt roads into quagmires.

The early date gave rise to the slogan that "As Maine goes so goes the nation," a contention that has not always held true.

With farming no longer the predominent occupation, and with dirt roads replaced by hard surfaced highways, the voters decided last year to go along with other states in November elections, starting in 1960.

Primary Elections Scheduled Today in 10 States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (UPI) —Ten states hold primary elections today, leaving only Rhode Island and Georgia to select party nominees for the November general election.

At stake were nominations for eight United States Senate seats, seven governorships and 59 House seats in Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Georgia, where nomination is tantamount to election, holds its primary tomorrow, while Rhode Island holds its Democratic primary Sept. 17 and a Republican contest Sept. 25.

Negro's 1940 Fight Against Klan, Flight to East St. Louis Related

How a Negro minister battled a Ku Klux Klan mob in Tennessee, fled to East St. Louis and started a new life under an assumed name was related yesterday by James W. McRoberts, attorney for Burton Dodson.

Dodson, who is 76 years old, has been using the name of Charles Taylor since he came to East St. Louis in 1940, his attorney stated.

Arrested last Wednesday on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder, he is being held in the St. Louis jail in lieu of $25,000 bond pending a hearing Sept. 22.

McRoberts said that Dodson formerly lived in Fayette county, Tenn., about 50 miles east of Memphis, and was at home with his wife and six children when a mob wearing pillowcase hoods surrounded the house on the night of March 23, 1940.

Searchlights were focused on the house, an improvised scaffold was erected and Dodson was ordered to "come out and get hung," McRoberts related.

The mob promised the wife and children safe conduct, he continued, but when they came out a son and daughter were beaten, the girl so severely injured she later died. When the mob poured a fusillade of bullets into the house, Dodson returned the fire, his attorney said, and Olian Burra, a deputy sheriff, was killed.

Dodson slipped out of the house and, although pursued with bloodhounds for two days, made his escape. For the last eight years he has been working as a night watchman for a physician. His family has been living in Detroit.

ANOTHER BRICKER CHOICE NAMED TO ICC BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—For the second straight time, Senator John W. Bricker (Rep.), Ohio, has persuaded the White House to name his candidate for a vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

About two years ago, President Eisenhower picked Robert Minor, on Bricker's recommendation, as an ICC commissioner. Minor, of Columbus, O., once was Bricker's administrative assistant.

Last Friday, Minor said he was leaving. On the following day, Mr. Eisenhower named Charles A. Webb to replace Minor—again on Bricker's recommendation. Webb is Bricker's legislative assistant.

Webb's new job pays $20,000 a year for a seven-year term. The appointment goes to the Senate for confirmation when Congress returns in January. The ICC regulates the nation's transportation industry.

A Bricker aid, asked by a reporter to explain the Senator's ability to have two commissioners picked in a row, replied: "Senator Bricker, as ranking Republican on the Interstate Commerce Committee, is always consulted (about ICC jobs) and is in a good position to know when there are vacancies."

Puts the Bite on Opponent.

NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 9 (UPI)—Attorney Donald J. Irwin yesterday reported receipt of a mailed request for a contribution from the campaign committee of Republican Representative Albert P. Morano. Irwin, who is the Democratic candidate opposing Morano, called his opponent an "extreme optimist."

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — The Supreme Court had before it today another plea by the Little Rock Board of Education for delay in the racial integration program in the Arkansas capital's Central High School.

The petition for a writ of certiorari was filed in accordance with the instructions of the court at a special session Aug. 28. The board, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Department of Justice are to file briefs on the merits of the case. The court will hear oral arguments Thursday.

"This case calls for a decision more far-reaching, studied and comprehensive than the superficial treatment accorded the matter in the Circuit Court of Appeals," the petition said.

The Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis last Aug. 18 upset a ruling of United States District Judge Harry J. Lemley, granting a 2½-year suspension of Little Rock's integration schedule. The appellate court stayed its decision to permit appeal to the Supreme Court. The N.A.A.C.P. has asked the Supreme Court to vacate the appellate court's stay.

No Action Against Mob.

In addition to the findings of the district court, the petition continued, there are other factors revealed in the record.

"Many of the mob participants were identifiable but none were charged by federal law enforcement agencies," the petition went on. "The pupils who became involved in disciplinary investigations were being guided by adults. The FBI made a full report of the situation; the Department of Justice has not seen fit to make this report available to the school board.

"Nor was the report utilized by the Department of Justice since it publicly dropped plans to prosecute agitators. The legislative, executive and judicial departments of the State government opposed the desegregation of Little Rock schools by enacting laws calling out troops, making statements villifying federal law and federal courts, and failing to utilize state law enforcement agencies and judicial processes to maintain public peace."

Obstruction by State.

The action offensive to the Fourteenth Amendment (forbidding states to abridge the priviliges of United States citizens) "is mass opposition to integration by the people of the state and obstruction by the state itself," the petition said.

Late last month the opening of school in Little Rock was delayed until next Monday. It was in connection with the new opening date that the Supreme Court scheduled this week's actions.

"Whatever the answer may be," the board's petition said, "it certainly is not to simply return the school district to the bedlam, turmoil and chaos which has been destroying the school district and has emasculated the educational program."

Three courses seem open to the Supreme Court: It could refuse to review the appellate court's decision and in effect order continuation of integration at this time. It could review the decision and affirm it, which also would mean resumption of the integration process. It could accept yesterday's petition and reverse the Eighth Circuit, which would be a ruling for the school board.

Criticizes State and U.S.

In the petition the board criticized both the federal and state governments, and by implication Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who called out the National Guard to prevent integration last fall and who has been devising various means for thwarting the program this year.

The school board said that the questions presented are:

"Whether a court of equity may postpone the enforcement of the respondents constitutional rights if the continued enforcement thereof will result in an intolerable situation and great disruption of the educational process to the detriment of the public interest, the schools and the students, including the respondents.

"Whether a school district has a duty and obligation, by invoking extraordinary legal processes and otherwise, to quell violence, disorder and organized resistance to desegregation."

Broad Scale Decision.

The board appeared to be asking for a Supreme Court ruling that would apply on a much broader scale than to Little Rock alone. The petition stated:

"Denial of relief to the school district will have a profound effect over the nation. There are thousands of school districts that have not made a step toward desegregation. In their repose these districts are conducting educational programs without harassment of any sort albeit constitutional rights declared by the Brown decisions are being violated.

"Thus it would be the height of irony if the Little Rock school district, having made the start in good faith, were denied this postponement at the expense of the entire educational program at the high school level."

Denial of the petition, the board said, "would discourage any further voluntary compliance by school districts with the Brown decision (directing integration.)"

NO INJUNCTION AT VAN BUREN

VAN BUREN, Ark., Sept. 9 (AP) — United States District Judge John E. Miller declined yesterday to give immediate injunctive relief to permit Negro students to attend Van Buren High School. He suggested that an attorney for the National association for the Advancement of Colored People follow proper legal procedure by filing a new suit and seeking a temporary injunction at that time. The attorney indicated he would follow the judge's advice.

Thirteen Negro students have stayed away from Van Buren High School since last Thursday when about 45 "striking" white students threatened to prevent them from entering the building. Negro leaders here indicated that all would remain out of school pending the outcome of court action.

Three white students and two adults maintained a watch across the street from the high school today. The three students left about 45 minutes after school opened. One of them said the "strike" would be resumed if Negroes returned to class.

School officials reported that about 40 of the "strikers" had returned to school.

A white citizens committee opposed to integration of the high school met last night, elected a new leader and appointed a committee to confer with the city school board on a possible method of restoring segregation.

Sam Cox Jr., 30 years old, a truck driver, took over as chairman of the citizens committee following the resignation of George Links. Earlier the latter returned his three children to school and said he thought the boycott was near an end.

Van Buren police Chief Voll Russell said last night that the striking students were doing what they thought was right.

U. Simpson Tate of Dallas, counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, went to Harrison, Ark., where Judge Miller was holding court yesterday, to seek a temporary restraining order. The N.A.A.C.P. wanted the school board cited for contempt for failing to protect the Negro students enrolled in the 635-pupil Van Buren school.

Judge Miller told Tate that he had no desire to shirk responsibility and added that he was going to administer the law as he saw it.

Reviewing the history of the Van Buren case, the judge said he had dismissed a suit against the school board in August 1956 after the board "in good faith" had submitted a plan for integration.

He said that if the N.A.A.C.P. attorney would file an entirely new suit in his home court at Fort Smith by Sept. 19, he would hear the case on its merits by Sept. 25 or 26.

"I regret that some of the students might be inconvenienced by the delay," the judge said, "but I am looking to the ultimate solution."

Tate commented, "When the king speaks, the serf acts. . . ."

close what the Senator said, but was heard to reply:

"Thank you, Fred. I know it isn't easy for you to call and it isn't easy for me to answer. I appreciate your sentiments and your courtesy."

Muskie said in a statement later he believed this was the first time in 100 years the Democratic party had a majority of the state's congressional deelgation—one of two Senators and two of three Representatives. The other Senate seat is held by Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, a Republican whose term expires in 1961.

"This is an overwhelming indorsement by the people of Maine of our efforts to make the Democratic party a responsible and effective political force, truly interested primarily in doing a job for the people of Maine," Muskie commented.

The Senator-elect said he intends to take a vacation, probably next week. He said he expects to campaign for Democratic candidates in other parts of the country, although he does not yet have any specific engagements.

Biggest Victory Margin.

Although the total vote was short of a record, Muskie's 171,942 gave him his largest victory margin ever, 59,764 votes. He was re-elected to his second term as Governor two years ago by 55,859 votes.

Payne's 112,178 votes represented a sharp drop from his 139,205 in 1952 when he was elected to the Senate by a margin of 56,540.

Adding to Republican woes, Clauson's governorship term will be for four years instead of two, under a state constitutional change.

Warm, sunny weather favored the voters as they engaged for the last time in the traditional September election. The September date was chosen when Maine became a state as a favorable time between early and late harvests. Also, November rains often turned dirt roads into quagmires.

The early date gave rise to the slogan that "As Maine goes so goes the nation," a contention that has not always held true.

With farming no longer the predominent occupation, and with dirt roads replaced by hard surfaced highways, the voters decided last year to go along with other states in November elections, starting in 1960.

Primary Elections Scheduled Today in 10 States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (UPI) —Ten states hold primary elections today, leaving only Rhode Island and Georgia to select party nominees for the November general election.

At stake were nominations for eight United States Senate seats, seven governorships and 59 House seats in Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Georgia, where nomination is tantamount to election, holds its primary tomorrow, while Rhode Island holds its Democratic primary Sept. 17 and a Republican contest Sept. 25.

Negro's 1940 Fight Against Klan, Flight to East St. Louis Related

How a Negro minister battled a Ku Klux Klan mob in Tennessee, fled to East St. Louis and started a new life under an assumed name was related yesterday by James W. McRoberts, attorney for Burton Dodson.

Dodson, who is 76 years old, has been using the name of Charles Taylor since he came to East St. Louis in 1940, his attorney stated.

Arrested last Wednesday on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder, he is being held in the St. Louis jail in lieu of $25,000 bond pending a hearing Sept. 22.

McRoberts said that Dodson formerly lived in Fayette county, Tenn., about 50 miles east of Memphis, and was at home with his wife and six children when a mob wearing pillowcase hoods surrounded the house on the night of March 23, 1940.

Searchlights were focused on the house, an improvised scaffold was erected and Dodson was ordered to "come out and get hung," McRoberts related.

The mob promised the wife and children safe conduct, he continued, but when they came out a son and daughter were beaten, the girl so severely injured she later died. When the mob poured a fusillade of bullets into the house, Dodson returned the fire, his attorney said, and Olian Burra, a deputy sheriff, was killed.

Dodson slipped out of the house and, although pursued with bloodhounds for two days, made his escape. For the last eight years he has been working as a night watchman for a physician. His family has been living in Detroit.

ANOTHER BRICKER CHOICE NAMED TO ICC BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—For the second straight time, Senator John W. Bricker (Rep.), Ohio, has persuaded the White House to name his candidate for a vacancy on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

About two years ago, President Eisenhower picked Robert Minor, on Bricker's recommendation, as an ICC commissioner. Minor, of Columbus, O., once was Bricker's administrative assistant.

Last Friday, Minor said he was leaving. On the following day, Mr. Eisenhower named Charles A. Webb to replace Minor—again on Bricker's recommendation. Webb is Bricker's legislative assistant.

Webb's new job pays $20,000 a year for a seven-year term. The appointment goes to the Senate for confirmation when Congress returns in January. The ICC regulates the nation's transportation industry.

A Bricker aid, asked by a reporter to explain the Senator's ability to have two commissioners picked in a row, replied: "Senator Bricker, as ranking Republican on the Interstate Commerce Committee, is always consulted (about ICC jobs) and is in a good position to know when there are vacancies."

Puts the Bite on Opponent.

NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 9 (UPI)—Attorney Donald J. Irwin yesterday reported receipt of a mailed request for a contribution from the campaign committee of Republican Representative Albert P. Morano. Irwin, who is the Democratic candidate opposing Morano, called his opponent an "extreme optimist."

ing the more favorable trend earlier in the year, was "disappointing," but added that he considered it a fluctuation which would lessen in significance when figures for the entire year are in.

"We believe that the steps taken to improve law enforcement since the present board took office 18 months ago will produce long-range results," he told a reporter. "There is a natural lag in effectiveness of these measures."

Some Changes Made.

Changes intended to help in the fight against crime have included the following, Priest said:

Bringing commissioned personnel up to full authorized strength. Priest pointed out the department was nearly 150 understrength when the present board took over.

Increase in the number of one-man patrol cars.

Addition of a "fourth platoon" from 6 p.m. to 2 a.m. in two districts where crime is most prevalent.

Transfer of all the 114 district sergeants.

Assignment of 10 crews of detectives, to special duties.

Drastic modification of patrol procedures, now in effect in four districts.

Improved reporting procedures, which will provide the detailed information necessary to concentrate effort where most needed.

Another improvement expected to be of great benefit, Priest said, is an increase in the number of police radio channels from one to four, expected to go into operation next December.

"The department has been handicapped by the one-channel limit," Priest said. "Sometimes calls from patrol cars to the dispatcher pile up four and five deep because the single channel is so busy. This means a loss of up to five minutes in getting a message through, which at times might be a critical delay."

Crime Doubled in 10 Years.

Discussing the crime problem generally, Priest observed that major crimes in the city have more than doubled since 1948, rising from 15,932 then to 37,880 last year.

Offenses cleared by arrest of offenders meanwhile rose by less than 50 per cent, from 5112 to 7352. Priest pointed out that the commissioned strength of the department was increased by only 69 in the same period, from 1851 as of Dec. 31, 1948, to 1920 last Dec. 31. The department now is at its authorized level of 2010.

Priest attributed the bulk of the increase in crime to the influx of new residents. More than half the 37,880 crimes last year were concentrated in four districts in the central, west and northwest parts of the city. These are the Lucas, Deer, Page and Carr street districts.

Crime in two of these districts — Deer and Page — has risen sharply in the last 10 years. In the Deer street district, crimes increased from 1848 to 4503 from 1949 to 1957, and in the Page district from 1218 in 1949 to 4581 last year.

Priest pointed out that the rise in crime is not restricted to St. Louis. The increase in number of crimes here last year was 8.2 per cent over 1956, compared with an average increase of 8.9 per cent in urban areas throughout the United States.

Larceny Commonest Crime.

Of types of crime in the city, larcenies are by far the most common, with burglaries and automobile theft next in order, Priest said. Of last year's 37,880 crimes, 19,801 were larcenies, mostly of amounts under $50. Burglaries totaled 7998 and automobile thefts 5252.

Among the remaining types, 2266 were aggravated assault, 2150 robbery, 321 rape and 92 murder. Of the rapes, 200 were in the Lucas, Deer, Page and Carr street districts, and of the murders, 68 were in those disticts.

Greek-W. German Aid Talks.

BONN, Sept. 9 (UPI)—Greece may ask West Germany for $100,000,000 in aid during the current economic talks here, informed sources said today. Negotiations for German help in building up Greece's industry started yesterday and are expected to last two weeks.

FAMED POLISH BALLOONIST KILLED IN FLAMING CRASH

WARSAW, Sept. 9 (AP)—One of the world's leading balloonists, Col. Franciszek Hynek, was killed when his balloon crashed in flames near Koscierzyna, northern Poland, last night.

There were thunderstorms in the area at the time, and it was thought the balloon might have been struck by lightning. Hynek was alone.

Hynek, 59 years old, was chairman of the balloon section of the Polish Aeroclub. He won the Gordon Bennett balloon trophy twice, in Chicago in 1933 and in Poland in 1934.

GIBBONS'S RULE OF SPRINGFIELD LOCAL ASSAILED

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9—Harold J. Gibbons today was accused of restoring to power in a Springfield (Mo.) Teamster local a man who had been removed four years earlier for alleged mishandling of union funds, which left the local with a $25,000 shortage.

This testimony before the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee came from John E. Rogers, a truck driver of Grove Springs, Mo., who was a member of the Springfield union Local 245.

Rogers was the first of several witnesses who have been summoned to give testimony intended to establish a pattern of ruthless domination of the Springfield and Joplin (Mo.) locals of the Teamsters.

Names Official.

Rogers named E. J. Barrett as the former official restored to power by Gibbons in his position as trustee of the local in September 1954.

Gibbons, a St. Louisan, now executive vice president of the huge union, and James R. Hoffa, general president of the union, at that time were secretary treasurer and chairman, respectively, of the Central Conference of Teamsters, which has jurisdiction over Missouri locals.

Rogers testified that, to place Barrett back in a position of power in Local 245, Gibbons dismissed from office all of the elected officials, including Verl Nickels, secretary - treasurer, who was credited with restoring the local to a thriving position after Barrett's departure.

Nickels paid off the $25,000 debt left behind by Barrett, it was testified, and raised a $50,000 fund for the purchase of land and a new building for the local.

The background of Local 245 was placed on the record by committee investigators who said that the International union, under the late Daniel J. Tobin, general president, placed the local in trusteeship in 1950 because of its financial condition. Auditors of the International described Barrett at that time as being "incompetent and neglectful."

At that time, Nickels was placed in charge and a year later he was elected secretary-treasurer.

In Trusteeship Again.

Then, in 1954, the local was placed in trusteeship again. Rogers said the only reason for this was that Nickels was assisting a dissident faction of Teamsters in Joplin to start publication of a newspaper that promised not to be favorable to Gibbons and Hoffa.

Gibbons was appointed trustee of Local 245 in September 1954 by the international union, a document introduced in evidence showed. Rogers testified that following this, Richard Kavner, an aid to Gibbons, arrived from St. Louis, "fired the local officers and put Barrett back in."

Shortly thereafter, Branch Wainwright was brought into the local as an organizer, the witness told the committee. Evidence obtained by a committee investigator was introduced, showing that Wainwright had been convicted of burglary and larceny and assault with intent to rob. Asked what Wainwright's function in the local is, Rogers replied, "He controls our local."

The witness then told of difficulties encountered by former officers of the local to get jobs. Asked how the local prevented the former leaders from working, Rogers replied, "It is simple; if the union tells an employer not to hire you, you don't get a job."

He said Nickels obtained work, but was forced to quit "when the union called a strike at his place of employment."

Discussing preparations for removal of the trusteeship, Rogers declared that "only individuals favorable to Gibbons seemed to be eligible."

53 Out of 1200 Eligible.

"The local has 1200 members, but only 5 3were declared eligible to run for office by the persons checking the records," Rogers informed the committee. The witness said the reason given was that dues of the bulk of the membership had not been received by the union promptly on the first of the month for two years.

"The dues were checked off by the employer in time, but did not get to the union office promptly on the first," Rogers explained.

Rogers added that Wainwright and A. J. Rounds, acting secretary-treasurer, have refused to permit an independent audit of union books ordered by court-appointed monitors.

Prior to the Springfield testimony, George S. Fitzgerald, Detroit Teamsters attorney, admitted that he did not discuss with trustees of a union welfare fund a $15,750 "finder's fee" he received from a real estate firm. The fee was for obtaining a $1,000,000 loan for the real estate company from the welfare fund.

This brought sharp criticism from Senator John L. McClellan, chairman of the Senate Labor Rackets Investigating Committee. Ethics require that an attorney disclose to his client, in this case the welfare fund of the Michigan Conference of Teamsters, the fact that he is going to accept a fee from the other party in a transaction, said the Senator from Arkansas.

"Hindsight is better than foresight," Fitzgerald said, "and had I known that this inquiry was going to be made, I probably would have done it differently."

The $15,750 "finder's fee" Fitzgerald received from the Winchester Land Development Co. in 1955 was part of a total fee of $35,000. The rest of the money went to Max Clayman and George Stone, law associates of Fitzgerald. As a result of the loan agreement, committee investigators have testified, the welfare fund stands to lose about $600,000.

Asked what work he did to earn his fee, Fitzgerald said he examined a topographical map. When spectators laughed, he quickly added, "It wasn't just a road map." Later, he said, "In my opinion, the fee I collected was for services rendered and services I still have to render."

ARAB LEAGUE WON'T BACK CHARLES MALIK IN U.N. POST

CAIRO, Sept. 9 (AP) — The Arab League political committee today refused to support the candidacy of pro-Western Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik for president of the next United Nations General Assembly.

Instead, they voted to nominate Sudanese Foreign Minister Mohammed Ahmed Mahgoub, who played a leading role in formulating the Arab League resolution aimed at settling the Middle East crisis at the Assembly's recent emergency session.

MINNESOTA VOTES IN PRIMARY; FOCUS ON WOMAN'S RACE

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 9 (UPI)—Representative Coya Knutson bucked a political opponent and her husband's disapproval in a battle for renomination to Congress in Minnesota's Democratic primary today.

The race between Representative Knutson and Martin Evenson in the state's vast Ninth District took the spotlight from other primary contests.

Representative Knutson's family troubles were injected into the campaign last spring when her husband, Andrew, issued a public "Coya come home" plea. When Coya refused, Knutson lined up with the Evenson forces to urge voters to send his wife back home.

To counteract her husband's objections, Representative Knutson was accompanied on her final campaign rounds by her brother-in-law, Torkle Knutson, a Twin Valley (Minn.) clothing merchant.

NO FILTER FEEDBACK WITH PARLIAMENT
You get no filter feedback—absolutely no transfer of nicotine and tar from Parliament's filter. It's recessed away from your lips and tongue.

HOW ORDINARY FLUSH FILTERS FEED BACK
The more efficient today's filters become . . . the more nicotine and tar collects at the tip where it can feed back onto your lips and tongue.

No wonder Parliaments taste so clean!

Only Parliament has no filter feedback. Nicotine and tar collected at the tips of ordinary flush filters can feed back onto your lips and tongue. So only new improved Hi-Fi Parliament gives you clean, pure tobacco flavor—unspoiled because the filter's recessed.

MAN ARRESTED ON TIP ADMITS KIDNAP KILLING

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Sept. 9 (UPI)—Authorities said they would file first degree murder charges today against a young cement plant carpenter who confessed he kidnaped and killed a young secretary near here Sunday.

Floyd J. Robertson, 24 years old, the father of three young children, led authorities to the nearly nude body of the stengrapher, Miss Marjorie Schneider, 18, about 33 miles northwest of here yesterday.

The body was buried in a shallow grave beneath logs and rocks more than 600 feet up the side of an incline.

Dr. Robert J. Schmidt, Larimer county coroner, performed a two-hour autopsy Monday night and said afterward the girl died from "three bullet wounds in the head—one above the right ear, showing powder burns, and two other wounds in the back of the head, with no powder burns."

"There was evidence of sexual relations before the girl's death," the coroner said.

Arrested on Tip.

District Attorney Mark Smith said he would press for immediate prosecution of Robertson.

"We will file first degree murder charges and hold him without bond," Smith said.

Robertson was arrested yesterday morning on a tip from an unidentified friend of the family as he was preparing to leave his home for work.

Authorities said the murder and Robertson's subsequent arrest occurred in this order:

Robertson's wife, Darlene, was watching the Miss America pageant on television Saturday night. Robertson and his wife got into an argument, and he took a .22-caliber rifle from a bedroom, fired several times inside the house, and knocked several pitcures off the wall.

He stalked out of the house, got into his car, and drove to the Dixon dam area. There he found the parked car in which Miss Schneider was sitting with her escort, Eugene Farnik, 21, of Estes Park, Colo. Also in the car was another Fort Collins couple, James Coleman, 23, and his wife, Janet, 19.

Authorities said Coleman, a Fort Collins fire department employe, and his wife had been estranged for some time before meeting Saturday night. Mrs. Coleman and Miss Schneider were rooming together in a Fort Collins apartment. Miss Scneider worked for the Forney Aircraft Co. here.

Eight Wild Shots.

Robertson got out of his car and fired eight wild shots into the Farnik automobile. No one was hit.

"This is a stickup," Robertson said. "Get your hands up and come out."

Robertson lined the four persons up against the car, took about $2 from them, and told them to start running.

"Not you, Blondie," he told Miss Schneider. He forced her into his car and drove about 12 miles when he had a flat tire.

He told officers Miss Schneider started running while he was changing the tire. He said he shot her, then wrapped her in a poncho and drove to the Poudre river camp site.

Larimer county sheriff Roy Scheerer said the killer apparently worked almost all day Sunday dragging the girl's 112-pound body up the steep incline.

He returned home about 8 p.m. Sunday and refused to tell his wife where he had been. The unidentified friend of the family learned of Robertson's 24-hour absence from home and informed authorities.

ASSERTS KEFAUVER SENT HIM TO SEE MACK ABOUT TV CASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (UPI)—A long-time friend of former Federal Communications Commission Richard A. Mack said today that Senator Estes Kefauver sent him to see Mack on the Miami Channel 10 case. He said the purpose was to give Col. A. Frank Katzentine a "fair shake" on a television license application.

Dan H. Fuqua, vice president of the Florida Power & Light Co., said that the Tennessee Democrat asked him only to request Mack to give "every fair consideration for Mr. Katzentine on the merits of his application. It was all very low pressure."

Fuqua testified on the second day of a special investigator's hearing of the award of Channel 10 to Public Service Television, Inc. Katzentine's WKAT, Inc., was unsuccessful even though winning prior approval by an F.C.C. examiner.

CAMERA RETURNS TO EARTH, RECORDED UPPER AIR RAYS

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 9 (AP)—A 1400-pound lead-shielded gamma ray telescope camera came to earth under a cluster of four cargo parachutes in southeastern Minnesota yesterday after a 20-hour trip to the stratosphere.

The specially designed camera was towed aloft by a 303-foot long plastic balloon Sunday night. The flight was sponsored by the Office of Naval Research to attempt to learn more about cosmic rays, a potential hazard to space flight.

The balloon bore its cargo to a maximum altitude of 104,600 feet where it remained for about 16 hours.

Indonesian Shipping Curb.

Delivery of U.S. Thor Missiles To Britain Reported Under Way

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—The United States has begun delivering Thor intermediate range ballistic missiles to the British, informed sources said yesterday.

The first of 60 Thors to be deployed in eastern and northern England was reported to have been flown abroad within the last week or so.

Under the February agreement to supply the weapon to the Royal Air Force, the thermonuclear warheads are to remain in United States "ownership, custody and control." The decision to fire any missiles must be made jointly by the two governments. Exactly when and how missile and warhead would be mated has not been made clear.

It is expected to be December before a fu" R.A.F. squadron has been trained, supplied its total complement of 15 missiles, and put on operational duty. In all, four Thor squadrons are planned for Britain. Sites of additional squadrons have not yet been announced.

The Thor is a 65-foot liquid-propellant missile designed to deliver a thermonuclear blow more than 1700 miles.

Twenty-two Thors have been fired from the test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., including four used as the bottom stage of multi-stage vehicles. Thirteen of the firings have been judged "good" by the Air Force; four "partly good," and five "failures."

Despite this record, there has been a considerable criticism of the Thor as a weapon and consequent opposition to deploying it with the R.A.F. Members of the British Labor party have been particularly vocal in the anti-Thor campaign.

In March, Geoffrey De Freitas, the party's spokesman on air defense matters, called the Thor "a lot of junk" and "a great waste of money."

He and others have opposed deployment of any ballistic missiles, British or American, at least until another try has been made at disarmament at a summit conference.

ASSERTS HALF OF PEOPLE IN WORLD EAT TOO MUCH

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Half the people in the world eat too much, the American Chemical Society was told by Dr. Charles Glen King, New York, executive director of the Nutrition Foundation.

King grouped the United States with Western European countries, Canada and Australia as populations which overeat.

King said the overweight problem is most severe in the United States were about one-fourth of the population is burdened with obesity.

RED RADIO CITES AMERICAN'S WORDS ON RUSSIAN PEOPLE

LONDON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The Moscow radio quoted American business man Irving Salomon as telling a group of Russians in Moscow yesterday:

"It is sad that the governments of our countries cannot meet in the same way as we are doing now. I have never met a Russian whom I disliked."

FIRST to Announce a Solution for

"ENGINE RUMBLE!"

Finds both cause and solution of the newest problem and biggest mystery confronting motorists!

New ultra-high compression engines are now confronting the American motorist with a new mysterious phenomenon which automotive engineers are calling "Engine Rumble." "Rumble" is a low vibrational sound that makes you think the engine is coming apart.

"RUMBLE" is an unusual condition afflicting the engines of some of the highest powered '57 and '58 cars using today's best gasolenes.

At various speeds, depending upon the mileage on these cars, a very disturbing sound occurs – like a thud, thump or a rumbling vibration. A sound that makes you think the engine is coming apart.

RESEARCH SCIENTISTS at Cities Service have discovered that "rumble" is caused by an accelerated rise in pressure in engines with 10 to 1 compression ratios or higher. This accelerated pressure rise sets off structural vibrations heard as "rumble."

Cities Service researchers found further that "rumble" could not be eliminated by increasing the gasolene's octane or any other common method of dealing with engine problems. Instead, they saw the need for a completely new and different kind of protection – and so they perfected ANTI-RUMBLE.

CITIES SERVICE ANTI-RUMBLE is now contained exclusively in Cities Service SUPER 5-D GASOLENE.

Perhaps you have experienced "rumble," perhaps you have not. But in either case, no longer must you run the risk of "rumble" in your automobile. Now, AT NO INCREASE IN PRICE, you can get exclusive Anti-Rumble protection plus maximum octane and all other top performance features with Cities Service SUPER 5-D GASOLENE... more than ever the gasolene for true luxury driving.

New Research Laboratories at Cranbury, N. J.

THIS GREAT ANTI-RUMBLE GASOLENE is now in the pumps at Cities Service stations throughout your area. Ask for it by name – NEW SUPER 5-D, at the price of ordinary premiums . . . exclusively at Cities Service, where true luxury driving begins.

CITIES SERVICE

New Anti-Rumble

now added to the five other top performance features found only in Cities Service SUPER 5-D Gasolene.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post Says:
Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post Says:
Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post Says:

Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post Says:

Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

GENERAL 13A

Emily Post Says:

Upon the death of a friend you should go at once to the house, write "With sympathy" on your card and leave it at the door. Or you write a letter to the family. In either case you send flowers, addressed to the funeral of (name of the deceased) or to the nearest relative. The latter method is preferable, if the relative is a friend. But the former method is followed if the deceased alone was known to you.

SPARCRAFT
8' AND 10' WIDE
Yes, folks, we only have quality to sell because we feel that when we sell quality we have made a friend. Anyone can build anything down to a price with absolute disregard for quality. We have nothing to hide behind walls and fancy paint. We have on display at all times for your inspection a complete Spartan and Sparcraft shell, showing every phase of construction; in other words you actually see what you are buying. Why not come in and see the difference for yourself. After all, it's your money.

More Pleasant Prospects

—Associated Press Wirephoto
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Clear skies and high barometric pressure in the mid-Mississippi valley promise continued pleasant weather for the Missouri-Illinois area today and tomorrow.

Southerly winds will warm the St. Louis area today and temperatures are expected to reach the mid-80s. Scattered showers, now in Iowa, will drift southward into extreme northern Missouri and Illinois tonight, cooling those regions.

Cooler air moved into the Dakotas and the far Northwest today, while a warming trend was forecast from the eastern Great Lakes region and the Ohio valley eastward to the coast.

Showers sprinkled a few areas in the Midwest and West yesterday but generally dry weather prevailed in the eastern half of the nation.

Scattered showers thundershowers fell during the night from the Dakotas and Wisconsin into Illinois and lower Michigan. In the West, light thundershowers were reported across the Rockies and westward into parts of Oregon and Washington.

It was generally cool in the Northeast yesterday, with temperatures in the 50s from the Great Lakes region and Ohio valley to the coast. Readings in the 40s were reported in the northern Great Lakes region and the Allegheny.

Democratic Sweep in Maine Gives Entirely New Look to Coming Congressional Races

Muskie Victory Not Surprising but Clauson Defeat of Hildreth for Governor Is Astonishing — Pressure for Adams to Quit Likely to Increase.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright 1958, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.

THE DEMOCRATIC SWEEP in traditionally Republican Maine gave an entirely new look today to the congressional elections in November.

Democrats, whose early optimism had been tempered by signs that the Republicans were making something of a comeback, were jubilant. They were once again confident of overwhelming majorities in both Senate and House. The Republicans were frankly in the doldrums.

While the Maine election barometer has often been faulty, the extent of yesterday's sweep —four of the top offices out of five—is considered certain to have a bearing on voter sentiment throughout the nation.

It was not surprising to political Washington that Gov. Edmund Muskie with his great personal popularity, should have defeated Senator Frederick G. Payne, Republican, running for re-election. But that the Democrat, Clinton Clauson, a former chiropractor and generally rated a weak candidate, should have overcome Horace A. Hildreth in the race for Governor, is astonishing. Hildreth, twice before Governor of Maine, an ambassador to Pakistan, representative of an old Yankee family, had been regarded as virtually certain to win.

Pressure on Adams.

The quip in Washington today was, "As Maine goes so goes Sherman Adams." This was a reference to the connection established between Payne and Bernard Goldfine, close friend of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams. Payne was shown in the congressional investigation into the Adams-Goldfine affairs to have received an interest-free $3500 loan, a vicuna coat and free hotel bills from the Boston industrialist. Pressure on the White House for Adams's resignation will now greatly increase.

Muskie never discussed the Goldfine issue publicly, but he said privately that he was confident it was in the minds of many voters. It will be interpreted as an important factor in the Republican downfall.

The 44-year-old Governor, completing his second term, becomes the first popularly-elected Democratic Senator in Maine's history. Before the popular election of Senators, the legislature twice elected Democrats to the Senate in Washington.

Last Advance Vote.

With a change in the state law, this is the last year Maine votes in advance of the nation. In 1936 Maine went for Alf M. Landon, the Republican candidate for President. When the nation voted in November, Maine was one of two states in the Republican column and Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley cracked, "As Maine goes so goes Vermont."

Of the three House seats in yesterday's election a Democratic incumbent, Frank M. Coffin, retained his seat in the Second District. In the Third District, Representative Clifford G. McIntire, a Republican, also retained his seat. In the populous First District, which includes Portland, the Republican, Robert Hale, was apparently defeated, his Democratic opponent, James C. Oliver running ahead of him by about 3000 votes. Two years ago Hale had the narrowest possible squeak, with an official count showing him the victor by 29 votes.

So in the Congress in January, a state once considered unshakeably Republican will be represented by a Democrat in the Senate and two out of three Democrats in the Maine delegation in the House. This is no less than a political revolution and its consequences are likely to extend far beyond this single Congressional election.

With all returns in, Muskie's majority over Payne was nearly 60,000. When he was re-elected to the Governorship two years ago he received nearly 56,000 more votes than his opponent. Muskie's chief campaign argument was that he could do more in the Senate for Maine than could Payne.

Senator Margaret Chase Smith, the only woman in the Senate, was not up for re-election this year. She comes up in 1960 and there is already talk that the Democrats will run Coffin against her. He has developed considerable popularity among Republicans as well as Democrats. Muskie had tried to persuade him to run for Governor to strengthen the ticket, but Coffin preferred to remain in the House. In contrast, Senator Smith has lost some of her following in her own party and it is felt in Maine that she will have a hard race two years from now if Coffin is her opponent.

Party Deteriorated.

The results yesterday can be attributed partly to the deterioration of the Republican organization. Republican voters have grown discontented with the same names and the same faces year after year.

Hale, who is 69 years old, put on a harder campaign than usual, but it could scarcely have been considered dynamic. In the primary he was opposed by two younger men, one of whom got 11,000 votes and the other 13,000. Hale won with a total of 15,000. Some Republicans were saying privately during the campaign that a younger candidate would have a much better chance of defeating Oliver, who was a Republican turned Democratic and who had twice before run against Hale.

The sole Republican victor, McIntire, defeated young university professor, Gerald J. Grady, who came to the state from Wisconsin only eight years ago. McIntire called him a carpet-bagger.

Butler Statement.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler promptly hailed the Maine outcome as indicating a strong Democratic trend.

"The people are sick of drift and indecision and are eager for firm leadership," Butler said. "They are ready to repudiate a Republican party which boasts of prosperity with 5,000,000 people out of work.

"The Republican effort to say that unemployment is prosperity, that corruption is honesty, that drift is leadership, that the mess in the Middle East and the Straits of Formosa is peace has failed.

"If the Democrats in other states will campaign as vigorously as did the Maine Democrats, we will elect strong effective majorities to both Houses of Congress this November. Our peril is complacency and overconfidence. We must not forget that the Republicans will have the support of much of the press and many more dollars to spend campaigning. We must keep on fighting hard."

However, Chairman Meade Alcorn of the Republican National Committee saw the result as "obviously another personal triumph" for Muskie. He said the "momentum" of Muskie's overwhelming defeat of Senator Payne carried other Democratic candidates into office with him.

He conceded that the G.O.P. "took a beating—a bad beating" and said every Republican across the nation should be alerted to "the urgency of an all-out effort" on Nov. 4.

FRANCE TIGHTENS POLICE RULES TO HALT ALGERIANS

PARIS, Sept. 9 (UPI)—The government imposed new and tougher police measures today to combat terrorism by Algerian nationalist underground agents in France.

Security measures already in effect include the day and night guarding of gasoline dumps by soldiers, massive identity checks of North Africans in Paris and an unofficial curfew for Algerians in Paris.

Informed sources said new steps ordered or in the making include:

Transfer of top ranking officials from areas where there are no Algerians to temporary duty to Paris and other key cities.

Sidearms for army officers and non-commissioned officers when off duty and in uniform.

A bar on North African dock workers in the major ports.

Tight security measures at all commercial airports. Planes heading for North Africa and their passengers will be thoroughly checked for weapons.

INSIDE RUSSIA TODAY

Drabness of Soviet Existence Fails To Conceal Tendency to Violence

Life Is Serious and People Have to Work Hard to Survive.

By JOHN GUNTHER

Copyright 1958, John Gunther

BEFORE we left the United States friends told us, "Oh, but you will never meet any Russians."

We met hundreds of Russians, and had long talks with 60 or 70, including some important people. True, we almost never met a Russian alone. Somebody else is almost always present, as a precaution, in addition to the interpreter.

Only twice did we see the inside of a Russian home. But this is par for the course. Russians simply do not admit foreigners to their homes as a general rule—partly out of fear and partly because they are ashamed of their cramped quarters and poverty. Lack of privacy makes entertainment at home almost impossible.

The easiest contact is on technical levels. An American physicist will have little difficulty in establishing a relationship with a Russian physicist. In general, the best way to approach Soviet citizens is to exploit their curiosity. Even if they don't admit it, they are burning to know more about the world outside.

Political Figures Aloof.

I have said that we met a good many Russians, but this statement needs elaboration; it is easy enough to meet people in the realm of cultural exchange, but political Russians are very hard to meet, let alone become friendly with. I did a good deal of preparatory work before I left America, and sent letters to dozen of people enclosing a brief Who's Who of myself and explaining my mission. I got exactly three replies.

There are times, no matter how friendly individual Russians may be, when it seems utterly impossible to reach them. If it is impossible to speak with a minor official on the telephone about a visa, it will also be impossible to discuss disarmament.

Moreover, the Russians talk an entirely different language. They never concede anything and will distort and lie to a fantastic extent. We of the West, if we make a mistake, will usually admit it. The Russians never do.

Moscow Drab, Yet Vital.

The three main characteristics of Moscow, fifth largest city in the world, are strangeness, closedness and a peculiar combination of drabness with vitality. It is unlike any other city on earth; on most people it puts a spell they never forget, if only by reason of its weird Russian qualities.

Moscow is an exceptionally clean city—much cleaner than many in western Europe or America. Even after a sharp fall of snow, the streets are cleared very quickly although little mechanical equipment is available. Most streetsweeping is done by old women in white aprons and black boots, wielding coarse brooms made of twigs. Militiamen posted at hotels, embassies, and public buildings are empowered to make you pick up a cigarette stub, if you toss it on the street instead of in a receptacle, but I never saw this happen.

Also Moscow is an extraordinary silent city. Automobile horns are forbidden, and in winter the carpet of snow serves to muffle traffic noises.

Grandeur of marble colonnaded stations and clean, new coaches of Moscow's subway system stand in sharp contrast to drabness of city's streets.

Few Trees Remain.

There are few big trees in Russia even on the handsome boulevards. The reason is curious. In the days before World War II experts thought that leaves or foliage would retain poisonous fumes in the event of gas attack. The Russians, taking no chances, ruthlessly cut most of the trees down.

Gorhovo is Moscow's main street, the equivalent of Piccadilly. It was formerly known as Tverskaya, and leads into the Leningrad Chaussee, which in turn becomes the chief—in fact only—road to Leningrad. For most of its length Gorky Street is three times wider than Park Avenue in New York.

Traffic signals on Moscow streets are for the most part operated manually, by an officer in a booth, and at many intersections the word "Stop" is painted on the street in large letters.

Some intersections carry pale bubbles on tall poles, like beacons, to mark pedestrian crossings. Jaywalking is a dangerous sport in Moscow, and people fly like frightened chipmunks as the big Zims charge down the streets. Trucks carry heavy padding on their hoods, which seems to indicate that Russian antifreeze mixtures are not satisfactory. Gasoline is evil-smelling.

Kiosks with automatic telephones (about four cents a call), are abundant, and so are framed panels outside public buildings, with the day's newspapers spread out for passers-by to read. Another oddity in street scenes is that extremely few animals—pets—are to be seen. It costs too much to feed them. But once I ran into a dachshund on a leash made of grocery string.

Luxurious Subway.

The Metro or subway is a story in itself, and is the chief sight of the town, with the possible exception of the University. The subway carries more than 2,000,000 passengers a day. The fare is not gradu-

Chemist Seeks Military Arm For Research

Branch Would Be Equal in Stature to Army, Navy and Air Force.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.

THE nation needs a fourth military service devoted entirely to research and development, Dr. Clifford F. Rassweiler said last night in his presidential address to the American Chemical Society here.

He said the new force ought to be made equal in stature to the Army, Navy and Air Force and should have its own representative on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The prime responsibility for creating new military equipment and weapons is assigned to the three military services, Dr. Rassweiler said, yet no officer in these armed services is given any incentive to devote his lifetime to becoming an expert in research and development.

"We invite disaster by placing prime responsibility for military equipment and weapons development on military men with little or no specialized development experience," he said.

Dr. Rassweiler is vice president for research and development of the Johns-Manville Corp.

Dr. Dorothy V. Nightingale of the University of Missouri was named winner of the society's Garvan medal for distinguished services to chemistry by a woman. She is an authority on anti-malarial compounds.

Alton L. Blakeslee, science editor of the Associated Press, was named winner of the society's James T. Grady medal for distinguished reporting of chemical progress. Blakeslee is a former president of the National Association of Science Writers.

Cyrus Eaton Leaves Moscow.

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 (AP)—Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton left Moscow yesterday after a red carpet tour of the Soviet Union. He arrived Aug. 27 and conferred with the highest Soviet leaders, including Premier Khrushchev. Eaton, who is accompanied by his wife, left by plane for Paris.

Dulles Is Mainly Responsible For Decision to Defend Isles

Twining, White and Burke Supported Him—Eisenhower Apparently Concurred Reluctantly.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

FOUR MEN HAVE THE PRIMARY responsibility for the immensely grave decision to use American troops, if need be, for the defense of Quemoy and the Matsus. At least half of the total responsibility and perhaps as much as two-thirds or three-quarters, must be allotted to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Just about all the remainder belongs to three of the four Joint Chiefs of Staff, the chairman, Gen. Nathan Twining, the chief of air staff, Gen. Thomas White, and the chief of our naval operations, Adm. Arleigh Burke. These three were Dulles's main supporters at the council table.

The Pentagon civilians no doubt approved the great decision, but they did not join in the policy-making progress in the active, continuous and influential way that was customary in the past, when James V. Forrestal, or George C. Marshall, or Robert A. Lovett headed the Defense Department.

Returned From Vacation.

The able secretary of defense, Neil McElroy, was actually on vacation during the critical period, from mid-August through Labor day. McElroy returned to Washington for a day or two, however, more than once during his vacation period. And a highly tentative decision in principle to join in the defense of the islands if need be, was taken on one of these occasions, while McElroy was here and before Secretary Dulles went off to his lake and President departed for his golf course.

Yet this earliest decision in principle was still relatively meaningless. If taken as reliably reported, the decision in principle was reached when many of the leaders of the government were clinging to the conviction that the Chinese Communists did not really mean business. Such a decision, taken in the belief that it will not have to be painfully implemented, is always relatively meaningless.

This one, if you like, could have been the other side of the medal of the American government's decision that we had no interest in Korea, which theoretically remained in force until the Soviet aggression there.

The crucial moment of truth, in short, was the moment of Secretary Dulles's return from his lake on Sept. 1. By then, even the most complacent had begun to admit the Chinese Communists really might mean business after all. By then, it was necessary to fish or cut bait.

Dulles therefore flew off to Newport and secured the President's assent to the famous eight-point statement of American policy. The statement the President approved contained several loopholes and escape clauses. Speaking partly in his own name and partly through the remarkably transparent mask of a "high government official," Dulles then closed the loopholes and annulled the escape clauses. And that was that.

Anyone who has watched Dwight D. Eisenhower in action during the last five years must conclude that the President took his position on Quemoy and the Matsus with great reluctance and lively distaste. The escape clauses and loopholes included in the statement the President initialed at Dulles's behest are strong evidence, in themselves, of Mr. Eisenhower's real frame of mind.

Gen. Taylor Hesitant.

But Dulles had three enormous assets in his task of persuading Mr. Eisenhower to take this great and grave step. The President long ago resigned to his secretary of state an unprecedented share of the decision-making power in the whole foreign field.

The Secretary had, as above noted, the strong support of three of the four Joint Chiefs of Staff, with only the Army chief, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, making the kind of hesitant objections that Gen. Omar Bradley also made when the Korean decision was taken. And Dulles was further in the position of asking the President to say he would carry out in practice a

Letters from the People

After Dulles, What?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your excellent editorial, "Still a War to Stay Out Of", should cause sensible Americans to consider seriously the possibly disastrous consequences to this country if Secretary of State Dulles persists in forcible intervention in the affairs of other nations in which our vital interests are not involved, or our security threatened.

More editorial warnings like this may help to arouse Americans from their indifference, and cause them to become aware of their responsibility to be concerned about whether their Government's foreign polices are based upon wisdom, or on unwise, irresponsible, unwarranted meddling.

As James P. Warburg stated in his published letter, "This is a time when true patriotism demands not quiet acquiescence but loud protest." Bert A. Doering

Destroyers of Trees

Only in St. Louis would the destruction of a tree such as the one pictured in Saturday evening's paper be permitted. Most communities strive to preserve and care for trees like this one.

In Boulder, Colo., this summer we saw a similar tree in the center of a paved street. This was in a modest subdivision and was a definite asset to the village.

As I said, only in a place where the citizens have little respect for nature and pride in their natural resources would such wanton destruction be possible.

If Faubus Shut Central

Here's one citizen who rather hopes the United States Government will call demagogue Faubus's bluff and force him to close Central High School for the current academic year. Then the mob-minded Little Rock parents could reap the whirlwind of their hate-ridden, ignorant, lawless offspring all day, every day, for the 365 days of the year.

Who knows? Maybe by September 1959, in the manner of the lawbreakers of O'Henry's short story, "The Ransom of Red Chief," the parents of the Central High delinquents would beg the School Board to reopen the school no matter how many Negro children seek enrollment.

And if miracles should be in order next year, perhaps a chastened parent or so might even have developed the wisdom to suggest to their wayward children that there are lessons to be learned from the forbearance, the dignity, the courage, and the self-discipline of the Negro children who endured a "bath of fire" at Central High last year.

A Questionable 'Hoax'

The caption "Ingenious Hoax" used for Paul S. Schmidt's review of Erik Wahlgren's book "The Kensington Stone: A Mystery Solved" is as questionable as the title of that book. I believe I'll go along with Dr. Stirling, who as chief of the Smithsonian called the Kensington Stone "probably the most important archeological object yet found in North America."

The Mr. Holand who the reviewer, parroting Wahlgren, implies was a nitwit is that outstanding Norse-American historian, Hjalmar R. Holand of Ephraim, Wis., whose book on the Kensington Stone was published in 1932, and who for 30 years gave most of his time to the study of the stone in every aspect —and took it to 23 European universities for consultation with experts.

Olof Ohman's detractors long antedated Mr. Wahlgren. In the "Transactions of the Illinois State Historical Society for 1910" a paper on the subject by Prof. Flom was published, but he wrote without the facts bearing on the controversy that have since come to light in archeology, runology and philology.

The Ignatius Donnelly angle introduced by Wahlgren is nice fictional characterization but hardly scientific. The author has just rehashed the old arguments in a disarmingly cocksure fashion. It's not easy to ignore the conclusions of experts like Dr. William Thalbitzer, Danish ethnologist and one of the world's foremost authorities on runes, who for a long time had considered the Kensington Stone a fraud but in September 1951 revised his original opinion.

Why does Mr. Schmidt sidestep the discovery some 30 years ago of the King Magnus document in the royal library at Copenhagen? How could any hoaxer of the Nineteenth Century know that this document existed?

As to Olof Ohman's participation with Sven Fogelblad in perpetrating a hoax, readers should refer to Apendixes D, E, F and G, of Holand's book, which furnish a plethora of contemporary documents and affidavits by various persons who were eyewitnesses or had personal knowledge of Ohman and Fogelblad and could not by any possibility be parties to a conspiracy.

Under the Gun

Red China's offer to confer at the ambassadorial level gives the United States an opportunity to improve its perilous position in the Far East. But that opportunity can be exploited only through a drastic change in the Administration's foreign policy.

The United States and China already have held 73 ambassadorial meetings in Geneva without agreement. Obviously talking is not enough.

Nor will it make sense to enter supposed peace talks, this time in Warsaw, while increasing the risk of involvement in war. Threats by State Department officials and admirals, United States Marine maneuvers on Formosa, and above all the American naval convoying of ships to Quemoy increase the danger.

One convoyed ship already has been blown up. If a single shell or bomb should strike an American warship, then what? So far the Communist artillery on the mainland has been either accurate or restrained, or both. But our policy has been placed under the gun along with our ships, and Red China is calling the shots.

No doubt Secretary of State Dulles assumes that the Chinese Communists do not mean war, and will be careful not to begin one. Whether this assumption is correct or not, a policy engendering threats and risks for objectives not vital to the national interest is folly of the first order.

If the assumption is incorrect, and China finally decides it cannot remain indifferent to enemy forces on its coastal islands, the result could be a monstrous war. Soviet Premier Khrushchev has just warned President Eisenhower that an attack on China would be considered "an attack on the Soviet Union." His words may be for propaganda but they must be taken at face value.

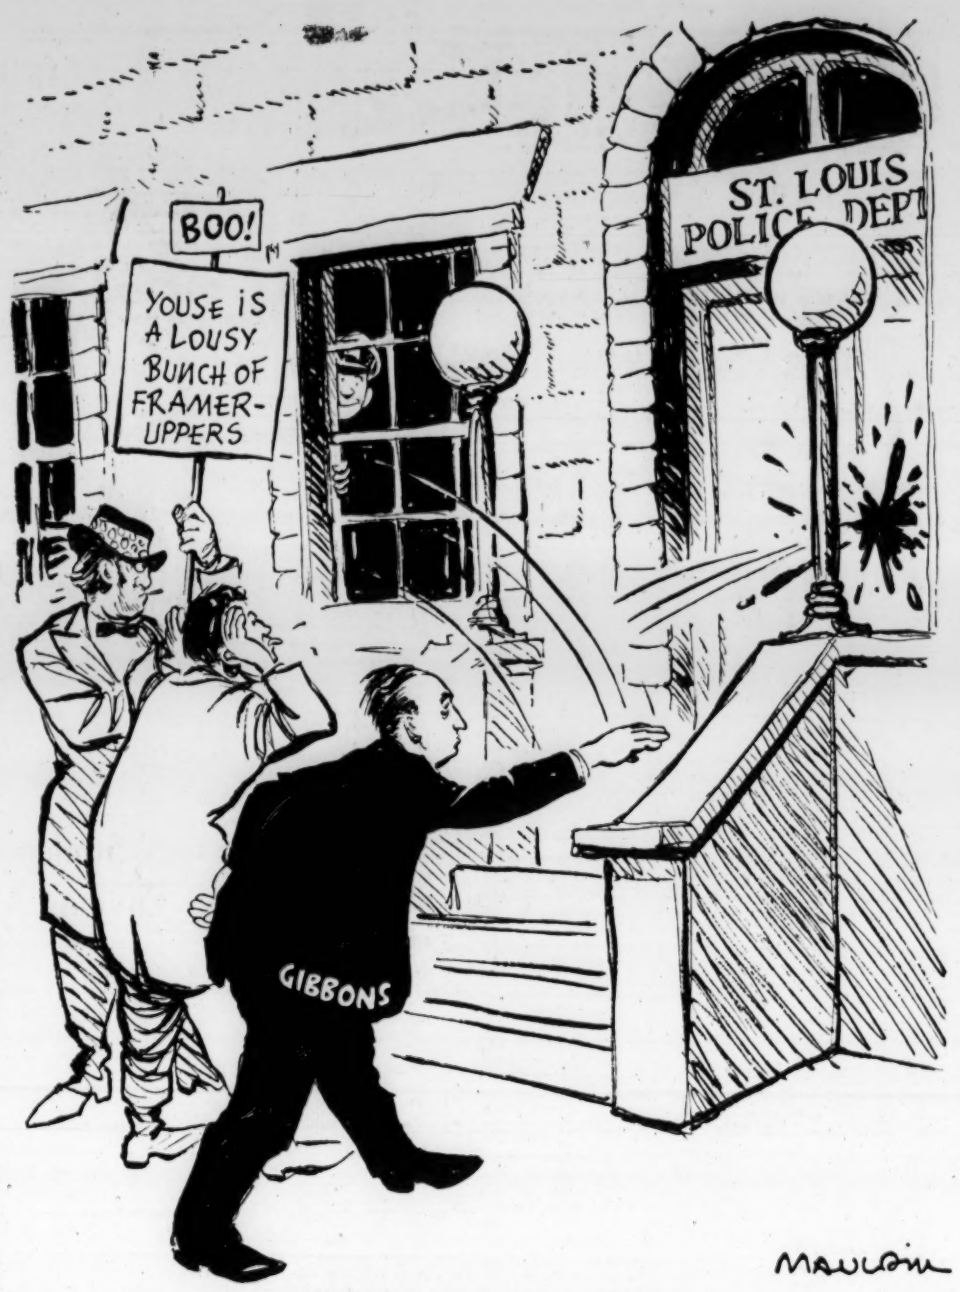

Either way, brinkmanship is exposed as unprofitable as well as dangerous. And it is ironic that such a policy would founder over two islands of no value to the United States, and of no real value in the defense of Formosa. "Common sense," as former Secretary of State Dean Acheson says, would show that the offshore islands "are not worth a single American life."

The Warsaw talks should give the United States a means of negotiating a peaceful disengagement at Quemoy and Matsu. But the simplest way to achieve disengagement is to disengage. American forces can be withdrawn, and Chiang Kai-shek can be encouraged to withdraw, from the coastal islands. This may be unpalatable to Mr. Dulles but it is a lesser evil than continuing to risk world war for an exiled Chinese war lord. It is bad enough to face unpleasant alternatives as the result of a mistaken policy, but worse to perpetuate the mistake.

Whatever the prospects for the Warsaw talks, there is another avenue for approach to a long-range solution of the problem of the Formosa Strait. That is to present the matter to the United Nations as advised by Thomas K. Finletter, former Secretary of the Air Force. He says the Administration's policy for defending Quemoy is nonsense.

Has the policy of bravado been carried too far for retreat? There is still time to talk sense at Warsaw and to invite international mediation at the U.N. It is not too late to retreat from a unilateral policy that risks a pointless, disastrous war.

SINCEREST KIND OF FLATTERY

The Sweep in Maine

Formerly rock-ribbed Republican Maine's final September election is one they will talk about in the tree-shaded white villages for a long time to come. Out of five major offices —Senator, Governor and three seats in the House in Washington—the Democrats have won a phenomenal total of four. The Republicans held onto but one of the congressional posts and there the party's margin was cut to only 7000 in a total of 70,000.

For all practical purposes it was a clean sweep. The consequences will have an immediate bearing on the national mid-term campaign for the control of the next Congress and key governorships in such important states as New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Michigan and California.

Undoubtedly the remarkable personal popularity of Edmund S. Muskie was a major factor in the majority of approximately 60,000 which the Polish immigrant's son ran up for the senatorship over Senator Frederick G. Payne, member of an old Yankee family, who bore the urgent indorsement of President Eisenhower for re-election. But it would be a mistake to attribute a Democratic victory of such proportions solely to Gov. Muskie's winning ways as head of the state government the last four years.

In electing Clinton A. Clauson to the governorship over former Republican Gov. Horace Hildreth, Maine has extended the Democratic control of the statehouse at Augusta for four years. The defeat of Republican Representative Robert Hale in the Portland district turns out a member of an old Maine political family who was seeking his ninth term.

While many influences were at work to produce these amazing results, at the bottom must be a growing dissatisfaction with the Eisenhower Administration. Senator Payne's candidacy brought the Sherman Adams-Goldfine influence issue before voters for the first time, since the incumbent Senator received a vicuna coat, hotel hospitality and an unrepaid $3500 house "loan" from the friend of the White House chief of staff.

President Eisenhower's veto of the depressed areas bill on the eve of the election probably did Senator Payne more harm than the White House indorsement did good. For Senator Payne was a co-sponsor of the bill of Democratic Senator Douglas of Illinois to extend federal assistance to communities hard hit by unemployment. The whole state of Maine is in effect such a community.

As of now the two parties go into the November election with the Senate consisting of 50 Democrats and 46 Republicans. The prospect that Republicans can win back Congress for President Eisenhower's final two years is slimmer than ever.

Denying Common Humanity

South Africa's new prime minister, Hendrik Verwoerd, is its most extreme racist. And that certainly means that the government will not move to halt the mass "treason" trials, in which the real offense is that the defendants spoke in a friendly manner to members of the opposite race.

Perhaps Americans with their Little Rocks and Van Burens sometimes may feel that they live in glass houses so far as race relations are concerned. Yet American segregationists are a minority, and the worst of them have not gone nearly as far as Verwoerd.

He has been the mastermind of the "Apartheid" program pushed by the South African Nationalists since they came to power in 1948, having introduced most of the repressive laws now in force. And on this subject, his mind seems tightly closed to all appeals of reason.

Verwoerd is a psychologist trained in Germany. When plans were made in 1936 to provide a South African haven for some of Germany's persecuted Jews, he led the opposition against this humanitarian move. In 1937 he became editor of Die Transvaler, a party daily which soon was accused by another newspaper of supporting the Nazis. Verwoerd sued for libel, but the court held that he had consciously aided the war aims of Adolf Hitler.

As Minister of Native Affairs, he built the villages to which some of South Africa's Negroes have been removed. He built some schools and hospitals for them, too. But these facilities are not nearly adequate. The living conditions of Negroes employed in the cities have grown steadily worse in their ghetto-slums. Verwoerd's "white supremacy" apparently sees no contradiction in holding that South African Negroes, the great majority of the population, should live and work only by white sufferance.

The best that the British whites in South Africa now may hope for, according to the Manchester Guardian's correspondent, is that they may "suffer the worst now and get it over with." That is a sigh of despair. Heard around the world, it may start that soul-searching which alone holds promise for the future. It may help men escape from the coils of prejudice which make it a civic virtue to deny the humanity of fellow human beings.

Gen. Vogel, Conservationist

Gen. Vogel, the anti-TVA chairman of TVA, uttered a remarkable credo of natural resource conservation to the conference of the Kaskaskia Valley Association. TVA came into being, he said, because of "an idle uncontrolled river, a depressed economy, depleted soil, little or no industry, and a great need to remedy these ills in a hurry. Similar conditions are found today in few, if any, river valleys in the United States, and that is why it is unlikely a new valley authority will be created in this country."

In other words, the job is all done. A more unenlightened statement on national resource development, coming from a person actually engaged in that work and therefore presumably on at least speaking terms with it, would be hard to imagine.

The fact is that 50,000,000 acres of land throughout the United States are still so badly depleted that they are useless, and another 50,000,000 are rapidly becoming useless—a total area equal to all the cropland in Illinois, Ohio, Maryland and North Carolina combined. The great Pacific Northwest, power-hungry for two decades, is being short-changed by abortive private developments on the Columbia river system which are foreclosing full realization of the mighty power potential there. The Great Plains are suffering for industries.

But Gen. Vogel, by his own account, knows nothing of all this. And if he did know, he would hardly think the brilliant managerial principle of TVA, which has now been copied round the world, would have any application to America's own conservation problems.

Ernie Banks vs. the Babe

Just one major question remains in the 1958 baseball season—pre-World Series, that is. With a lead of a dozen games there is no doubt whatever about the Yankees flying the American League flag when October sets the hills ablaze with red and gold. And the National League's second place Pirates, after playing the Braves seven tell-tale games, and breaking even with them, 11 to 11, for the season, are still seven games behind. The one question unanswered is: Will Ernie Banks catch up with Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in a regular season? The Cubs' shortstop hit No. 44 Sunday in a home game off Gomez of the Giants. That tied his 1955 performance when he set an all-time mark for big-league shortstops. So whether he catches Babe Ruth he doubtless will set another record in topping his own mark. What he really needs is a day like the Bambino's Sept. 6, 1927—three homers off the Red Sox. Give Ernie Banks just one Saturnalia and he will be right at George Herman's jogging heels.

King Kerosene and the Jet

King Kerosene, forced to abdicate two generations ago as the principal distillation of petroleum, is making a comeback on the wings of the new jet airliners now undergoing final tests. American Airlines, for one, has ordered four billion gallons of kerosene to be delivered over the next 10 years to feed its new fleet of jets. In 1957 the United States produced only 102,000,000 gallons of this fuel that is neither too viscous nor too volatile.

First obtained from coal and shale by a costly process, kerosene is the oldest form of refined petroleum. By 1850 its use was widespread in America. After the bringing in of the first commercially successful oil well in 1859, the use of kerosene jumped. As a by-product it was far more in demand than was another by-product, gasoline. Kerosene was lighting the lamps of China and most of the rest of the world. It was King in America.

But in the 1880s, competition with Russia cut American exports of the fuel 90 per cent. Gas lights and electric lights came in. The internal combustion engine arrived. The automobile appeared. So did the gas stove. The production of kerosene finally fell below that of gasoline in 1911. The oil industry began "cracking" the kerosene into gasoline. Even the old familiar can, stoppered with a potato, disappeared from the village store.

Is gasoline, which put the blacksmith out of business and helped depose kerosene, in any danger? Oil men, a cold and calculating lot, assert their refineries can easily adapt the yield pattern of crude oil to meet any requirements. If someone perfects a kerosene-burning automobile, King Kerosene may get back on the throne.

The World from Taber's Store

In a Year of Grave Issues, Back Home They Dream and Drift

T. R. B.
in The New Republic

We sit on the platform of Taber's store waiting for the two o'clock mail. A caterpillar down below gallops across the hot cement of Route 23 (Stamford-Oneonta). The view sweeps across the pastured valley to the next range of hills, and we have our own range at our back. The Charlotte river knows its way through the valley and highway; milk trains, power lines follow it—as the Mohawks did once. It leads through tall hills with cloud shadows flowing over them and the mild-eyed Jerseys foraging below.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

A Pennsylvania car pulling into Sanford's garage across the way squashes the caterpillar. No, a near miss—there it goes again! It checks momentarily with a confused conception of the world's evils, then goes on again at incredible speed.

Down the road are the two avenues to salvation, Methodist and Presbyterian. Besides them and the big consolidated school about the only things in town are the grain-feed store, Stewart's hardware and the quick lunch.

I do not think Washington reporters should come to such a place. The tranquillity is too shattering. The world is coming unstuck, the election has begun, Congress has gone home.

Home did I say? It has come back to scenes like this, and the local interest here in these respective affairs is minimum.

The calm is an insult to the agitated reporter. Here at Taber's store the citizens are spectators; world events are happening to others, not to them.

It will be a significant election just the same. California spells Knowland's fate; Harriman and Jack Kennedy must have victories—to get their presidential campaigns off the ground. Then there's the census.

In 1960, 14 states will lose seats in the House of Representatives; 9 will gain them—the party that wins the state house this year may gerrymander itself into power for a decade.

And then there's Maine. The Payne-Muskie senatorial election tests how far Senator Payne's playing footsie with Bernard Goldfine has hurt the G.O.P. generally. Sherman Adams should be resigning soon now. Yes, Washington is all a-twit over these things, let alone the rumblings from the Middle East!

How do we get the British troops out of Jordan? The price of milk is pretty good.

What should Eisenhower do now about Little Rock? A good man that Eisenhower; not a Taft, maybe, but he means well.

How long can we pretend that Red China, with a quarter of the world's population, doesn't exist? We got only eight sunny days all June—crops are three weeks late.

The two worlds just don't meet. Which world is real, you ask yourself—Washington or here? Am I crazy or are they?

The sun beats down on the rack of empty pop bottles and the flies and the unsold Herald-Tribunes in which Olympian Walter Lippmann thrice weekly takes Dulles to task, and the staunch Republican editorials of the same page declare "All is well."

Back in Washington before Congress quit it was revealed that a military study was considering the conditions of atomic warfare where the U.S. would say, "Enough; I quit; haul down the flag!"

And because the Senate knew there was some truth to it, it had to deny there was any truth to it. It registered jitters and shock.

Yet in the atomic "gap" ahead (1960 through 1964) Moscow will have the lead.

Vacation reading isn't reassuring either:

"I know of no event since the Russian revolution of 1917 which has so changed, for the worse, the security and power position of our country" (as the Soviets' air-atomic emergence). — Thomas K. Finletter, in Foreign Policy, The Next Phase.

"The real tragedy is not that the Russians are better than we are; they're just doing better because they're trying and we aren't."—Walter Reuther in a recent interview.

Eisenhower has soothed this village, like the nation. But it is not isolated from events. The dedicated minister's son is leaving for Pakistan soon, to teach three years. Ralph Taber's boy is flying in the Army.

Viking-faced, blue-eyed Mr. Sanford, who runs the garage and local fire department (volunteer), has, in his latter capacity, been called into regional conferences on civil defense in case of atomic attack.

Well, then, I ask desperately, how does your Congressman stand on these whirling issues? Katherine St. George?—oh, we're for her! Three times in Congress she has blocked the Army Engineers' local flood-control project to dam the Charlotte.

Every spring Binghamton's dikes and levees are threatened further down the Susquehanna, but the proposed dam would ruin valuable bottom lands up here. That's the big issue here, friend (they say), not China, not Moscow.

Here's the mail car! We crowd in. The eternal hills look down on beautiful America and seem to ask Emerson's daunting question, Little man, why so hot?

Well, maybe the hills have the answer; I don't.

The caterpillar has made its miraculous journey right across Route 23 unscathed. Alas for it, just when it had every reason to congratulate itself, the left front wheel of the Chevrolet bringing the mail flattens it out.

But nobody notices.

For some 20 years soon after the turn of the century, the late Clark McAdams (1874-1935) wrote in his column, "Just a Minute," on the Post-Dispatch editorial page, the philosophy and topical comment of "Mr. Antwine" at an Ozarks crossroads general store. Above is an illustration of the kind drawn for the "Mr. Antwine" feature by staff artists William C. Stack and Robert Lemen, around 1912 to 1918.

Timely Warning From The Milwaukee Journal

Come the night of Nov. 8, 1960, don't lose any sleep waiting for final election returns from the State of Alaska. The polls in Nome and Attu won't close until early the next morning, central standard time.

West Coast returns, as baseball fans would know, are always late anyway from where we sit. Pacific time being two hours slower than central. But the time observed in the western peninsulas and the Aleutian islands of Alaska, called "Bering standard," is five hours slower!

Only the small southeastern strip of Alaska, adjoining British Columbia, is on Pacific time. A tiny strip northwest of that, touching Yukon territory, is on "Yukon standard," three hours behind central. Then comes most of the great land mass of the new state, on "Alaska standard," four hours behind, and finally the Bering standard zone.

Even Hawaii, which should also be voting for President in 1960, will report only four hours behind Wisconsin, being in the zone of Alaska standard time.

If you needed another way to comprehend the colossal measures of size and distances in the forty-ninth state, this may help.

Between Book Ends Tragic Sufferings, Court Romance and a Kansas Tale

A VERY FAR COUNTRY, by E. M. Almedingen. (Appleton-Century-Crofts, 303 pgs., $4.50.)

Letters, journals, family records and photographs were collected for the basis of this true account of an English girl, Ellen, who married a rich Russian land holder in 1842. He was Serge Poltoratzsky, a serious student and owner of vast estates and hundreds of "souls." But the Poltoratzsky fortunes were lost through false stewards, and Ellen and her husband moved to Paris, to suffer actual hunger in the Franco-Prussian war.

Other sufferings followed, including Ellen's almost insupportable widowhood, but she carried on with courage.

It's all true and documented rather dully by Ellen's granddaughter, who also wrote "Tomorrow Will Come," the Atlantic non-fiction prize winner of 1941.

THE COURTS OF LOVE, by Peter Bourne. (Putnam's, 318 pgs., $3.95.)

The knights, battles and beautiful damsels in distress in this particular historical novel move against a background of the court of Eleanor of Aquitaine. Joscelin of Sabres, handsome young knight and troubadour, under oath to his liege lord, Raymond of Prissac, is ordered to abduct the stubborn heiress, the Lady Ghislaine. Raymond's object is matrimony so that he can obtain Ghislaine's fortune. Of course, Joscelin and Ghislaine fall in love and the ending of the story is inevitable.

Mary J. Rose

NONE BUT THE BRAVE, by Frieda K. Franklin. (Crown, 278 pgs., $3.95.)

Phoebe Tanner, the pretty Quaker schoolteacher, is the heroine of this lively, colorful novel which tells a story about Kansas in the 1850s. The First Dragoons were stationed at Fort Leavenworth to protect the wagon-trains from the Indians. Soon trouble came between the Abolitionists and the pro-slavery group. The Dragoons, who had no official authority to interfere, did little to calm the civil storm. Many emotional scenes are enacted and the author skilfully analyzes those conflicts that lay beneath the surface of the bloodshed.

The fast action, the stimulating dialogue, and the attractive authentic characters all add up to delightful reading. Ruth Kister Walendy

WILLIAM S. WHITE

What Has Happened to Privacy?

WASHINGTON.

THERE is much that is wrong with Washington as a national community and these shortcomings are faithfully and sometimes perhaps even vehemently reported for the country's information.

Undoubtedly, we have got here vast numbers of federal bureaucrats whose dogged earnestness in annoying the citizens of the republic — with billions of printed forms in duplicate, triplicate and worse — must be conceded. And, in truth, we have got here a center of endless alarm and crisis and confusion to the rest of the nation. If it isn't the State Department and Lebanon then it is the Pentagon and Quemoy or the Justice Department and Little Rock. Admittedly, too, the country's eardrums most of the time are assailed by a pitiless clack and clamor from this political city.

White

By no fair estimate can it be passed off as a place of reserve and calm deliberation. Granting all this, however, there are very important things to be said for this place—and that is the theme of this little piece.

"Maximum Visibility."

Washington, for all its faults, does not yet have—and with good fortune may not soon have—the new all-plastiglass telephone booth. This is a snugly fitting sort of bulb under which the telephone user sits much as the yellowish slice of coconut cake used to sit under the glass bell on the counter of a railroad restaurant.

The great triumph of this extraordinary symbol of "progress," according to a photo caption, is that it provides "maximum visibility."

To an unscientific and unprogressive type it would appear that the principal value of this "maximum visibility" could hardly be to the man who puts in a dime to use the phone. Rather, it would be to such worthy strollers-by as might like to watch him make his call.

Wives Not Molested.

This, however, is a slight diversion from the point of the moment, and so the thought will be put aside.

Again, political Washington, for all its sins, is happily much less unprogressive than is big business generally in this: No wife here must be analyzed and approved by her husband's boss.

The philosophy in business is that a man can't be a good junior executive unless his wife "fits in" with whatever jolly sales task force to which he may belong.

The fact that some top corporation executives had been providing this arresting advisory service to lesser and would-be corporation executives has, of course, long been known. But how very helpful it has become was only recently illustrated.

In a United Press International dispatch a big-business man has kindly sumarized this work for the general public by announcing several categories of wives with which business has completely lost patience.

The complaining woman, the dominating woman, the possessive woman, the wife-in-a-rut, the bored woman: none of these, it seems, will do at all.

Witless Insolence.

This instance of progress in the art of advice and consultation, like the scientific progress so strikingly shown in the "bubbletop" telephone booth, might seem to some not necessarily desirable progress. But this, too, is rather beside the present point; so it, too, is put aside.

What is the point, then? Why is it that the invasion of privacy in this country is becoming so appalling as to be almost beyond words?

The undoubted constitutional right to free speech is being extended to a very dubiously constitutional right to free looks—to peering and poking into people's private lives and private affairs in a kind of witless, unintentional insolence. A less "progressive" America would have stood this sort of thing for 15 minutes—or make it 10.

As to Public Officials.

True, we are accustomed in Washington to putting the private life of any President, and the private lives of a very few other top officials, under an endless public surveillance.

But they did know this to be part of the job, and they are, after all, public officials in dramatic places.

And even these, and many hundreds of important people indisputably paid by the public to be public servants, are thus far allowed to make their own estimates of their wives—and even to use a low-visibility telephone.

GOVERNORS GET U.S. INCENTIVE PROPOSAL

Revenue Plan Would Divest U.S. of Responsibilities in Two Fields.

HANOVER, N.H., Sept. 9 (AP) — An offer of incentive payments was held out today to induce low income states to accept financial responsibility for their own vocational education and sewage treatment construction programs.

Under the proposal, approved late yesterday by the joint Federal-State Action Committee, the Federal Government would make available to the states 40 per cent of the revenues it now receives from the 10 per cent federal tax on telephone bills.

The proposal provides a formula whereby even the poorest states would receive tax money 40 per cent in excess of the amounts they now receive in federal grants for the vocational education and waste treatment construction projects.

It will be offered with Administration backing at the next session of Congress in the form of a bill amending federal tax law to provide:

1. A tax credit for each state of 3 per cent of the current federal tax of 10 per cent collected within its borders on local telephone bills. The state must levy a state tax of 3 per cent on telephone bills before the Government relinquishes its revenue in that amount.

Distribution by Treasury.

2. Authority for the United States Treasury to distribute the revenue equivalent of an additional 1 per cent of its 10 per cent levy on local telephone bills. This revenue, amounting to $36,900,000 would be distributed among the 31 states for whom the 3 per cent tax credit would fall short of the money they now receive in federal grants for the two programs.

Eleven states would receive only the 3 per cent tax credit. But they still would enjoy surplusses above their current grants ranging from 50 per cent in Washington state to 220 per cent in New York. The others are: California, 201.2; Connecticut, 63.8; Illinois, 134; Maryland, 54.1; Massachusetts, 115.1; Michigan, 80.7; New Jersey, 128.6; Ohio, 71.7, and Pennsylvania, 59.

The proposal was commenced by Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson and New Hampshire's Republican Gov. Lane Dwinell, co-chairmen of the committee, as an important step in a program for shifting back to the states responsibility for purely local functions taken over by the Federal Government in recent years.

OK'd by Three Governors.

It was applauded as well by Govs. Leroy Collins (Dem.), Florida; Theodore R. McKeldin (Rep.), Maryland, and Victor E. Anderson (Rep.), Nebraska, other representatives of the National Conference of Governors.

Anderson described the new proposal as a five-year program at the end of which the federal tax on local telephone service would be reduced from 10 to 6 per cent. By then, he said, it is contemplated that all the states will have levied state telephone taxes or provided other revenues to finance the two programs for which they would have full responsibility.

U.S. Students Find Russians Envying American Prosperity

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—Many Russians are eager to learn about American living standards and improve their own material prosperity, a group of United States students reported yesterday.

Thirty-four students, returning from a 39-day visit to the Soviet Union, agreed that they found a great hunger among Russian students and the general public for knowledge of America.

"They seemed to look to the United States as a goal to which they aspire," said Martin Siegel of Brooklyn.

Russians constantly asked: How many rooms do you have in your homes? Do you own a car? What does your father do for a living and what does he earn? How much do you pay for shoes? Will the government find a job for you?

"They wish to equal us," Siegel said, "and they are willing to give up things to achieve this."

Yolenda Yankoski of Niagara Falls, N.Y., a graduate student at Niagara University, found Russian youths possessed of "an intense pride which overrides their immediate need for material things."

While they found material comforts lagging, some of the students reported several Russian things worth emulating or investigating. Among these they listed full college and university scholarships, military deferment for advanced students, free medical service and inexpensive books, theaters and phonograph records.

The visitors found Soviet schools uneven. Some were as good as our best; some in farm areas appeared poor. They had no chance to observe classes in action during the summer vacation.

A student at Yale Divinity School, David S. Wiley of Harrisburg, Ill., said he attended a crowded Baptist church service in Moscow. Nearly a third of the worshipers were young people, he said. Several Greek Orthodox Catholic churches appeared to be well attended, too, Wiley observed.

The tour was sponsored by the National Student Councils of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., the Lisle Fellowship, the Experiment in International Living, and the ecumenical voluntary service of the United Student Christian Service. A Soviet group of 20 students spent 30 days in the United States starting July 7.

SENATOR FOR CURBS ON LABOR IN POLITICS

Members Must Control Unions, Nebraskan Tells Grain Dealers.

Prohibiting abuses in the political activity of unions must be included in the cleaning up "evils in the fields of labor and management relations," Senator Carl T. Curtis (Rep.), Nebraska, said in a speech prepared for delivery here today.

Curtis, a member of the Senate-Labor-Management Rackets Committee, addressed the Grain and Food Dealers National Association in convention at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson.

Investigations by the rackets committee, Curtis declared, disclosed that the United Automobile Workers and Teamsters Union have "carried on political activity for—and contributed to—governors, mayors, prosecutors and judges in courts of law."

Says Evidence Is at Hand.

"There are certain unfinished matters of investigation that must be wound up by the committee, but the committee and Congress have ample information now upon which to legislate," he said. "A majority of Congress has not been inclined to meet the challenge head-on and oppose union bosses who resist corrective legislation."

Curtis called for legislation "that will place the control of labor unions in the hands of union members themselves." Laws must recognize the fact that union officials act as fiduciaries only and should be accountable to the same extent as guardians and administrators, he said.

"We must strengthen our laws that restrain labor unions in the field of political activities, particularly contributions, not only of money, but of the paid time of workers, radio and television shows, publications and other aids running into great sums of money," Senator Curtis declared.

Without political influence and favoritism, many of the abuses that have been carried on never could have been perpetrated, he asserted. Secondary boycotts, he said, also must be outlawed.

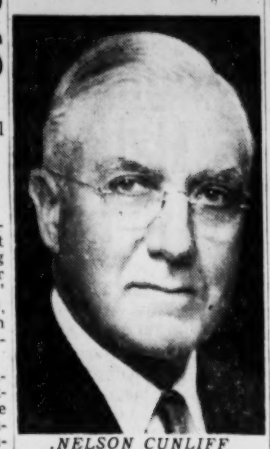

Voluntary Membership.

He said union membership should be voluntary, stating that "compulsory membership invites corruption and abuse of power" on the part of labor organization officers.

Stating that the work of the McClellan committe has not been an investigation of labor or working people, Curtis asserted that the undesirable element in unions was in the minority.

He said the committee also has revealed wrong-doing on the part of management. "Some of it is outright wrong and inexcusable," he said. "There are other cases where employers have been driven to do certain things that in retrospect they nor no one else would defend."

NELSON CUNLIFF, CONTRACTOR, DIES

He Was Former President of Municipal Opera Board.

Nelson Cunliff, vice president of William H. & Nelson Cunliff Co., engineers and contractors, died today at St. Luke's Hospital of complications following an operation. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Cunliff was one of the original incorporators of the Municipal Theater Association and served as a member of the board of directors since 1919. He was a former president of the organization's board, and built and designed the theater in Forest Park.

Mr. Cunliff was born in St. Louis. He was educated in public schools and attended Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., for two years. He left college on the promise that a position he had been offered with the Louisiana Purchase Exposition would qualify him as an engineer. He was with the exposition from 1905 to 1908, employed as an engineer on the restoration of Forest Park after the 1904 world's fair.

In 1908 he was appointed superintendent of construction of the city Park Department and five years later was appointed Commissioner of Parks and Recreation, a position he held until 1919. In that year he was appointed executive officer of the St. Louis Home and Housing Association, a position he resigned in 1921 to become Director of Public Welfare. He was welfare director until 1925. He was a Republican.

With his brother, William H. Cunliff, Mr. Cunliff incorporated the contracting and engineering firm in 1927. He was a life member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Mr. Cunliff lived at 4525 Lindell boulevard and had a country home in Valley Park. His first wife, Mrs. Martha Watson Cunliff, died in 1943.

Cunliff, two other brothers, Albert Cunliff of Webster Groves and Benjamin L. Cunliff of Nashville, and a sister, Mrs. Stuart Mahanay of Webster Groves.

TRUMAN CHARGES HIS NAME WAS MISUSED

Denies He Ever Backed Proposed California Right-to-Work Law.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP) —Former President Truman said yesterday that California promoters of a so-called right-to-work amendment misused his name in alleged support of the proposal.

Truman's statement followed a public denial by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that her husband, the late President, favored the principle of right-to-work laws. Her denial was disputed by the National Right-to-Work Committee.

Truman said in a letter to California's secretary of state he has opposed "right-to-work" laws in his own state, adding "I do not see how I could be for them in another." He said he has not made any statement on the California matter and does not intend to make one.

Truman said he had received a copy of the proposed amendments to the constitution of the State of California. He said right-to-work proponents stated in the document, in effect, that he favored such legislation.

His letter was made public by the National Council for Industrial Peace, which released Mrs. Roosevelt's statement Sunday. Mrs. Roosevelt was listed as co-chairman of the council.

William T. Harrison, executive secretary of the National Right-to-Work Committee, disputed Mrs. Roosevelt's statement. Harrison said President Roosevelt likened the closed-shop principle of compulsory unionism to "Hitler Methods" in connection with the 1941 United Mine Workers strike, and stated:

"Frankly, I do not know what stronger indorsement the late President Roosevelt could have given the right-to-work principle, for the simple reason that right-to-work laws make the closed (or union) shop impossible."

CANCER UNIT WON'T JOIN UNITED FUND

Society Turns Down Invitation to Participate in Drive.

The St. Louis-St. Louis county chapter of the American Cancer Society has rejected an invitation to become a part of the United Fund, it was announced yesterday.

Harry E. Wuertenbaecher, president of the St. Louis area chapter of the society, informed Samuel D. Conant, fund president, of the decision by letter in reply to an invitation to participate in this year's United Fund drive.

The letter said that substantial sums were being expended in this area on cancer research and treatment as a result of independent campaigns throughout the United States.

Money for research "cannot be tied to goals and budgets of United Funds, because scientific research cannot be turned on and off like a faucet," Wuertenbaecher said.

The society conducts an intensive educational drive in conjunction with its fund-raising efforts each year, he told Conant. The drive urges people to get regular health checkups, so that the disease can be cured when found in its early stages.

A merger of the cancer drive with any other campaign would have a deterimental effect on the educational aspects of the cancer society's work, Wuertenbaecher said.

"For many years it has been the policy of the American Cancer Society that our independent crusade is the fastest possible way to conquer the nation's second leading disease killer, cancer," the letter stated.

Invitations to participate in the United Fund had been sent to six health organizations. The cancer society's refusal was the fourth so far. Others which have declined to join are the Multiple Sclerosis Society, the National Foundation and the St. Louis Heart Association.

Major Leagues Vote to Draw New Bonus Rule

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Sports Comment

By Bob Broeg
Post-Dispatch Sports Editor

High-Thigh Hank

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 9—If there was any wonder whether the lure of a professional baseball bonus might make Hank Kuhlmann a safety-first football player this fall, Missouri U. followers can breathe easily. The crew-cut kid from Webster Groves still is, as new Coach Dan Devine tabs him, a "thigh runner."

Broeg

That is, "a strong, hard runner who shakes 'em off with his thighs, not with his hands," Hank runs that hard.

The jaw-jolting stiff arm, a feature of ball-carrying some years back, is a lost art now, like the dropkick, but most backs miss it more than a Kuhlmann, they key man in the new multiple offense of Coach Devine, just as he was bread-and-butter in the belly-series T attack of Frank Broyles last fall.

Kuhlmann ran the ball so often in Broyles's one-horse offense that it was utterly amazing the way he bulled, shoved, plunged and pounded for 554 yards and a 4.1 average against defenses that must have been a heckuva lot more surprised when he didn't carry the mail than when he came charging down suicide alley.

Returning kickoffs, the long-striding, high-stepping lad from Webster Groves ran back for a 32.5-yard average. And his selection as All-Big Eight fullback was as automatic as teammate Charley Rash's conversion kicking.

The College Try

Bing Devine, Walter Shannon and the rest of the Cardinals' front-office will keep fingers crossed the next 10 weeks, hopeful that Kuhlmann, a rawhide 6-1, 185-character, doesn't suffer an injury that might jeopardize his professional baseball chances.

Kuhlmann is a catcher, a hard-throwing, aggressive take-charge guy, who impressed Redbird scouts as one of the two top prospects at the N.C.A.A. College World Series in which an under-rated Missouri team carried Southern California to the final out last spring.

How much the Cards would pay Kuhlmann, with good catchers about as rare as a moleskin in modern football, is one for Gussie Busch, a man of malts and vaults. It's safe to conclude, however, that the Redbirds would pay quite a bit more than the $15,000 former teammate Charley James was given last winter, if not as much as the estimated $60,000 Mike Shannon commanded in early summer.

Devine, as a new coach, still gets a little white around the eyes when he thinks of not having the clever pass-snatching James at wingback and especially when he contemplates how much stronger he'd be at quarterback with Shannon, an outstanding all-round athlete. All Devine has got between him and chaos at quarterbanck is the questionable shoulder of Phil Snowden.

If Dan might seem to have it rough opening at Mizzou—and he probably has—life would be as black as the Tigers' new gridiron jersies without Kuhlmann, whom the optimistic see as an All-America candidate. The farther the team goes and the better it plays, the broader the slender chance the 21-year-old St. Louis suburbanite has to win national as well as regional recognition.

Most important, he's still ready as a senior to play with the same abandon for Devine that he did for Broyles as a junior, for Don Faurot as a sophomore and Clay Cooper as a freshman.

A Passing Thought

"If you're afraid you're going to get hurt, you will," said Kuhlmann, sweat-streaked, blood dripping from a right elbow scraped in yesterday's practice on old Rollins Field. Hank had begun the five-hour split workout weighing 192 and finished seven pounds lighter.

Kuhlmann wants the baseball career—chances are he'll sign in December before a bonus rule can be reinstated—but he felt an obligation for the athletic scholarship and the summer employment that have given him what in the vernacular is known as a freeride through college. Free ride, that is, and no joy ride.

"He's the first one out for practice, the last one in, and he's a great inspiration for the younger players," said Devine.

Although he hadn't played the single wing before he reported a week ago yesterday, the lean-looking, lantern-jawed Kuhlmann has fit hopefully into Devine's multiple offense. From the T he'd already played left half for Faurot. As a tailback he reminds his new coach of Don McAuliffe and Sonny Grandelius, two former Michigan State stars.

Kuhlmann enjoys the single wing more than he did the split-T he played under Ray Moss at Webster Groves and Faurot here, more than the Georgia Tech T of Broyles. Of the some 45 college scholarships he'd been offered, he recalled he'd almost accepted Colorado's because Dallas Ward uses the wingback formation.

"I like the power series it sets up, the tailback off-tackle play," Kuhlmann said, "and I'll be all right, I believe, if I can hit with my passing. I've been overthrowing Dale (Pidcock) and the other receivers."

To Faurot, Hank's passing holds the key to Missouri's season.

"Broyles inherited a deeper squad and more talented I believe, than Dan got from Frank," said the old master of Ol' Mizzou. "Kuhlmann didn't throw much as a sophomore or junior, but he's got a great arm—ask the runners who've tried to run on him in baseball—and if he can pass with accuracy, we could be tough."

Designed To Halt Spending

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (UPI)—The major leagues voted unanimously today to draw up a new bonus rule designed to halt the wild spending for untried baseball talent and to study "needed realignment" of minor league clubs.

Both actions came as executives of the major loops closed a two-day meeting aimed at curing many of the big league ills.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick said the sentiment for the return of the bonus rule with teeth and possibly a $10,000 limit "was strong."

Frick confirmed that major league clubs spent more than $6,000,000 this year to acquire young players, "many of them who haven't even thrown a ball."

All clubs felt that a strong bonus rule was needed to replace earlier ruglations which were tried and abandoned, Frick said.

Frick suggested that a provision givin him a right to examine the club books would quickly stop under-the-table payments which have wrecked earlier bonus rules.

Committees Named.

Two committees were named and a third will be formed later to draw up details of the program for submission to the December meetings at Washington, D.C., Frick said.

The are Chub Feeney, San Francisco; Joe Brown, Pittsburgh, and Bing Devine, St. Louis, of the National League, and Parke Carroll, Kansas City; Bill Walsingham, Baltimore, and Frank Lane, Cleveland, of the American League.

The minor leagues will be asked to name a similar committee, Frick said.

Another committee was named to study "needed" minor league realignment, Frick said. They will go into the minor league situation from every angle from the Triple-A leagues downward, he said.

"Many leagues are in difficulty and generally the minor league setup is out of banance. The committee will seek to cure this," Frick said.

The Baseball Commissioner said the group discussed at length the telecasting of big league games into minor league territory but came to no conclusions.

"It's the same old story," he said. "Until we can get legislation, nothing can be done."

The realignment committee includes Bill DeWitt, St. Louis; John Quinn, Milwaukee, Joe Brown of Pittsburgh, George Weiss, New York; Jonny McHale, Detroit, Grayle Howlett, Tulsa, Okla., and Vinc McNamara of the New York-Pennsylvania League.

Frick was definitely on notice that the National and American Leagues have no immediate interest in expansion.

Frick, who had hoped to use the joint session as a sounding board for his long-nurtured idea of two 10-team leagues, which eventually would blossom into three eight-team circuits, has been told in no uncertain terms that the time for expansion is not yet ripe. In fact, it may be a long time off.

The American League, in a special session, unanimously opposed spreading out beyond its eight clubs. As General Manager Frank Lane of Cleveland put it, "There was absolutely no sentiment for expansion on the part of any club."

N. L. Doesn't Even Meet.

The National League, which Frick hoped, and still hopes, would reincorporate New York into its charter and add another large city, did not even bother to hold a meeting. There was a sort of get-together, but the business concerned only schedule-making for 1959.

Just two clubs—Milwaukee and Chicago—strongly favor expansion. The others are either dead set against it or don't care one way or another.

N.L. President Warren Giles said he didn't bother to call a meeting to discuss expansion because expansion would require unanimous consent and he had never heard enough sentiment expressed to believe that he could get a unanimous vote. Also even if he did get it, there would have to be three-quarters assent to decide which two cities would be accepted as members.

Frick, who would like to see the majors spread all over the map of the United States, said if it were up to him, to would start the ball rolling tomorrow. But, he added, "The commissioner first has to sell the clubs on the idea and that's not going to be easy."

Baseball's Big Three in a Huddle

They could be talking about the coming World Series, the bonus rule or a franchise transfer, but whatever it is, baseball's high brass are discussing it quietly following Monday's session of the American League in Chicago. From left, National League President WARREN GILES, American League President WILL HARRIDGE and Commissioner FORD FRICK.

Boyer Puts Hutch On Football Spot

By Jack Rice

Ken Boyer's athletic abilities are so obvious that there is no letting well enough alone. During a Let's-Admire-Boyer conversation in the Cardinal clubhouse, Manager Fred Hutchinson wandered into speculation about the magic his third baseman could have accomplished with a football.

Hutchinson's turn at praising Boyer occurred after the player's hitting and fielding and dash had been covered by others. Hutchinson eagerly took what was left and promptly buried the other guys who had come to praise Caesar.

"I'll bet that with the arm Ken has, if he had played football he could have passed the thing the length of the field," Hutchinson said.

There was silence. People looked at Hutchinson. Now why would the man break up a perfectly honest session of hero-worshipping with a flight of fancy? Hutchinson interpreted the looks correctly.

"What's so funny about that?" he said. "I threw a football 80 yards once myself."

Eighty feet, he meant?

"Eighty yards," said Hutchinson.

Three feet to a yard in his day, too?

"Eighty yards, three feet to every yard," said Hutchinson.

Boyer Sets 'Em Right.

Nobody ever calls Fred Hutchinson a liar. For one thing he is a truthful man. For another thing he is a great big truthful man. The spirit of true research pointed only one way, to Boyer himself. Perhaps Boyer once had thrown a football 80 yards. Boyer's sports activities other than baseball and basketball never have been discussed.

"No, I never passed a football," Boyer said. "I only played one year of it. We had a small high school at Alba (Mo.) and they didn't have a football team until my senior year. I played fullback in the single wing.

"All the Big Seven and Big Ten schools offered me scholarships in basketball and baseball. I was supposed to spend a week on the Missouri campus and a week on the Arkansas campus but they all knew I was interested in baseball. Besides, my family was in a bind.

"We needed money. My dad was supposed to have heart trouble. We found out later that wasn't it but the medical bills piled up. I signed just under the bonus limit when it was $6000 and I was glad to do it. My older brother, Wayne, went to Washington University and became a dentist.

A Look at Pros Enough.

"The Oklahoma schools were after me, too. I probably would have played football if I'd gone to college. I didn't play in the Army but I watched the pro players in the service go at it. Those guys would gobble you up and I could see a baseball career getting wrecked the first time I came out of a huddle."

Boyer is 6-2, weighs 195 pounds. As a Split-T quarterback prospect he would bring Don Faurot galloping out of retirement, to fall over Bud Wilkinson camped on the doorstep.

Boyer grinned. "Yeah, I've got the build for a Split-T quarterback, but what are you going to do for the brains?" he said.

There was no point disputing his modesty. People in the manager's office just had been saying that Boyer's long hard season, recovering from a hit-nothing start to an almost certain finish as a .300-plus hitter, indicated intelligence. A man must think when he's down a well without a ladder and wants out. Non-thinkers panic. Boyer didn't panic during the hardships of the early season. In last Sunday's averages only one other third baseman in the league, aging Alvin Dark, was hitting over .300.

There is a man who played good football, Alvin Dark. When the Cubs play here tonight maybe he will tell about the time he threw a football 243 feet. That's 81 yards, Hutch.

Talbert in Cooper's Place in Singles Match of Exhlbition

An injury suffered by Ashley Cooper in Sunday's match in the United States tennis championship has forced the Australian star to curtail his activities here tomorrow. Bill Talbert, former Davis Cup captain, will replace Cooper in singles, opposing Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, in the tennis show at Triple A.

The program: 3:45 p.m.—Clinic for boys and girls to be conducted by Talbert and Bill Price, St. Louis, probably with help from Cooper; 4:30—Talbert vs. McKinley; 5:15—Earl Buchcholz Jr., St. Louis, vs. Bob Mark, Australia; 6:00—Cooper and Mark vs. Buchholz and McKinley.

The matches are being played for the benefit of the Yale and Mount Holyoke College Scholarship funds.

Frank Thompson, U.S.L.T.A. officer, was assured of Cooper's appearance here by Esca Stephens, captain of the Australian Davis Cup team. Cooper's injury was in an ankle.

Cards' 1959 Opener April 10 at Home

The Cardinals, under the National League schedule agreed on at the Chicago meeting, will open their 1959 season April 10 at home against the San Francisco Giants. This is four days earlier than play began this year.

After the initial series, the Redbirds will fly to California for one of four trips they'll make West to play San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Cardinal Traveling Secretary Leo Ward pointed out that four trips will be made by six clubs to the West Coast next season. Under this year's schedule the Cards and Chicago are making four, and Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia three.

Beckmann No. 2 End At Illinois

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 9—Bruce Beckmann, 6-4, 200-pound senior from St. Louis Mercy High was promoted to Illinois's second team as right end. Beckmann was on the fourth team last week when drills began.

Beckmann now is ranked only behind Ron Hill, 225-pound senior and a regular last season. He moved up at the expense of 6-6 Ernie McMillon, Chicago sophomore, and Tony Danosky, Lincoln, Ill., junior.

Bruce, whose sophomore brother, Jim, presently is fourth string left end, got his chance last week when Hill was sidelined three days by a stomach disorder. He stepped into Hill's spot and did so well, especially in the scrimmage Saturday that the promotion followed. Beckmann snagged two passes, but his good blocking performance was the chief reason behind his boost in rank. He's always been rated a good receiver.

This week, when the Illini turns its attention to defense, he'll have the chance to solidify his No. 2 spot.

His was one of only two promotions made Monday following the Saturday skirmish. The other saw 240-pound Darrell Dedecker, Atkins, Ill., sophomore and ex-serviceman, rise to No. 2 right tackle in place of sophomore Pat Murphy of Chicago.

"Beckmann's work has pleased us," Coach Ray Eliot said. "If he can show improvement on defense he'll have the chance to play a lot of football this season."

Nicklaus Will Test Harvie Ward in U.S. Amateur Golf

Sports Cameo

By Red Smith

Conversation Piece.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9—Rocky Marciano was in a group lunching in Toots Shor's. "Speak of the devil," a man said. "Have your ears been burning? Some of us were just talking about you yesterday. Talking about bringing you back to fight Patterson."

"I heard about it," Rocky said, "You all agreed it would be very interesting."

"That isn't all," the man said. "We were speculating about the best possible money match that could be made now. Patterson-Moore? Moore-Robinson? Robinson-Basilio? Basilio-Akins? Everybody agreed there was nothing to compare with you and Patterson for big money—except that we hoped it wouldn't happen and were pretty sure it couldn't happen."

Grinning, the former heavyweight champion gave a barely perceptible nod. When he quit the ring three years ago, he was the only champion in the history of mankind who had never lost a fight or been held to a draw. The nod could have been confirmation of his resolve to protect that record forever in the retirement, the only place it could ever be truly safe.

The old champ looked big and tough and relaxed. His sports jacket seemed tight across his shoulders, but there was always this look of bulkiness about him, even as a young contender watching his diet and pounding the road every day, coming in at 184 pounds against Jersey Joe Walcott.

The Boy Grows Up.

"What do you think he weighs now?" a man at the next table asked.

"Two-thirty," Shor whispered behind a hand. "Ask him." The man did.

"Two-twenty-eight," Rocky said, ducking his head.

"What did I say?" the proprietor crowed. "He's cheatin' by a couple pounds."

"No," Rocky said, "here I'm being honest. I could have said 222."

"Two-thirty," Toots insisted. "Why do you think I hugged you when you came in?"

"Is that why you grabbed me?" Rocky said.

"Sure," a man said. "He's studying to run one of those guess-your-weight concession sessions at Coney Island."

"If Patterson ever hit you downstairs—" Shor said, and Rocky laughed.

"When I was in the amateurs," he said, "I boxed like this." He lifted hands and forearms high in front of his face, leaving the body exposed. "When I first went with Al Weill, Charley Goldman asked me what I thought I was doing. 'I don't want to get busted up in the face,' I told him, 'or my mother won't let me fight.'"

Fighting Them Over.

Marciano said he had encountered Archie Moore not long after their bout. It was Rocky's last defense of his title, and he clubbed the gallant old warrior senseless in nine rounds. Archie couldn't understand how the champion had managed to hit him so often with right hands.

"I told him," Rocky said, "how I shortened up with my right, moved over here and dropped it in over his left. I kept hitting him over the ear because it was hard to get a shot at his chin, but I was pretty sure he couldn't keep taking 'em all night."

"Archie told me," Jimmy Cannon said, "that he was astonished because he couldn't catch you with a left hook. He said you can't be hit with a left hook."

"I remember a hook that hit him," another said.

"Walcott," Rocky said, recalling the punch that dropped him in the first round when he was going for Jersey Joe's title. "If it had been a little lower it could've been trouble. When I think of how lucky I was in that fight: He knocked me down and gave me a pretty good licking early. Then when that stuff got in my eyes and I couldn't see, he chose those rounds to coast and catch his breath. I was able to stay close and bluff him for three rounds. Then when he had regained his breath I could see again, and I was able to catch him in the thirteenth."

Blackout.

"You know, Cannon said, "I think the toughest puncher you ever fought was Carmine Vingo. He leveled with a right hand."

"Right," Rocky said. "Walcott knocked me down and Moore knocked me down, but they didn't hurt me. Vingo hit me a right hand and I blacked out, but didn't go down. Just fell into a clinch.

"When Weill made the match he told me, 'I've got you in Madison Square Garden.' I said, 'Good, when is the fight?' He said, "This boy is no sucker.' He said, 'I'm afraid of it, it's a tough match. But stand up for me this time, and we'll do all right.'" Rocky put Vingo in the hospital.

Now lunch was finished and he rose to go, shaking hands.

"Where're you staying?" Shor asked.

"The Pierre."

The Pierre?" a fellow said. "I remember when you and Allie Columbo were happy in the Y.M.C.A."

"You go in with Patterson," Toots said, "and you'll be back there."

St. Louis Players Defeated

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Two-time United States amateur champion Harvie Ward, who ran into trouble with golf's hierarchy last year, starts his comeback today against a confident blond collegian from Ohio State.

Ward drew a bye as the 1958 National Amateur golf tournament opened Monday. He faces a tough test today in 18-year-old Jack Nicklaus, the 1958 Trans-Mississippi king. Should Harvie win, he'll tie the record of the great Lawson Little of 15 consecutive match play victories in this tournament.

Ward won in 1955 and 1956 but drew a year's suspension in 1957 for expense money irregularities. He's favored today, but Nicklaus isn't awed by his opponent, the best he has met in amateur competition.

"If he's in my way I've got to beat him," says Nicklaus who played in his first National Amateur at the age of 15. "That's the only way to win a championship."

Close to Par.

Nicklaus beat Richie Baird of Fresno, Calif., 3 and 2, after shooting a one-over par 36 over the rugged, hilly Olympic Country Club Lake course with its par 35-35—70.

Four players from St. Louis were defeated in first-round action. Joe Switzer bowed to America's Cup player Billy Joe Patton, Morganton, N.C., 8 and 6; Bob Cochran lost to D. J. Silvestri, Sharp Park, Calif., 3 and 2, and Dick Kohlmann and Hord Hardin lost close matches. Kohlmann was defeated on the nineteenth hole by Leslie Fowler, Boulder, Colo., and Hardin lost to Alfred Sams of Macon, Ga., 1 up.

Patton had his spraying woods under better control than usual as he shot the first nine holes against Switzer in two-under-par 33. He was one over par on three holes of the back nine to close out the match during which he had sunk many six-to-eight-foot putts.

There were some close calls but no major upsets in the 72 first round matches. Defending champion Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor of Pomona, Calif., runner-up a year ago, and America's Cup member Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia advanced.

Robbins, an Air Force Lieutenant, squeezed through to a 2-up victory over Dr. Gordon Emerson, a dentist from Spring Valley, Wis., who came here as an alternate. The dentist caught Robbins at the sixteenth but the defending champion shot pars on the final two holes to take the match with a medal score of 75, five over par.

Taylor Pressed.

Taylor won just one-up from Jack Bariteau of San Jose, Calif., after holding a three-up margin after 10 holes.

Hyndman, a 42-year-old insurance man, stood one down at the turn and needed a great approach shot at the eighteenth to save his victory.

Youthful Gary Cowan from Kitchener, Canada, rated the strongest foreign threat, fell before Jim Vickers, former national collegiate champion from Wichita, Kan., 3 and 1, on this 6680-yard picturesque course with its tree-lined fairways.

Those advancing to today's second round included such name players as Charlie Coe and Rex Baxter from the triumphant America's Cup team, Bill Campbell, former captain of the United States Walker Cup team, and Chuck Kocsis, runner-up for the national title two years ago.

Results

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9 (UPI)—Results of second round play in the Fifty-eighth National Amateur Golf Tournament played at the Olympic Olympic Club Course.

Card Dealers and Their Ace

Coach FRANK (POP) IVY and his assistant ABE STUBER pose with the star of the Chicago Cardinals' professional football team, OLLIE MATSON. The Cards will play the Pittsburgh Steelers Friday night at Busch Stadium.

Ollie Matson, one of pro football's renowned ball carriers, figures he may have his best year still ahead of him, he said here yesterday as the Chicago Cardinals worked out for their exhibition game at Busch Stadium Friday night.

That poses the question, how good can a guy get? Two years ago he nearly sparked Ray Richards' next-to-last Cardinal club to the Eastern division crown, gaining 924 yards. That figure didn't include several runs called back on penalties against teammates.

Last season Matson was the last-place Cards' only threat and still gained 577 yards rushing, caught 20 passes for 451 yards, completed two of five aerials himself for 59 yards, returned 17 punts and kickoffs for 208 yards, and scored nine touchdowns.

The six-year pro star explained that he was under par last season, playing much of the time in a weakened physical condition caused by flu.

"I weighed only 195 pounds last year," he said. "That might sound like a healthy figure, but it wasn't for me. My best weight is 210—which is what I weigh now."

The Cardinals of Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy will have Matson at left halfback when they oppose Pittsburgh's Steelers in the Friday night game at Busch Stadium.

Matson, in other pre-season games this year, scored twice against the San Francisco 49ers and ran 94 yards to tally against the Los Angeles Rams last week.

In 1952 Matson was an Olympic sprinter, finishing third in the 100-yard dash at Helsinki. In five years of pro football with the Cards he has carried the ball for 2826 yards, caught passes for 1685 yards and returned kicks for another 2480 yards. His scoring total is 240 points.

Giants Games on Pay TV Next Season

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Sept. 9 (AP)—Skiatron, or pay television, will go into operation for San Francisco Giants' games next spring, Horace Stoneham, club president, informed the stockholders at their annual meeting in Jersey City.

Stoneham also predicted a pennant for San Francisco next year, saying the club needed just two or three more players to bring that about, and that he expected to obtain them, probably from the farm system.

He said that the way had been cleared for Skiatron and that work would start soon on the mechanical installations.

Concerning the current season, Stoneham said the attendance should top the 1,250,000 mark, or about double what they drew at the Polo Grounds last year.

The entire slate of directors was re-elected at the meeting with the exception of one man. Shirley Gray of Chicago was named to replace Dr. Anthony Palermo. Stoneham was re-elected president.

Don Larsen Not on Yank Series List

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—The New York Yankees' Don Larsen, who in 1956 pitched the only perfect game in world series history, may not be in the 1958 series.

The Yankees disclosed today they have listed 23 eligible players with Commissioner Ford Frick's office for the post-season series, probably with the Milwaukee Braves next month.

Larsen's name is not on the list. Neither are the names of Pitchers Murry Dickson and Tom Sturdivant.

Dickson was purchased from the Kansas City Athletics Aug. 30 and would be eligible for the series in the ordinary course of events.

Sturdivant has an injured heel and is currently on the disabled list. Larsen is suffering from an ailing elbow in his pitching arm and has not pitched since Aug. 16.

The Yankees have a choice of picking two of the three men to complete the 25-man eligible list. They can make their selections any time until the start of the world series, Wednesday, Oct. 1.

Parochial League Opens Play Sept. 21

The St. Louis Parochial Football League will open its season with three games on Sept. 21. Two new teams, Priory and SS. John and James of Ferguson have entered the circuit.

In opening games, St. Joseph of Clayton will play Barat Hall; SS. John and James will play Annuciation of Webster Groves and Priory will oppose Our Lady of the Pillar. St. Roch draws a bye.

Rules of the circuit call for players to be not more than 14½ years of age, Sept. 1, and weigh not more than 140 pounds.

Officers of the league are: Andrew Watson, president; Robert Anselmo, vice president; John Ghio, secretary, and James Murphy, treasurer.

Jockeys Suspended

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP) — Hawthorne stewards announced 10-day suspensions for Jockeys Lois Cooke, Dick Barnett and Dave Erb for "careless riding" in Saturday's $25,000 Chicago Handicap.

Cooke was aboard Bounty Bay, the winner; Erb rode Dogoon, the favorite, which finished second, and Barnett was on Royal Sting, which finished second to last.

Cooke and Erb will start their suspensions today and Barnett will begin his Wednesday.

Vim Beats Columbia To Tie Yacht Series

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 9 (AP)—Vim beat Columbia in a do-or-die yacht race yesterday and bounced back into contention for the role of America's Cup defender.

The 19-year-old sloop won by one minute, 35 seconds in a 24-mile triangular race sailed in a steady westerly breeze of 12 to 15 knots.

The series continues today with a 24-miler over a windward leeward course.

Elapsed times were three hours, nine minutes for Vim, three hours, 10 minutes, 35 seconds for newly built Columbia.

The victory evens the current series between the two 12-meter yachts at two-two. Overall, elderly Vim has a five-three edge over her younger rival in match racing.

But this series is what counts.

Big 8 Shuffle Up to Buffaloes

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 9 (UPI) — It could have been Colorado's turn to go to the Orange Bowl, but the Buffaloes will have to win the berth on merit and not by default this year.

In the past, the second-place Big Eight Conference teams have alternated with Oklahoma in going to the Orange Bowl because the champion could not repeat as a bowl representative.

That restriction is off this year and Oklahoma is available for the Oranges again.

But if there ever was a season when there was a chance for an end to Oklahoma dominance of midlands football this is the year. Coach Dallas Ward of Colorado can boast of 19 lettermen, including six returning starters from the 1957 team.

Included in that group are Quarterback Boyd Dowler, speedy Halfback Eddie Dove, and two of the finest guards in the nation, John Wooten and Bill Mondt.

Tutored by Baugh.

Dowler measures 6-5 and weighs 215 pounds, but is exceptionally fast and above average in all quarterback chores. He received special pass instruction this spring from all-time great Sammy Baugh.

Oklahoma mastermind Bud Wilkinson freely admits he will have more speed in the backfield and thus a better offense than the team that won 10 and lost one last year, but seeks refuge with the remark that his defense will be weaker.

Wilkinson has 26 lettermen returning, including three starters and all but one of the potent second unit. Among the returnees are All-America candidate Bob Harrison at center, Right End Joe Rector and Left Half Jackie Sandefer.

In addition, he has two sound quarterbacks in senior David Baker and junior Bobby Boyd, either of whom could carry on the tradition of great Oklahoma quarterbacks.

The surprise of the Big Eight could be either Missouri or Kansas, or both. Jack Mitchell, a Wilkinson alumnus, has taken over at Kansas, and already his fast, rugged football is evident.

He has an outstanding tackle in John Peppercorn and a speedy halfback in Bubba Floyd, but lacks overall depth and experience. He probably will have sophomores starting at quarterback, fullback and left end.

Another new coach, Dan Devine of Missouri, said the only thing he was pleased with was the fact "the squad worked hard." He's worried about a quarterback to pass and guide his multiple offense, as well as pass receivers.

Devine will depend heavily on Hank Kuhlmann at fullback and Guard Charlie Rash.

Kansas State, Iowa State and Nebraska all will have sophomore-laden clubs.

Oklahoma State, under the direction of Cliff Speegle, will field a veteran team with 18 of the top 22 performers of 1957. It likely will be the best at Oklahoma State since 1945, but the Cowboys are new members of the conference and will not compete for the title until 1960.

NBA Plans Crackdown On 2 Champs

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 9 (UPI) — The National Boxing Association was expected to crack down on Champions Sugar Ray Robinson and Archie Moore today.

Middleweigh ruler Robinson and lightheavyweight boss Moore were high on the agenda for the N.B.A.'s second day of convention at the Riviera hotel.

Resolutions were to be proposed, at least, that the two "old men" of the throne room be ordered to make plans pronto for suitable defenses of their crowns or risk having them vacated.

Robinson of New York, 38, hasn't defended his 160-pound diadem since last March 25 when he recaptured it from Carmen Basilio. His six-month period will be ended Sept. 25. And the N.B.A. wants to know whether he will defend soon or whether he plans to retire.

Before last week's fight between Basilio and Art Aragon at Los Angeles, Sugar Ray promised to defend early next year against the winner, "If I don't retire meanwhile."

Moore, 43 or more, hasn't put his 175-pound bonnet on the line since last Sept. 20, when he knocked out Tony Anthony at Los Angeles.

Archie was negotiating recently for a defense against Canadian Yvon Durelle at Montreal. The N.B.A. wants to know when he intends to defend against Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, top-ranked among contenders more than two years.

At yesterday's opening session the N.B.A. took a crack at Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati, O., former heavyweight champion. It passed a resolution recommending that Charles be denied a license if he tries to fight in any N.B.A. state.

In Cincinnati Charles expressed amazement at the association's resolution. "I can't understand why they would do that," Charles said when told of the N.B.A. action. "Especially after my first comeback performance in (Fairmount) W.Va., (Aug. 28, against Johnny Harper of Steubenville, O.) which I won with some to spare."

A committee on uniform scoring of fights and a committee on uniform physical examinations were to be appointed today.

Belleville Coach Pay Is Boosted

A 5 per cent across-the-board wage increase for the 12 members of the high school's athletic coaching staff was voted last night by the Belleville Township Board of Education.

The coaches, who fill 20 coaching positions at the high school, have not indicated whether they will accept the increase. They had asked for a 14 per cent increase.

The board last week was faced with a threat of strike after voting to continue last year's pay schedule, which amounted to a total of $10,121.

H. B. Tabor, football coach, signed and returned his contract yesterday with the portion referring to salary penciled out. A member of the board noted that removing the pay provision voided the contract.

Tabor has indicated he would continue to prepare the football team with its home opener Friday night against Ritenour High in order not to "let the boys down."

Jefferson City Team Forfeits Meet Game

CUSHING, Okla., Sept. 9 (AP)—Cushing eliminated Dallas from the Southwest regional sandlot baseball tournament last night, bunching six runs in the third inning for a 6-1 decision over the Texans.

In the nightcap, Jefferson City, Mo., forfeited, 9-0, after Houston, Tex., had built up a 20-0 lead in the sixth inning.

That left Houston as the only undefeated team in the meet.

The Texans meet Cushing tomorrow night while Jefferson City takes on Oklahoma City.

Miss Hanson, Miss Wright Tie for Title

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 9 (AP)—Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., gained four strokes in a head-to-head battle with Mickey Wright of San Diego yesterday to tie for first place in the $8500 Dallas women's open golf tournament.

They will meet today in an 18-hole playoff for first money, $1247.35. Second place will be $961.40.

The two wound up with 284 for 72 holes.

Miss Wright, who started the final round with a four-stroke lead, soared to a 5-over-par 77, while Miss Hanson came home with 73, missing a short putt on the final green that would have given her first place.

It was a day when all scores skyrocketed because of pins that had been put in the most difficult places in order to toughen up the 6238-yard Glen Lakes Country Club course.

There wasn't a score below 70 all day.

Winning third money of $760 was Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, who had a closing 74 for 285.

Tying for fourth place were Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., and Jackie Pung of San Francisco. Each wound up with 286 and won $560.97.

Wehmeier Operation Reported Successful

DETROIT, Sept. 9 (AP) — Herman Wehmeier, a Detroit Tiger pitcher, underwent an operation at Henry Ford Hospital for removal of a calcium deposit on his elbow.

Dr. C. Leslie Mitchell termed the operation successful. He said Wehmeier will be in the hospital for several days and then return to his home in Cincinnati.

Wehmeier will remain on the Tigers' disabled list for the rest of the season.

The Nooters eliminated the White Rodgers, 9-1, in the Y.M.C.A. Industrial Association baseball tourney at Forest Park. Nooter's next game is with Mallinckrodt at Carondelet No. 1 tomorrow night starting at 7 o'clock.

2 Schools Have New Coaches

The Southwest
By Dukes Duford

The Southwest Conference, the most unpredictable in the nation year in and year out, has two teams, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, favored to battle it out for the championship. However, this doesn't mean much, for last season the Baylor Bears, a great pre-season favorite, finished in the cellar. That's been the pattern of this loop for years. The favorite loses and the underdog wins.

Rice's Owls, defending champions, despite losing their 1-2 punch when quarterbacks King Hill and Frank Ryan graduated, cannot be counted out of the running as the Owls will have 19 lettermen returning.

Texas is another club that must be considered; the Longhorns finished second last year with a young squad and a new coach. Darrell Royal loses just six starters and has a fine crop of sophomores and plenty of juniors with experience coming back.

Texas A & M and Arkansas, both strong contenders last season, have new coaches. Since both will have to get acquainted with new offenses, not much is expected of them this year.

Baylor Is Weakened.

Baylor suffered serious losses through graduation. The entire starting line is gone as is the regular quarterback and right halfback. Over-all prospects offer little hope for the Bears to get out of the second division.

Texas Tech will be improved but isn't yet eligible for conference championship consideration.

Southern Methodist, which meets Missouri U. at Columbia Oct. 11, looks like the best. If Coach Bill Meek, who was successful at Houston and who had his Mustangs in the running his first year, is able to escape injuries when he tangles with Notre Dame and Ohio State early in the season, he has the talent it takes to win championships. Quarterback Don Meredith, sensational passer who set an all-time conference record for percentage of passes completed in 1957, is back.

S.M.U. is well equipped to operate from either the spread-formation or the regular T, for Meek has quarterback Tom Dunn to handle the ball behind the T and Meredith behind the spread. Dave Sherer is the country's finest punter. Tom Koenig, a tremendous guard, also will be on hand along with 20 other lettermen. They will receive help from a crop of sensational sophomores; the most outstanding are Glenn Gregor and Frank Jackson, speedy backs. Bobby Hunt, a 250-pound guard, will be given the assignment of patrolling the line on defense.

T.C.U. and Rice Strong.

Texas Christian could win the title and surprise no one, for Coach Abe Martin has a fine quarterback in Hunter Enis; he's just the man to make Martin's open style of play click. There's also a fine batch of running backs; the most experienced ones are Marvin Lasater and Marshall Harris. The Horned Frogs' front line has depth and experience.

The Rice Owls could easily win the championship again. Coach Jess Neely has 20 lettermen returning plus his key man, Larry Duitt, a fine quarterback. The coach has a wealth of experienced backfield men on hand; the best of them is fullback Ray Chilton, a great line crasher. Buddy Dial and Gene Jones are a couple of fine ends.

Texas, which surprised everyone by finishing second last year with a new coach, Royal, and mostly with sophomores, must be reckoned with. The most serious loss suffered was the graduation of Walter Fondren, their great quarterback, whose kicking played an important part in all of their games last year. Texas will be strong on defense—the front wall has plenty of weight and experience. The question mark is whether the offense will be good enough because of lack of a good passer.

Broyles at Arkansas.

Texas A & M and Arkansas are question marks. The Aggies lost their coach, Paul Bryant, and All-America halfback, John Crow, Heismann Trophy winner. The new coach, Jim Myers, has good material; however, converting A & M's offense from the "T" back to the single wing may take more time than he had this spring and fall.

Frank Broyles, Arkansas' new coach, faces a greater problem than Myers, for the entire 1957 Razorback line graduated and so did all-conference fullback Gerald Nesbitt and top quarterback George Walker. It looks like Broyles' chances are slim and Arkansas is a couple of seasons away from being a title contender.

Baylor isn't likely to improve. Coach Sam Boyd lost 22 lettermen and replacements are not too promising.

Over in the Border Conference it's Arizona State again; the Sun Devils were undefeated in 1957; they suffered little loss of personnel. Frank Kush, line coach for Dan Devine who moved to Missouri U., takes over as head coach. With 23 of the Sun Devils' lettermen back, they are expecting another championship.

West Texas State is the only team that may offer Arizona State serious opposition. Coach Clark Jarnagin has 19 lettermen returning, among them 210-lb. all-Border fullback Bob Raliff.

Texas Western, champion in 1956, has a slight chance; the Miners have a good line and a fine passing attack.

Hardin-Simmons, coached by Sammy Baugh, lacks a passer to replace the great Ken Ford.

New Mexico A. & M. and Arizona are both rebuilding.

Umpire Good Scout, After All

By John J. Archibald

"It used to be that when the game was over I could go back to the hotel and forget about baseball," said Lee Ballanfant. "Now I've found that when the players leave the field my work is just beginning."

As he said it, Ballanfant, a National League umpire for 22 seasons, hunted and pecked a few final typewritten words on a letter to his boss. Ballanfant, who displayed a gruff, scowling appearance as befitted a veteran umpire, is now a pleasant, talkative member of his new profession, that of scout for the Chicago Cubs.

One of the objects of Ballanfant's attention in recent days was the Maplewood - Richmond Heights team in the American Legion junior baseball tournaments at McPherson, Kan., and Hobart, Okla.

The switch from an umpire's dark blue uniform to the gay colored sport shirts of a scout in the Southwest territory typifies the difference in the two phases of baseball for Ballanfant.

"I used to kid the scouts about their soft jobs," said the old arbiter. "I'd tell them they should back up to the pay window when they got their checks. Now I know different."

No Easy Task.

"The same fellows that I used to rib are now treating me fine," Ballanfant said. "Scouting is a tough business and you don't learn it in a few weeks or months, as much as you may know about baseball.

"I haven't signed a boy yet and there have been only a few that I've talked to about signing, but next spring there will be a number of prospects getting out of school and I'll know more about them.

"I believe a former umpire has an advantage as a scout. We've seen pitchers of all kinds and we know what kind of curves and fast balls are most effective. An ump knows what will get the batter out."

It isn't unusual for former major league umpires to turn to scouting. Former arbiters who now carry a stopwatch and notebook include Babe Pinelli, Ted McGrew and Bill Stewart.

Ballanfant had to give up umpiring last fall because his legs gave out.

Long Career of Leg-Work.

"They lasted me through four years of umpiring in Class D ball, seven in the Texas League and 22 in the National," Ballanfant said. Arthritis and general wear-and-tear made the long hours on the field too painful last season and the gruff Texan had to put his indicator on the shelf.

"I started as an umpire in 1924 after I broke a leg while playing shortstop in the Texas League," Ballanfant said. "It was just to be for one year, until I could play again."

Ballanfant, 63, draws a National League pension of $2000 per year, so the scouting is not just a hobby. The maximum umpire's pension is $2400.

"The umpires don't understand why they are not permitted to get in on the players' pension fund," Ballanfant said. "We work without charge in the All-Star game, one of the sources of the players' money, and would be glad to contribute to the fund as they do. If I were a player with the same amount of service I would be drawing $550 a month."

Ah, the Memories.

Ballanfant said that no particular game involving the Cardinals stood out in his mind, but he recalled with great warmth such episodes as the Dean - vs. - Hubbell pitching duels, the Gashouse Gang and Pepper Martin's Mudcat Band that would hold impromptu concerts on any depot platform, his battles with Leo Durocher and Frank Frisch, the 1946 World Series, and the day Stan Musial first played in the majors.

LEE BALLANFANT

"I was working at first base that day in '41 when Stan came up," Ballanfant recalled. "He got hold of the ball a couple of times and I said to the other umpires that I'd bet that kid would be around for quite a while."

Musial, said the ump, had the best batting eye of any player he saw. The critics who have said that Stan gets the breaks from the arbiters because he is Musial are wrong, Ballanfant stated. He said that Stan is seldom called out on strikes because of his remarkable ability to follow the pitch all the way, knowing whether or not it will catch the corner.

The batter with the next best batting eye, in Ballanfant's opinion, was Eddie Stanky.

Ballanfant and his wife will celebrate their 39th wedding anniversary at their home in Dallas next month. By then the tournaments will be over and only the paper work will remain.

Three Notre Dame Backs on Ailing List

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 9 (AP) — Three members of the probable first siring Notre Dame backfield are on the injury list.

Quarterback Bob Williams and Fullback Nick Pietrosante were both banged up in Saturday's intra-squad scrimmage and Halfback Pat Doyle was injured Friday.

All are expected to be back in action before the week is over.

Coach Terry Brennan said Saturday's scrimmage was a good one but it proved there is much work to be done.

Johnston Signs

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9 (UPI)—The Philadelphia Warriors announced the signing of veteran Neil Johnston for his eighth straight season with the National Basketball Association team. Johnston, the biggest scorer in the club's history, has a lifetime record of 10,190 points as a Warrior. He scored 1388 points last season for a 19.5 game average.

Stevenson Back in U.S., Terms Dulles Policy 'Clumsy, Erratic'

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson, returning from a three-month tour fo 13 European countries, including Russia, characterized United States foreign policy today as "clumsy, erratic and self-righteous."

Stevenson said he found little "neutralist sentiment" in Europe but "an undertone of anxiety about the conflict between the East and West." He said there was too much tendency to look to the United States for leadership and blame the United States for everything that goes wrong.

"I suppose it is understandable in view of the responsibilities which accompany our power and the clumsy, erratic and self-righteous conduct of our foreign affairs," he said.

Silent About Islands.

He said the defense of Formosa is a "a solemn United States obligation" but declined to say whether he felt that defense should include going to war over the Quemoy and Matsu islands.

The former Democratic presidential candidate said he believed Soviet Premier Khrushchev's latest letter to President Eisenhower was written primarily "for the benefit of Russian-Chinese relations." But he said, "when Khrushchev says this is a dangerous situation, I certainly agree to that, and I hope that he will use his influence with his Chinese partner against the use of force. . . ."

Stevenson said he did not believe China "will be foolish enough to attempt an invasion of Formosa." He added he was glad China appeared willing to negotiate, and "I hope that the talks will proceed promptly."

Stevenson said he "could have no more agreebale welcome back to America" than news of the Democratic victories in Maine's election. "It seems to indicate a trend toward the eDmocratic party and great confidence and respect in Gov. (Edmund) Muskie."

Stevenson said he planned to "be as active as possible" in Democratic campaigns this fall.

Praises Harriman, Hogan.

He said he thinks New York's Averell Harriman "has been a good Governor and I am confident that he will be re-elected." He said it was "no secret" he had favored the nomination of Thomas K. Finletter for the Senate in New York but added that New York county District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, who got the nomination, "has had an excellent record as district attorney, and I have no doubt that he will make an excellent Senator."

Sevenson said he heard less talk in Europe about United States nntegration problems than he had expected. He said perhaps the subject had been avoided out of courtesy to him.

He said he had been on record for four years as to his agreement with the Supreme Court's school decision.

"Meanwhile I'm still waiting for President Eisenhower to exress his views," Stevenson said. "It is a long time past since he should have."

He was asked if Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus were as well known in Europe as the late Senator Joseph McCarthy. He said Faubus was "well known in Europe, but I don't think he approaches Senator McCarthy as yet."

Stevenson was accompanied by his youngest son, John Fell Stevenson, and his law partner, William Blair. He said he planned to spend a few days in his New York law office before going to Chicago.

Inside Russia

ated by distances as it is on the busses, but is 50 kopecks (12½ cents) for any destination. The trains are cleaner, faster, and better-looking than in New York, and carry special compartments for children and very old people. In the cars, standing passengers hold on to overhead rails, which to my mind are more convenient than straps.

But the main thing to say about the Moscow Metro is its luxuriousness. Stations, built of marble, look like palaces, and have dazzling chandeliers instead of strip lighting. The Metro seems at first glance to be a perfect example of conspicuous waste, but actually it was built extravagantly for a purpose, to represent a goal. Like some of the n w luxury hotels, it is a kind of promissory note, a demonstration of the rewarding future. The Metro says to the people. "This is the kind of thing that everybody will have in every field someday."

Moscow's Buildings.

Skyscrapers, like the Metro, give augury of the future. Moscow convention does not favor the word "skyscraper"—this smacks too much of foreigness and the bourgeois — and these structures are known as "multi-story buildings." As a matter of fact, they are not very high, running to 20 or 30 stories as a rule, but they look high in comparison.

Their architecture is old-fashioned, and they resemble a combination of the Woolworth Building and an atrociously ornate wedding cake. But they make a brave show at night, because their facades are tricked out with red lights, and glowing red stars surmount the towers. Several are new blocks of apartments—complete with local shops, telegraph stations, post offices and restaurants.

Housing Overcrowded.

Every citizen, by terms of the Sanitary Code, is supposed to have nine square yards of floor space, but most do not have even half of this. Moscow has at least 25 per cent more population than it can hold, and people are crowded three, four, five, or even more to a room, with disastrous social consequences. Young people cannot marry, because they can find no place to live. Scarcely any Soviet family is without a covey of in-laws living on the premises, and it is rare for any family to have its own private bath and kitchen.

Sometimes a single doorway leads to a nest of stalls where a dozen people live; as a result private addresses are very complicated in Moscow. Citizens have their own doorbell rings, like users of a party-line telephone in the United States. If a Russian friend asks you to call, he may give his address as such-and-such a number on such-and-such a street, Block G, Entrance F, fourth floor, Number 17, ring two bells long, one short.

One reason why the streets are so thronged at night, even in winter, with crowds solidly marching down the boulevards in broad phalanxes and men and women carrying infants swaddled to the eyes, is that homes are so unbelievably crowded, squalid and uncomfortable. People, even after a hard day's work, rush out of doors simply because the circumstances of life at home are so tedious, if not unbearable. There is little room in Moscow for what living should be about—but try to tell this to a good Soviet citizen.

Clothes Are Drab.

What contributes most to Moscow's superficial look of drabness is people's clothes. These have certainly improved in the last few years, but they are still revolting. Their positive shabby manginess, as well as cheap quality and lack of color, is beyond description. The black worn by almost everybody is not a shiny, sparkling black, but doleful, dead, dreary.

Russians are, as a result, acutely conscious of the clothes foreigners wear, particularly their shoes, and people on the street will offer to buy your shoes off your feet. The whole country has a fixation on shoes. Moscow is the city where, if Marilyn Monroe should walk down the street with nothing on but shoes, people would stare at her feet first.

But clothes and the way people look are a subject requiring elaboration. One reason why people seem to be shabby and unkempt is that soap is expensive, and not of good quality; it isn't easy for a Russian woman to keep her hair, for instance, clean and shining. Another is that clothes are bought for utility, not for looks; pretty colors show dirt more than black, which is why black predominates. Clothes have no shape, but then neither have most Russian women. Moscow would look a 100 per cent better if every citizen lost 30 pounds.

Men Short and Solid.

Men are short and squat, built like square corks. It is unusual to meet a Russian taller than five foot seven or eight. The Russian mode, for men, is to wear suits with very wide padded shoulders and trousers wide at the bottom, flapping almost like sailors' pants, which accentuate the prevailing impression of breadth, squatness and solidity.

Toughness—that is a characteristic everybody sees at once. Perceptible is a latent capacity for violence, running just below the surface. Hardly anybody ever visits Russia without seeing somewhere a sudden inexplicable fist fight. Also, let us repeat, life is extremely serious. Some citizens break bonds if only on account of the strain imposed on them. People in the West have little conception of how mercilessly hard working Russians have to be in order to survive, as well as to put into efficient operation and protect what they call proudly their new society. These are a strong people, even if not free.

Thus, it seems clear, the die was cast. (Unless, to be sure, the die is hastily picked up at the last moment; and we once again take the course of backing down, after still another round of big bold talk by the American government.)

The figure of John Foster Dulles clearly dominated and towered above the whole process by which the die was cast.

TUCKER CITES NEED OF LONG-RANGE PLAN

City planners should avoid the piecemeal approach and take a broad, long-range view in tackling the problems of local government, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker declared today in an address at a University of California planning conference.

The planning function has become recognized as an important part of local government, he told the conference at Lake Arrowhead, Calif., but most of the planning which currently takes place is of the "short-run" variety.

Emphasizing the need for breadth and flexibility in planning, Tucker declared:

"Some of the major efforts intended for real long-range planning have become crystallized into a rigid adherence to 'The Plan.' Such efforts have lacked the facility of revision on the basis of constant re-examination of cultural, technical and economic changes and their projected effects upon the society."

There is a serious lag between recognition of an emerging problem and adoption of measures recommended to cope with the problem, he continued. He attributed this delay ot strained tax resources, the difficulty of attracting top personnel to low-paying jobs, conflicts of interest in diverse metropolitan societies and the complexity of governmental structures.

Mayor Tucker cited the welter of 98 municipalities and the variety of special districts in St. Louis and St. Louis county as an example of governmental multiplicity. Noting that a board of freeholders currently is studying the problem here, he declared:

"It is important for planners to recognize, however, that in St. Louis or any other metropolitan area, what seems to one the functionally rational reorganization of structure may to others appear to be contrary to their interests.

"Planning means co-ordination of efforts, and the complexity of our structures of government makes co-ordination a real problem."

COUNTY AND CITY REGISTRATION DAYS THIS WEEK

U.S. TO MAKE $100,000,000 DEVELOPMENT LOAN TO INDIA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—The United States has promised $100,000,000 in United States development loan funds to help ease Indias acute foreign exchange position.

States Department officials said the assurance was given yesterday by Undersecretary C. Douglas Dillon in an hour-long session with India's visiting Finance Minister, Morarji Desai. B. K. Nehru, India's roving economic ambassador, sat in.

The funds are part of an international effort by the World Bank and five creditor nations to help India meet urgent requirments. Besides the United States contribution of $100,000,000, the World Bank is expected to advance $100,000,000 for the development of Indian railroads, the United Kingdom will provide $112,000,000, West Germany $40,000,000, Canada $17,000,000 and Japan $10,000,000.

In addition to the long-term development loan, the United States Agriculture Department is preparing a $200,000,000 surplus food program.

CONTRACTS LET FOR PAVING JEFFERSON, OTHER PROJECTS

Six contracts were let by the Board of Public Service today. Henry L. Perkinson Construction Co. received a $50,700 contract to pave widened Jefferson avenue, between Olive street and Washington boulevard. At Chain-of-Rocks pumping station, Woermann Construction Co. was low bidder, with $27,460, for a concrete floor, pipes and valves for three new pumps to be installed later.

Two other contracts at Chain-of-Rocks were to Robinson Steel Construction Co., $8912, for a steel stairway and elevator hoist, and to Otis Elevator Co., $19,290, for an elevator.

Two contracts for recreation equipment went to Salsich Equipment Co. They were $4677 for equipment at a playground at St. Louis avenue and Goodfellow boulevard, and $8214 for equipment in new Tilles Park, Hampton and Fyler avenues.

Moroccan government sources said last week Morocco would join. Formal adherence will make Morocco and Tunisia the ninth and tenth members of the league, which has headquarters in Cairo.

WOMAN PASSENGER STABS BUS DRIVER IN FARE DISPUTE

Wallace Leezy, a driver for East St. Louis City Lines, was stabbed last night by a woman passenger in a dispute over a transfer at the St. Louis terminal, 521 St. Charles street.

Leezy, who was treated at City Hospital for wounds of the right shoulder, told police he refused a transfer demanded by Miss Irene Cotton, 1013 Gaty street, East St. Louis, because she had not paid the fare. She stabbed Leezy with a pocket knife, witnesses reported. She was disarmed by a passenger and held for police.

Leezy, 40 years old, lives in Collinsville. Miss Cotton is a dishwasher.

U.S. Economy Today

WHEN BUSINESS GOES HOUSE-HUNTING

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—All across the land cities small and large are looking for new industrial plants to boost the local economy. And even in today's slower tempo of branch plant building there are still a sizable number of companies looking for new locations.

Getting the two together is the trick—both for the communities and for corporate management.

Sam Dawson

State and local development agencies are estimated to have spent 40 million dollars last year trying to attract more industries.

Even so, some industrial executives say that many town boosters seem unaware of industry's actual needs before it can build a successful plant. One Milwaukee firm has drawn up a list of these needs as a yardstick, both for communities and industry.

A REVERSE SWITCH to this is that some areas—particularly residential suburbs of big industrial centers—protest strongly against letting in industrial plants. In this special field there are industrial and commercial realty firms that help communities find interested corporations and help industries find locations and fit into the local scheme of things with minimum of friction.

AN INDUSTRIAL RULE OF thumb on choosing between different prospective plant sites is offered by J. C. Cleaver, president of Cleaver-Brooks Co. of Milwaukee. It grew out of the firm's search for a site to serve its Canadian market for boilers and burners. The company was flooded with literature, letters and leaflets, some from the United States, although its announced intent was to build in Canada. Cleaver's tests for choosing an industrial nesting place are these: Nearness to markets, to population centers, to raw materials, to good transportation lines; labor's stability of supply, capability of being trained in skilled trades, and competitive wage structures; pleasant living conditions with good schools and recreational areas, a church-going population, adequate law enforcements; nondiscriminatory taxes, local government support and interest in new business, the citizens sympathy for business problems, civic pride in community, enterprising press and radio, cooperation of established business men; availability of land to build and expand, good public utilities, and adequate services at hand for maintaining the new plant; and last, says Cleaver, "an aura of quiet confidence in the success of the future." (He finally chose Stratford, Ont. for his $900,000 investment.)

INDUSTRIAL RELOCATION was running at a record rate before the slump. One Philadelphia specialist in the industrial and commercial realty field (Frank G. Binswanger, Inc.) says the search still is fairly hefty. On one hand, some companies old or fledgling don't need high rental space in cities and others want to lick rising transportation costs to new markets. On the other, many communities have unoccupied plants vacated by departed concerns. In some cases these can be converted to office buildings and in others they can be changed from a single plant to multitenant use.

COMMUNITIES MAY BE seeking new industries mainly to gain new payrolls. But also industry last year paid seven billion dollars in taxes to state and local governments—taxes that otherwise the local citizens might have had to foot themselves. Town fathers don't shrug that off.

U.S. PLANE CRASHES IN TOKYO MOUNTAINS

TOKYO, Sept. 9 (AP) — A four-engine plane of an American charter airline crashed in the mountains southwest of Tokyo today when carrying United States military cargo. All eight persons aboard were believed killed.

The plane was nearing the end of a flight from Travis Air Force Base, Calif., to Tokyo by way of Hawaii and Wake island. The big Super Constellation had been chartered by the United States Military Air Transport Service from the Flying Tiger line of Burbank, Calif.

Japanese police reported seeing the plane crash and burn on the west side of Mt. Tanzawa, about 38 miles southwest of Tokyo. Hampered by low clouds, United States Air Force planes searched the area for six and a half hours before finding the wreckage.

"There was no sign of survivors," an Air Force spokesman said.

MATS spokesmen said the aircraft carried a crew of six civilians, two military couriers and approximately 31,000 pounds of cargo, including aircraft engines and other "normal military cargo."

The plane's destination was Tachikawa airfield, on the big Kanto plain around Tokyo bay. Mountains ring the plane on three sides.

The plane apparently was swinging wide as it dropped down to land when it struck 5000-foot Mt. Tanzawa.

Final - Trading Prices on New York Stock Exchange

STOCK BOOM ON HOPE FOR AUTO SETTLEMENT

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (UPI)—The stock market came within a shade of setting a new record high today with the leadership centering on the highest grade stocks in the nation.

When the market got into the rarefied atmosphere of early 1956 an considerable amount of profit-taking developed which brought prices down from the topmost levels. But the close was higher all around.

At the peaks the net gains ranged to more than 3 points in the main list. The high-priced office equipments were up about eight points in International Buisenss Machines and Adderssograph-Multigraph.

Steel shares proved the strongest group even after realizing set in. The motors had one of their best days in recent sessions. Chemicals ran up shaply. Buying lifted metals, liquos, dugs, tobaccos, some of the ties, televisions, and special issues. Rails enjoyed a good maket and so did the oils. The latte, however, were among the first to turn irregular on realizing.

Artloom, the lone weak spot, fell prey to worry over Stock Exchange and Securities & Exchange Commission probes into its recent sensational advance.

Demand in the autos and steels was inspired by indications the auto labor situation would be resolved without a strike.

A strikeless settlement, it was believed, would touch off a sharp rise in auto output which in turn would involve heavy demand for steel and myriad other items which go to making automobiles.

The Associated Press reported that the ticker tape fell behind transactions for two brief periods of heavy trading.

The market reached its high for the day in mid-afternoon and thereafter prices were trimmed below their best of the session.

Volume was 3,480,000 shares compared with 3,030,000 yesterday. Of 1221 issues traded, 578 advanced and 264 declined. There were 113 new highs for the year and 7 new lows.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to a new 1958 high of $188.60 with industrials up $1.50, the rails up 80 cents and the utilities up 10 cents. The industrials and utilities were at new peaks for the year.

Latest News From World Of Business

JUNE FACTORY SALES OF the paint industry increased 3.4 over the year-ago month to $158,500,000, according to the National Paint, Varnish & Lacquer Association. For the first six months this year, sales were $802,609,000, off 2.8 per cent from the first half of 1957.

BOATMEN'S NATIONAL Bank declared two dividends of 75 cents a share each, payable Oct. 1 and Jan. 1 to record Sept. 19 and Dec. 19.

COTTON TEXTILE MARKET was dull Tuesday. Converters for the most part were content to buy small quantities of print cloths and other fabrics for nearby delivery. In the heavy industrial goods section the situation was mixed. Some mills reported fair orders from the auto trade while others said that business was slow.

DEBITS TO DEMAND DEPOSITS, except interbank and U.S. Government, at 25 St. Louis banks amounted to $2,210,221,000 during August the Federal Reserve Bank reported. This represents an 8 per cent decrease from July and a 4 per cent decrease from August, 1957.

U.S. AND CORPORATE BONDS TURN LOWER

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—U.S. Government and corporate bonds were lower in quiet trading late today.

Long - range Government bonds declined 16-32 to 20-32 while intermediates were off 4-32 to 12-32.

Some market observers attributed the downturn to profit taking after last week's gains. Others suggested that investors were liquidating some of their holdings to buy into the massive $350,000,000 Sears, Roebuck & Co. debenture issue which goes on the market tomorrow.

Investment quality corporates, ahead as much as half a point during the morning, turned lower in the afternoon following the pattern of Treasury declines. Industrials were firm but rails and utilities developed easier tendencies. Trading was moderately active.

Central European dollar bonds gave ground in a slightly lower foreign list.

The Treasury's short term borrowing costs dropped back a bit this week after a month of sharp increases. The latest issue of 91-day bills sold at a price equivalent to an average yield of 2.359 per cent. A week ago a similar issue drew a rate of 2.463 per cent.

WHEAT PRICE HIGHER, CORN, SOYBEANS OFF

CHICAGO, Sept. 9 (AP)—The grain futures market appeared most of the time today to have leveled off again after yesterday's rather broad declines.

Wheat and rye attracted scattered buying support and moved moderately higher at times while other grains and soybeans held mostly within minor fractions under previous closes.

Transactions again were slow and limited generally to evening up commitments in the event there should be some surprises in the September report by the Department of Agriculture tomorrow on crop conditions and estimated yields.

Exporters were among wheat buyers. Overnight Colombia took more than a half million bushels of Uniteda States wheat and Ecuador was authorized to buy about a half million bushels.

Under Fire

Venezuelan civilians diving for pavement in face of heavy rebel military police small arms fire sweeping Caracas street in abortive attempt to overthrow the government Sunday. Rain of Grain

Oklahoma's record wheat crop is posing many storage problems. One of them was when this elevator's bulging seams gave way and poured a rain of grain over the street at Tyrone. The outrushing wheat caused a vacuum and the roof fell inward. There were no injuries. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Mothers' 'Stop Sign'

This was the second day that some of the group had appeared to protest against removal of stop signs voted by the Board of Aldermen following recommendations of the Barton traffic survey. —By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Calm Before the Storm

The political wars in New York are at an early stage where the prinicipal opponents can still exchange pleasantries. When Gov. Averell Harriman (right) appeared yesterday at a ceremony in New York City marking the tenth anniversaryof the establishment of the Puerto Rican Migration Division, he crossed paths with Nelson Rockefeller (left), who will be his Republican opponent for the governorship in the November election. Both struck a pleasant pose and then Rockefeller and Republican party officials left the building. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

MISS MIDNIGHT'S NOTEBOOK: Van Cliburn is on the verge of signing a big-money network deal that would make him the Liberace of the classical world. . . . Diana Barrymore's chums says she's supplying a good many of the $$$ in the promising career of a young male jazz singer. . . . Noel Coward wants to do another rewrite on "Look After Lulu" despite Vivien Leigh's undisguised joy over the script as it reads now. . . . Ballet star Serge Lifar, whose brief and scarcely sanguinary duel with the Marquis de Cuevas made international headlines last spring, seems to be headed for more swordplay. This time his adversary would be the aged Prince d'Anjou of France, another ballet chap, whom Lifar described as having "one foot in the grave." The prince publicly retorted: "Lifar is nothing but a dancer, and a dancer's genius lies not in his brains but in his feet." (You think John Foster Dulles has problems?). . . . Tuesday Weld, the girl who's been dating Tony Perkins, has a competitor for the offbeat moniker championship. A TV actress in New York is named February Thompson.

VAN CLIBURN

Gary Crosby's contract at 20th Century-Fox gives him all kinds of latitude. He'll be allowed to make as many outside films as he wants, with no pre-empting by the studio, and he can do as many TV appearances as he can get—even a filmed video series if that apppeals to him. All the home lot asks is that he make 10 pictures for them in a five-year period.

The producer of a recent Broadway musical that lost a great deal of money (its books are being investigated by the District Attorney's office) has been telephoning his former general manager to ask how the manager's current show is prospering. It's a particularly spooky routine because the producer is in the mental area of a veterans' hospital. . . . David Merrick, former St. Louisan, has received five offers for the cinema rights to Gian-Carol Menotti's musical drama, "Maria Golovin," which opened to rave revues at the Brussels World's Fair. Merrick will present it in New York.

Fashionable Long Islanders will have a new cocktail party topic when Louis Auchincloss's novel, "Venus in Sparta," comes off the Houghton-Mifflin presses. Its theme is the marital and financial hanky-panky of the Wall Street-to-Southampton-by-Aquaplane Set, and gives the impression of being based on Some People We Know.

Lady Carolina Freud, the Guinness heiress, has won a Juarez divorce from Lucien Freud, artist grandson of Sigmund Freud. . . . Roberta Sherwood, currently at the Latin Quarter, is working on a homespun theme for a television program—a "cracker-barrel" show, to quote her, featuring her two children, Bobby, 10, and Don, 18.

Eleanor Sieber is understandably furious over the Reuters coverage of the European premiere of "Vanessa" which reported that the opera was given in English because Eleanor "substituted" for another soprano and had no time to learn the title role in German. Everyone mildly familiar with the world of opera knows that La Sieber was invited to sing "Vanessa" at the European first performance—and in English—even before she created the role at the Metropolitan last January.

Gary Cooper obviously admires Erroll Garner's work. He bought a stack of the latest Garner LP, "Paris Impressions" (which features several tunes done on the harpsichord), and then had them sent to friends in California. . . . French Riviera gendarmes arrested an imposter with a striking resemblance to Ali Khan who had a brief fling passing himself off as the prince. He spent about 10 minutes at the Deauville Casino gambling with counterfeit 5000-franc notes before he was collared and jugged.

Broadway slang, suffix division: Forget about tacking "ville" onto your words from now on. It's old hat. Hipsters now favor "city," as for instance: "Square-city," "weird-city" and "bomb-city." (Got that, now?)

The Gypsy Life

HE IS PLANNING TO RETIRE in two years and all he talks about is selling the house and buying a trailer so that he and his wife can move from place to place and be free of responsibilities.

She can't think of anything worse than having to give up the home she loves, say goodby to old friends, and spend the rest of her married life cooped up in a trailer, always on the move with no plot of ground to call home.

"How can I talk him out of this notion?" she asks. "He thinks after working for 40 years at the same job he has a right to do what he wants to do when he retires. I want him to be happy, but I truly don't think he will be any happier without a home or friends than I will."

My suggestion is that you stop pulling against him and fall in with his bright and rosy plans. Only insist that he make one concession to you. That you rent the house instead of selling it, and give trailer life a year's trial before you definitely pull up roots.

Anything can happen by the end of a year spent traveling around the country. Your husband may be sick and tired of pulling his home behind him. He may hate the cramped living quarters. He may be lonely for his old friends. He may long for a plot of ground on which to raise a garden. He may be anxious to get back home and start making improvements on the house he still owns.

Or, and this is perhaps a little more unlikely, you may find that you like the life of a modern day gypsy. That you enjoy being able to choose your climate, move on when you get tired of a place and make new friends in different parts of the country.

Anything can happen in that year of trying an entirely new way of life. So take a chance.

But don't burn your bridges behind you. Hold on to your home until you have had a chance to find out how you both react to trailer life.

Bill Vaughan Says

WHATEVER its strategic or scientific importance, you can't deny that "under the external ice to the North Pole" has a simply lovely sound on a hot day.

A new electronic gadget is said to induce sleep by reproducing the sound of gently falling rain. It would be even more restful if it would also make a sound like somebody else getting up and shutting the windows.

So many of these funny stickers are appearing on cars, that we are tempted to start a movement to help stamp out rear windows.

Chef's Roundabout Way to St. Louis

Henri Vincent, Now at University Club, Once Worked for Maharajah

By Clarissa Start
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

"SO YOU SEE, MADAME, I have not the bad reference?"

With pardonable pride, Chef Henri Vincent leafs through the bound book of letters and recommendations, from the Grande Taverne on the Champs-Elysees of Paris, from the Maharajah of Hyderabad, from leading restaurants around the world.

Chef Vincent, who has just come to St. Louis to be executive chef at the University Club, is the fifth generation of his family to cook professionally. He thinks culinary ability is something that is inherited, or, as he puts it, "in the blut."

At least, it is in the blood or in the traditions of the Vincent family. It started when one of his ancestors—"a grand grand grand grandfather, I think it was, madame"—cooked for a French prince. His father was head chef of Prunier's in Paris for 22 years. One of his two older brothers worked at Maxim's and the other for the Japanese emperor.

At the age of 8, little Henri began his career in the School Vendome, washing pots and pans and dodging the cuffs of his employers when he didn't do the job right.

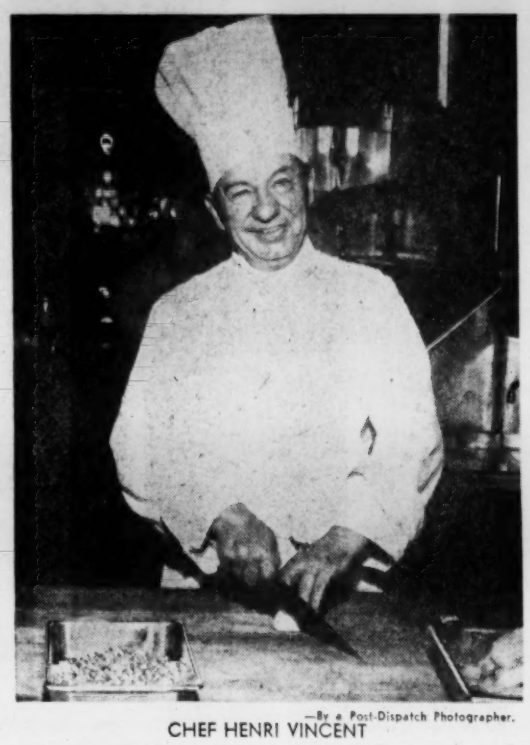

It is a painstaking, perfectionist business, this learning to cook, as any woman who has ever flubbed a fondue or mashed a mousse can tell you.

The eight-year-old apprentice went to work at six each morning, did his school work in the evening, and was farmed out every day to a different hotel or restaurant. The better kitchens are all divided into "brigades," as Vincent describes them, and the apprentice works at each of these stations until he has mastered the art.

First he learned the art of scrubbing pots and pans. Then he was permitted to master the art of cleaning vegetables. Then he was sent to the bakery department where some practical joker told him to chop the flour with a knife until it was fine. For this he was paid a franc a day (about 16 cents at that time) but this was subject to fine if he committed some crime such as peeling the potatoes too thick. Sometimes the chef de partie under whom he worked was "very rude."

"Often they bit us," he said, although from the gesture, I suspect he meant they hit him.

Learning to do decorative work was a three-year course in itself, in which they started out making sketches of contours, worked up to modeling with clay in the dark until they could do sculptures in ice. Nowadays this is done with an electric knife and needle but at that time the artist worked in a big ice box on a block of ice with chisel, hammer, and warm water.

CHEF HENRI VINCENT

"Sometimes," Vincent recalls sadly, "just as you had finished the swan, you broke the neck. Then you had to pay for the ice."

After eight years of this rugged training, Vincent passed a jury and went to work in the Grande Taverne restaurant, a place whose letterhead was distinguished by the name of A. Escoffier, the granddaddy of them all in the culinary art. This was, however, if you'll pardon an American expression, a gimmick. Escoffier did not personally supervise the souffles but lent his name to the establishment, although it did have to pass his scrupulous scrutiny.

Vincent was acquainted with Escoffier, who was a good friend of his father, and recalls him as a man who was "very delicate and very difficult." If everything in a dish was not perfect, he threw the whole dish out. Vincent, too, became an artist. Four times he won first prize for fancy cooking in Paris.

In 1924 he got his first big job, at the National Hotel in Cairo where, as boss of the whole works, he got to wear the chef's high hat. He stayed there three years, went on to the Grand Hotel in Calcutta, stayed there three years, then to the Silver Grill in Rangoon, stayed there thre years, then went to the Peninsula Hotel in Hong Kong where he stayed until World War II broke out and he went to South America. In 1950 he came to the United States.

He thinks perhaps the best deal he ever had was in India.

"There, madame, I work for the hotel and also I make all the receptions for the Maharajah of Hyderabad," he explained. "Sometimes he makes a party for 3000 people. I arrange. Sometimes he makes a party in the jungle. I arrange. It makes no difference where or how many. I don't scare from nothing."

What does one serve the 3000 guests of a maharajah? Oh, the usual thing.

"Caviar. Big buckets of it, sometimes 25 pounds. And good French food. The Maharajah did not care for Indian cooking. He did not eat curry. His favorite dish was filet mignon stuffed with pate de foie gras."

A man of discerning tastes, the Maharajah. Once he gave Vincent a diamond-studded gold cigarette case, a maharajah's way of saying "my compliments to the chef." Usually he provided 200 or 300 people to help in the kitchen. No one spoke the same language but Chef Vincent feels there is an international language of good cuisine.

Married 29 years, Vincent met his wife when he returned to his birthplace, Liege, Belgium. He had left as a small boy and returned to straighten out some papers. He intended staying only a few days, went to a movie the first night, got to talking to a girl, and, he says, shaking his head, "Things move so fast, I forget just how it happens."

His wife, who is a skilled meat carver, often works by his side. They have a daughter, Francine, who goes to Villa Capri boarding school in Burbank, Calif., and likes to ride horseback.

Chef Vincent worked at the Sea Wolf in Oakland and the Desert Inn in Las Vegas before coming here. He appeared on television and created his most famous dish for TV. This is brochette of swordfish. Want to try it? It's easy.

First you catch the swordfish or have it shipped from the East as the University Club does. Cut it in pieces the length of Chef Vincent's thumb, wrap the pieces in bacon, put on a skewer, alternating a piece of fish, piece of onion, piece of fish, mushroom, until you have seven pieces of fish on the skewer. When it come out of the broiler, serve with a special sauce of cream, onions and mushrooms. Of course, to make the sauce properly you must serve eight years as an apprentice in Paris.

Vincent thinks the old art of cooking is gradually dying out with the old chefs. Today too many cooks spoil the broth by starting with prepared stock instead of with meat and vegetables.

"You can cook in two or three hours what used to take two or three days," he says, "but I am sorry to tell you the truth, madame, you do not get the same taste. To make good food takes time."

This does not mean he does not go along with modern advances. He applauds frozen foods, "a merveilleux idea, madame, which has solved many problems," (especially for den mothers) and he himself is not above preparing Breast of Chicken a la Kiev in large quantities and freezing it. (Try it next time the pack meets at your house.)

Without any prompting from manager Ray McGrath, Chef Vincent said that he thinks the 22 kitchen employes at the University Club comprise the "best crew in San Luis" and that he hopes to do as well for this city as he did for the Maharajah of Hyderabad if not better, as a good cook "while never able to achieve perfection should improve each day." He expects to stick to "the classics" with few innovations.

He himself has no favorite dishes. Like most chefs he selects his one big meal of the day—usually in mid-afternoon—from whatever looks good on the menu.

"Today, madame? Today, I had the corned beef and cabbage, madame."

Books Open New Worlds

By Jim Bishop

THE BOOK READING habits of America are poor. About 17 per cent—28,900,000—read a book "now and then." The majority of adults complain that they "do not have time." They have time for a minimum of six hours a week at television and a few hours at golf or a tavern or a movie, or just sitting, wondering what to do.

If you are not aware of the wonderful world of books, nothing that I write will help you to see it. However, you can eliminate the literary blind spot in your children easily. Both of my girls love books. They don't read mine—a habit they share with scores of millions of people—but they read books because books were not forced upon them.

I started with comic books. I brought them home by the armful. The children devoured three and four at a sitting, their little legs twitching, their eyeballs three inches from each page. No urging was required. I dumped the comics; they could read or not read, as they chose.

As they got older, I began to sandwich a dollar book about a horse, or a dog, in with the comics. Their first complaint was: "Gee, it's a good story but it's so long." My answer was: "Don't read it." The books were read. Rainy afternoons turned out to be the best.

Once a child solos on a book, the rest is up to him. When I was 12, I used to haunt the Clinton Avenue Branch of the Jersey City Library looking for books on World War I. In one I was an artillery captain; in another, a spy; in a third, a devil-may-care pilot. I commanded battleships and submarines. I knew more about Pershing and Hindenburg and Foch and Haig than I knew about my parents.

IT WAS a shaky start. But a good one. From that time to this, I have never stopped reading books; I have never failed to find new worlds in which to live; I have never stopped learning.

My daughters are not "bookish." They are feminine and natural and their tastes in literature differ, but they read. Ginny's hero is Thomas Costain. She likes him so well that she doesn't like to reach the end of his books. Gayle likes anything with a lot of horror in it. Werewolves and mad scientists are her pets. So is outer space—which is where she is, most of the time.

If I could achieve one more thing in life, it would be to help people to learn to read books. Whatever your tastes may be, there are many books to please you. About 12,000 new books are published each year in this country. This comes to 1000 a month.

MY CHOICES run to nonfiction. Among the recent books I enjoyed were "Inside Russia Today," by John Gunther; "Masters of Deceit," by J. Edgar Hoover; "Kids Say the Darndest Things," by Arthur Linkletter, and "The Death of Manolete," by Conrad. In fiction, which I read sparingly, I liked "Anatomy of a Murder," by Traver; "Ice Palace," by Ferber; "A Summer Place," by Wilson, and "The Winthrop Woman," by Seton.

Don't follow the best sellers lists. Stop in at your local bookshop, or your library, and read the little sales talk inside the flap of the book; this will strike a quick spark within you or it won't. The best seller lists are so meaningless that the New York Times runs a little list underneath theirs called "—And Bear In Mind." This is a list of current books which the editors think should be on the best seller lists, but aren't.

Long ago, I wrote a book called "The Glass Crutch" and it hit all the best seller lists within three weeks. In its whole life it sold only 13,000 copies, so it wasn't much of a best seller. But it made the lists, and I earned about $6500 for a year's work, which had to be split with the subject of the biography. A great best seller.

The ideal reading habit for the busy person today, I think, is to read a good newspaper every day; scan a news magazine once a week; read a book a month. Such a person must be well-informed and, at a cocktail party or dinner, cannot be a mopey mute.

The newspaper will give you something that radio and television cannot: details and a chance to absorb them when you please. The news magazine will furnish a rounded picture of the world news. The book will give you a definite dissertation on people and events through the eyes of an artist.

They'll Do It Every Time

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

AN AMUSING EXAMPLE of hard work by both defenders is shown on today's four-spade hand, which came up at a recent British tournament. West had the contract set when he made a pretty heart switch which assured his side three tricks in the suit, but East, with his own strategy in mind, overtook his partner's trick and managed to defeat declarer anyway by the lead of another suit.

Neither side vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	3♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the ace of clubs and when he got a look at dummy, he decided that the contract probably could not be defeated unless his side were able to run three heart tricks before declarer had a chance to draw trumps and run North's long diamonds. It was necessary to find East with the heart ace, but as he might not hold the ten also, West chose the only heart which would give his side three tricks in the suit—the jack.

Now if declarer plays low from dummy, the defense can win the jack, ace and king. If declarer covers with dummy's queen, East can take the ace and lead a heart back through South's ten, giving West the king and nine.

But East did some thinking when declarer played low from the board on the lead of the heart jack. Partner might be leading from the jack-ten-nine. In that event, if East took the jack with the ace and sent back a club, he would have a chance to save game. But if he ducked, South would win the heart king and play the ace and king of spades. When West showed out on the second round, declarer would take the proven finesse of the spade ten, draw the last trump from East and very possibly run six diamond tricks for six-odd, losing only to the club ace.

So East took the ace of hearts at trick two and led the king of clubs, forcing South to ruff on the board with the five of spades. Now declarer played the king and ace of spades and when the spades broke 4-1, he was down. He continued the queen of spades; then led diamonds, and East ruffed the second round, cashed the queen of clubs and led a club for South to ruff.

Now declarer led a heart and West went in with the king for the opponents' fifth trick. Declarer took the last two tricks with the heart queen and his remaining spade, but he was down two, losing two clubs, two hearts and a diamond ruff.

Clarissa Start

Gastronomic Flop In Elegant Setting

AN ARMY TRAVELS on its stomach, and when it comes to travel, my husband is an old Army man. Now, personally, I like any vacation spot with pretty scenery and a good souvenir shop but with the man of the house, food comes first.

CLARISSA START

It is my job to consult the experts, make notes, and advise in each new town that "Filbert Forbush says the best place to eat is the Golden Partridge." If the Golden Partridge is solid gold, all is well, but if it's for the birds I'm instructed to "Throw that book away."

For our European travels, I relied on no one expert but chose the consensus of the best bets from all books. However, a national magazine piece on Europe's 10 best restaurants impressed me mightily, and when we arrived in the German city where one of them was located, we made for a cab driver and gave him the name. He had never heard of the place which dashed us a little but eventually we located it. It was elegant. Deep carpeting, gleaming mirrors, paunchy men with beautiful girls. Two camera-slung Americans with a small child in a dirty sweater were as incongruous as bluejeans at an Yves St. Laurent opening.

"Cantaloupe," screamed our child, spotting his favorite. We squelched him, ordered the melon and chicken for him and told the waiter we wanted the publicized specialty of the house, lobster salad. On the menu it was priced at 9 marks, or about $2.50.

Now this may not seem significant but in Western Germany 3 or 4 marks (75 cents to $1) buys you a dinner of delectable soup, an entree of meat nestling in fluted potatoes on a silver platter, an array of salad vegetables posing for still life, and dessert. We expected the works.

The waiter ceremoniously slivered off a slice of the cantaloupe and served the boy something that looked like quick frozen chicken a la king. In came the specialty—half a cup of lobster (canned?) smothered in green onions. That was all. The melon was not nearly as chilled as domestic relations.

But other gustatory memories made up for this fiasco. The whipped cream delicacies we purchased daily at the konditorei shops. The Berliner Weiss, white beer with raspberry syrup which sounds terrible and tastes wonderful. The reindeer steaks. The Munich platters of wurst and sauerkraut which we think of as "typical" German food but which is really regional. In France the tiny strawberries, "fraises de bois" were marvelous, in Switzerland the cheese was superb, but in Germany the living is easiest.

One day on a tour we heard a woman ask an American service man why he wasn't vacationing at an Army rest camp. "Because, ma'am," he grinned, "I'd rather live on the German economy."

The German economy extends to other things as well. We paid as much as $15 a night at a fancy resort hotel but I also stayed in a charming village inn where the white furniture glistened, the feather beds floated, and the price was $1.08. One day, a chauffeur of friends of ours became overzealous on the autobahn and was fined for speeding—75 cents.

"Gee," said a woman driver on hearing the story, "I'd speed all over Germany."

Instead, we just ate.

New 'Voice,' Old Dignity

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.

"THE VOICE OF FIRESTONE," traditionally one of the period pieces in broadcasting, succumbed tentatively and a little reluctantly last night to the twentieth century.

For the new season the show has broadened its format to give more representation to popular music, has hired John Daly to act as program annotator and apparently increased its production budget.

It'll take several weeks to see how the revised approach works out and in all fairness perhaps judgment should be suspended. Last night there were some most pleasant moments: Rise Stevens in "Habanera;" Ray Middleton and Doretta Morrow in a duet of "So in Love" and a solo by Carlos Montoya, the Fleminco guitarist. In the popular vein, Jo Stafford sang "The St. Louis Blues" in a puzzling arrangement that made the blues classic sound like a lilting salute to spring.

But the over-all character of the program somehow did not seem materially altered. Its determined pursuit of dignity continued unabated and it clutched its culture a little too fervently. In coming weeks no doubt "The Voice of Firestone" will acquire a greater measure of relaxation and perhaps more excitement for both eye and ear.

Mr. Daly was straightforward in his delivery of a quite impossible script, which first explained and then indorsed the art of music.

Try and Stop Me

JAMES THURBER is forever remembering wonderful stories about the late Harold Ross, founder and editor of the New Yorker. Thurber recalls the day Dorothy Parker labeled Ross "a professional lunatic." Russell Maloney noted that "Ross considered perfection his personal property, like his hat or his watch." One editor complained to Ross, "Every week you holler that the new issue doesn't contain a single laugh." Snarled Ross, "This week there are fewer than ever!"

Ross once worried that the name of plump, ubiquitous Alexander Woollcott was appearing too frequently in the New Yorker. "I don't want to see that name in our pages again for six months at least," he thundered. The very next week however, a Woollcott anecdote was turned in that was just too good to kill. "I've got it," exulted Ross. "We'll misspell him!" One "l" was duly omitted from Woollcott's name, with a resultant cry of protest from Mr. W. that made Ross happy for days.

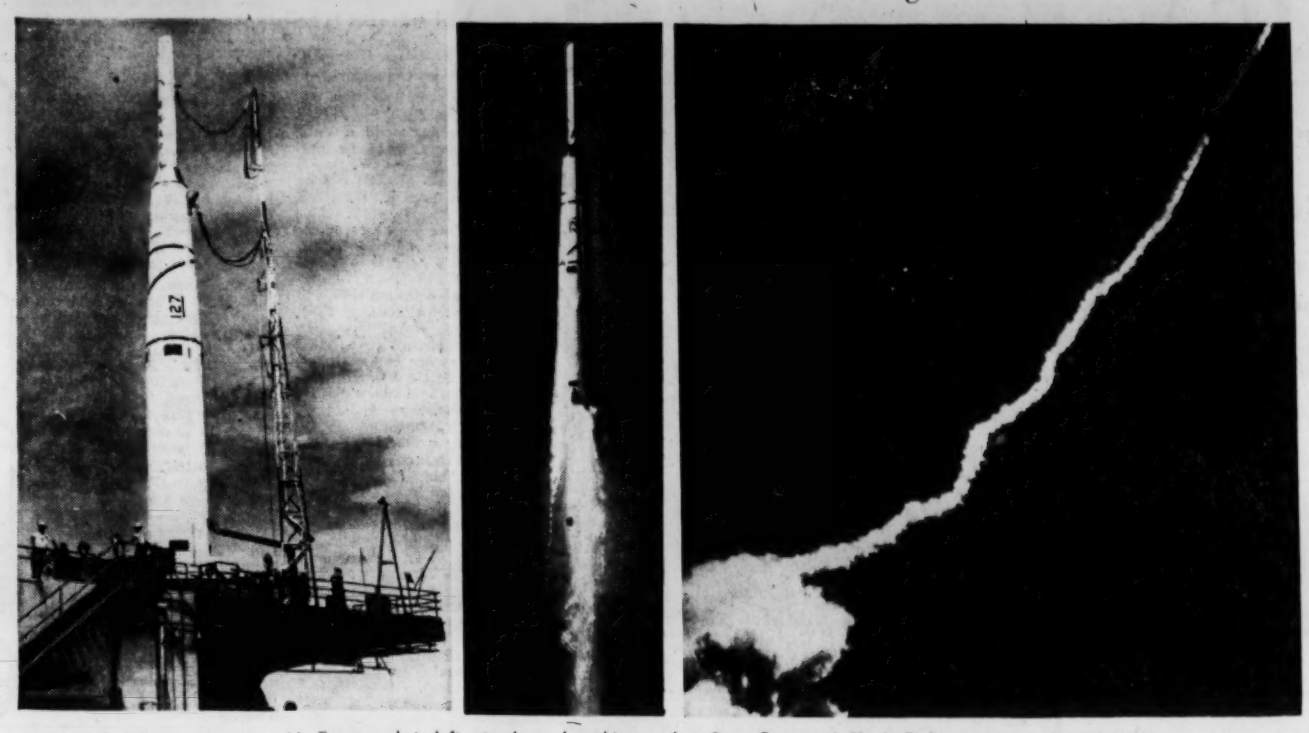

THERE'S A BOOKSELLER in Chicago, says Irv Kupcinet, who's a genuine 14-karat pessimist. He's always building dungeons in the air.

OUT-OF-TOWN MOTORIST in Boston asked an erudite traffic cop, "Could you suggest a good place to stop at?" "I could," replied the cop. "Just before the 'at'."

"HOW DID the explosion occur?" testified a qualified witness in court. "The reason is clear. The engineer was full and the boiler was empty."

A-Blast on Moon

This Is One of the Ambitious Plans For Examining Lunar Surface Material

Air Force rocket, left, stands on launching pad at Cape Canaveral, Fla. In flight, center, rocket is seen shortly after being launched last month only to fizzle out in 77 seconds. In photo at right explosion of first stage is shown in lower left, with other two rocket stages continuing in erratic flight.

By Dr. I. M. Levitt

Director, Franklin Institute Planetarium, Philadelphia

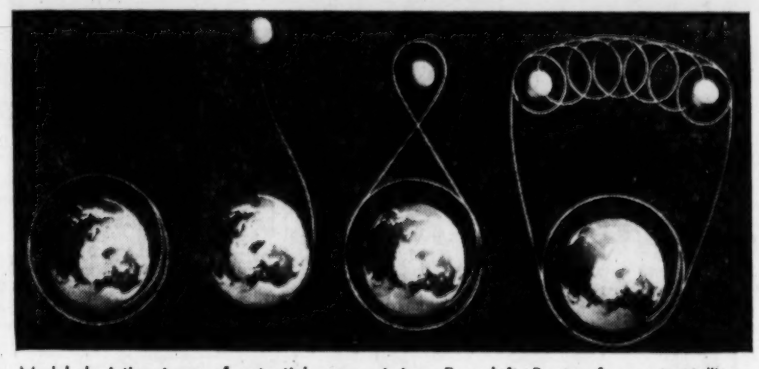

Second of a Series.

BEFORE MAN sets foot on the moon, many unmanned vehicles will have paved the way.

A rocket weighing about 120,000 pounds would be necessary for carrying an atomic bomb to the moon, using the ICBM guidance system already operable. Many of the phenomena accompanying an A-bomb explosion on earth depend on the surrounding air, and on the airless moon there will be differences. Nonetheless, several thousand tons of the lunar surface material might be vaporized and made incandescent, so a spectroscope attached to a large telescope might permit us to determine the composition of the material. The behavior of the explosion may also tell us the degree of compacting and the depth of the dust layer, at least at that point of the moon's surface.

George H. Clement of the Rand Corp. has proposed the next step — a carefully-instrumented payload that would land gently on the moon.

The instruments might weigh about 50 pounds, the power supply another 50 pounds, and the rockets to ease the payload to the surface of the moon would add another 550 pounds. To send this package to the moon would require a three-stage rocket about 175 feet tall and 14½ feet in diameter at the first stage; the total weight would be close to a million pounds.

Model depicting types of potential moon missions. From left: Route of current satellites, impact shot to moon, single moon orbit and a multiple orbit of moon and return.

The instruments would measure the moon's gravitational field, the magnetic field, the density of the atmosphere, the infall of cosmic radiation and meteorites, the temperature and perhaps other information, which would be radioed back to earth, or to reconnaissance satellites orbiting the moon.

These latter ambitious vehicles could then return to earth and bring the information to us.

Many scientists have proposed such lunar reconnaissance rockets, but the most "sophisticated" design comes from Krafft A. Ehricke of the Convair Corp.

The moon-circling rocket would be 100 feet tall and weigh 240,000 pounds. The payload of 400 to 800 pounds would include guidance equipment, a television camera and radio gear.

One of the most important objectives would be to scan the moon's surface as closely as possible, including the side that is invisible to us on earth. We don't expect the invisible 40 per cent of the moon's area will hold many surprises for us, but we should get a look at it.

One ambitious plan calls for two moon rockets to take off in rapid succession.

The first one will carry an atomic bomb and crash on the surface. When the bomb detonates, a large crater will be formed and much of the lunar surface material will be vaporized. But thousand of tons would surely be thrown to heights of several miles—much high than on earth, because the moon's surface gravity is only one sixth of that we experience.

The second rocket, trailing closely on the heels of the first, would be guided or "programmed" in such a way that it will swoop through the cloud, gather a good sample, and head back to earth.

If the whole rocket can't be landed safely, the capsule containing the sample can be ejected at high altitudes. Plastics and ceramics are now becoming available that hopefully would permit a safe return to earth.

Dr. R. W. Porter has suggested that a material such as the plastic Teflon could be used to coat the capsule. This plastic would boil away slowly as friction with the air heated the falling capsule. When the speed had decreased sufficiently a parachute could lower the sample safely to earth.

Any atomic bomb explosion on the moon would result in some lunar material being blown away with such a velocity that escape from the moon's surface would be likely. Conceivably, some good-sized chunks might be pulled to the earth and, after being seen as meteors in our sky, might drop a residue on the earth's surface. These samples would also be available for analysis.

With more efficient rockets, rocket fuels, guidance and programming systems, it will be possible to do these things and more.

When man takes his first big personal step into space by landing on the moon, he cannot have too much information about his destination.

"Most leaders are power-hungry!"

True——— False———

FALSE. Some are, to be sure. Studies show that, especially in the leaderless groups, the more aggressive, forceful and dominating may take over because they enjoy running things. But other leaders are reluctant to assume responsibilities. Furthermore, the group has something to say about their leaders. Those who use the group to get what the leader wants may be slapped down and thrown out. People stay as leaders because they help members get what they want.

"Do we know why people succeed or fail?

Yes——— No———

We don't know everything about it, but we do know a great deal. People usually fail because they spend too much of their time, energies and thoughts in feeling sorry for themselves, getting mad, blaming others, "crying in their beer," or condemning something, like the government or economic system. As a result, they're too weak to move anything. The secret of success is to spend your thoughts upon understanding what to do, and your feelings and time on effective action. Successes and failures meet the same difficulties and obstables. The difference is in the ways you respond to them.

Answers to Medical Questions

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I am inquiring about a condition that has bothered me for some time. For several years I have had small black and blue marks appear on my arms, the backs of my hands, and on my knees and legs. They are about the size of a dime and remain about two or three days. I believe it is bleeding under the skin as I know they are not bruises. I have mentioned it to my doctor who just ignores it. It would relieve my anxiety if you would tell me the cause of this condition and if it is serious. Mrs. V. S. B.

ANSWER: If your doctor knew how worried you really are, I am sure he would go further. Tell him exactly how you feel about it. He will probably order a blood examination to check on bleeding time, coagulation time and a "blood platelet" count. Chances are he hasn't already done so because he finds nothing on examination to cause him concern.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I am a woman 69 years of age. For years I have suffered with cramps in my legs at night. I have tried aspirin and calcium lactate pills, but I still get them. I may go a few weeks without them but they are sure to return. When they do I have to jump out of bed five or six times a night and walk around the floor. The pain is very bad. Most often I get it in my toes, calf of the leg and in the fleshy part between the knee and thigh. It really feels like a spasm. I'd appreciate any information. Thank you. Mrs. F. D.

ANSWER: Yours is a common complaint. I usually tell patients to increase their intake of milk and cheeses. Rather than aspirin, I have found that many find comfort in taking a five-grain quinine tablet before bedtime. If these measures do not help, it is advisable to have a complete study of the leg circulation. This includes a study of arteries and veins. Sometimes a mild sedative taken at night for a few weeks breaks up the cycle of painful attacks.

DR. PETER STEINCROHN

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: Fifteen years ago I had a kidney removed and, seemingly, have had no unpleasant results. I am now a woman over 50. For years I've had an enlarged heart with valve leakage. Three years ago I had a successful operation for the removal of small tumors. My blood pressure runs low and occasionally I've been told I have anemia. My present problem is a constant urge to sleep. I sleep well at nights but could begin again and sleep all day. I have an excellent appetite but seldom satisfy it—and so stay thin. Perhaps I ought to mention that I have many worries and I wish they were imaginary! Thank you for your opinion. Mrs. E. F. M.

ANSWER: Many people try to "sleep their worries away." If that's not the cause in your case, your doctor will probably check on your thyroid and kidney function.

ONE READER WRITES: "Is it really true that normal people actually go about killing themselves — whether consciously or unconsciously?" E. D.

ANSWER: True. I have often, in this column, given examples of how people were committing "slow suicide" by becoming overweight; by overworking after a coronary attack; by eating excess salt in their diet when they are hypertensive; by drinking themselves to death; by overexercising; by self-treatment rather than going to a doctor in time—and many others.

ANOTHER ASKS: Is it true that a person's sight can be saved if glaucoma is diagnosed early? E. E.

ANSWER: True. So many are hopelessly blind today for two reasons: 1. They ignore symptoms when they appeared. 2. Or, not having symptoms, they allowed glaucoma to "sneak up" on them by not having periodic eye checkups (including tenometer readings of introcular pressure) at least every two years after the age of 40.

Electric Safety

By Hubbard Cobb

IT WASN'T very long after Mr. Ben Franklin pulled some lightning down from the sky via a kite that it was discovered that electricity, water and people just don't mix. Mixing the three doesn't seem to hurt the electricity or the water but it can hurt people and hurt them badly. In spite of this knowledge, people continue to try to mix water and electricity and the results are always bad.

Ladies still like to fool around with electric appliances while they have one hand in a sinkful of water or turn the radio to their favorite station with wet hands. Small children still like to listen to a radio or TV while taking a bath and this often leads to serious trouble. The old man thinks nothing about using electric power tools in damp locations without taking the trouble to be sure that the grounding wire on the tool has been attached.

Because there are times when all of us just "don't think" the only way to play safe is to see to it that it's just impossible for anyone to mix with electricity and water at the same time.

For example, close off electric outlets in the bathroom if you can't keep the kids from bringing in the radio or TV. Be sure that the electric outlets in the kitchen are far enough away from the sink so that there just isn't a chance of someone dropping a connected small appliance in the sink. Be sure that power tools are equipped with the three-way connector so that they can be grounded.

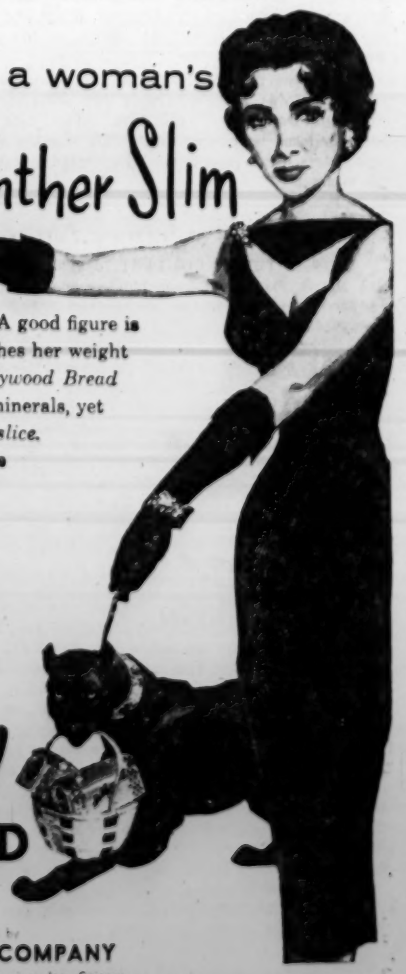

And make sure that all electric lights in the bath and kitchen are controlled by a wall switch rather than a pull chain but if they must have a pull chain be sure that it's the insulated type and not a good conductor. Also arrange matters so that it would be difficult for anyone to pull the chain while in direct contact with a plumbing fixture.

Dough Scraps

Budget Minder: Roll out scraps of pie dough and cut into tiny rounds with the top of a metal bouillon can and bake; serve with soup instead of croutons.

Afternoon Parties For Two Debutantes

By Fay Profilet

MISS SUSAN D'ARCY ROUDEBUSH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shotwell Roudebush, will be introduced to her mother's friends this afternoon at a tea at her home, 6316 Washington avenue, University City, Mrs. Roudebush and her daughter will receive guests before the living room mantel which is decorated with a profusion of pale pink roses and ivy and tall pink candles in large hurricane lamps. The ceiling-high book shelves at either side are screened with rhododendron trees.

The debutante will wear a white organdy dress embroidered with tiny powder blue flowers. The blue embroidery is concentrated around the scalloped V neckline and the hem of the short full skirt. Miss Roudebush will hold a cascade bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and miniature ivy. Mrs. Roudebush will be in a white silk dress printed in a blue leaf pattern. Her corsage will be white orchids.

The lace-covered tea table in the dining room has as its central decoration a bowl of white Fuji chrysanthemums and greenery and will be lighted with lime green candles in silver candelabra. Serving will be Miss Caroline Byars, Miss Jane Sutter, Miss Anne Marbury, Miss Eleanor Wehmiller, Miss Linda Dubinsky, Miss Jane Lamy Gunter, Miss Katherine Norcross, Miss Sally Mill and Miss Jane Stubenbord, New York, Miss Roudebush's roommate at Vassar College, who is her guest.

Friends of Mrs. Roudebush who will assist will include her sister-in-law, Mrs. John L. Horner, Mrs. George Baker Atwood, Mrs. J. Raymond Dyer, and Mrs. Walter Baumgarten Jr.

Miss Roudebush will depart Saturday to begin her sophomore year at Vassar College.

Miss Hertslet to Be Introduced.

RICH AUTUMN SHADES will prevail in decorations at the debut tea this afternoon of Miss Sheila Marie Hertslet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Gordon Hertslet, 1132 Hampton Park drive, Hampton Park.

The tea table is centered with a silver epergne filled with russet toned torch lilies and surrounded with ripe peaches. Silver candelabra holding white tapers are on either side.

Mrs. Hertslet and her daughter will greet guests in front of the living room fireplace, which is banked with greenery. The mantel is ornamented with a huge bouquet of galardia in reddish and orange colors and is flanked on either side with candle vases filled with trailing ivy. On the piano stands a large silver vase with Orange Delight roses interspersed with white stock.

The debutante will wear a pale beige organza frock with cap sleeves and an emerald green satin sash ending in a small flat bow. The softly full skirt is embroidered in the same shade. She will single glamellia in russet shades.

Mrs. Hertslet has chosen a deep beige lace sheath with cap sleeves and a V neckline. She will wear a corsage of green cymbidium orchids at her shoulder.

Mrs. Sidney Taylor, Mr. Hertslet's sister from Boston and Miss Jane Seastrom, Miss Hertslet's roommate from Pine Manor College, are here to attend the party.

Debutantes who will serve will be Miss Jeanne Behrens, Miss Carol and Miss Ann Hardin, Miss Jane Sutter, Miss Anne Marbury and Miss Patricia Veatch. With their afternoon dresses they will wear wristlets of variegated ivy leaves. Assisting Mrs. Hertslet will be Mrs. Richard Morey, Mrs. T. Hartley Pollock, Mrs. Chester Sharp, Mrs. William G. Marbury, Mrs. William T. Kieffer, and Mrs. D. Bradford Blossom.

Terrace Party for Two Debutantes.

A TERRACE PARTY for approximately 50 guests was given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. W. Warren Kirkbride honoring their niece, Miss Elizabeth Upthegrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Upthegrove, 915 Lay road, Ladue, and Miss Martha Baer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland C. Baer, 20 Picardy lane, Ladue, at the Kirkbride home, 3 Little lane, Ladue.

The buffet table was centered with 100-year-old white French birdcage filled with pink and white roses, white stock and trailing ivy. Individual tables, pink covered, held hurricane lamps surrounded with wreaths of ivy and pink asters. An accordionist entertained guests during the evening.

Debutantes Feted at Informal Parties.

MISS KATHRYN COMFORT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley B. Comfort, was guest of honor last night at a dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Roland J. Robinson, 225 West Jackson road, Webster Groves, were host and hostess. About 30 guests, debutantes and their escorts, attended.

The buffet table in the dining room had a bouquet of crimson roses as the centerpiece while at either end of the table circles of porcelain cupid figurines held red roses. Small tables on the terrace were covered with pink cloths and decorated with white flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson also entertained their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lofgreen, and their son, Roland J. Robinson Jr., a senior at the University of Arizona, Tucson.

Miss Comfort and Miss Margaret Pauley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald F. Pauley, shared honors at a poolside breakfast at the Chase hotel Saturday given by Mrs. E. Louis Werner and Mrs. Paul B. Fitzgibbon. The debutantes were seated at a long table which was decorated at each end with white bowls of pink carnations. The centerpiece was a garden scene with doll debutantes in ball gowns dancing with their escorts. Favors were toy ice cream parlor chairs, the seats of pink and pale blue velvet, on which each young woman found a cultured pearl on a silver chain. The hostesses entertained Mrs. Comfort and Mrs. Pauley at a nearby small table.

Miss Hungerford Names Wedding Attendants

MISS CYNTHIA HUNGERFORD, whose engagement to Peter MacDermott Nichols was announced in June, has chosen Sept. 16 as her wedding date. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. W. Davidson McDowell at 7:30 o'clock in the Woodson K. Wood Jr. Memorial Chapel of Ladue Chapel before members of the two families. Afterward, Miss Hungerford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson Hungerford, will give the reception at their home, 6 Mosley road, Creve Coeur.

Miss Hungerford's two sisters will serve as her honor attendants. Miss Bettie Jane Hungerford are to be maid of honor and Mrs. Frederick A. Kramer Jr. will be matron of honor. The prospective bridegroom's sister, Miss Virginia Nichols, will be bridesmaid. Mr. Nichols's attendants are to be announced at a later date.

Miss Hungerford, who was to have been one of this season's debutantes, spent the summer traveling in Europe with her sister, Miss Bettie. She returned in time to be present at a shower given in her honor by Miss Mary Stephens Jones at the home of Miss Jones's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Jones, 23 Picardy lane, Ladue, the evening of Aug. 26. Mrs. Robert T. Convey and her daughter, Miss Sharon Kay Convey, and Mrs. Karl Koehler Vollmer and her daughter, Miss Paula Jane Vollmer, gave a luncheon and shower the following day at Glen Echo Country Club. Most of this season's debutantes were on the guest list.

Out-of-town guests will begin arriving by plane Saturday at noon. They will be entertained by the prospective bride's parents at a family dinner that evening. Mr. Nichols's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Nichols Jr. of Newton Centre, Mass.; his grandmother, Mrs. Edward MacDermott, Newton Centre; Miss Joan Sutherland, Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., a cousin; Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Nichols, Needham, Mass., cousins; Mrs. Thomas H. Adams Jr., West Newton, Mass., an aunt, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester S. Abberley, New York, an uncle and aunt, are expected here for the wedding.

Miss Hungerford's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Slocomb, will be here from Wellesly Hills, Mass., and her aunt and cousin, Mrs. Ross Paull and Miss Jane Paull, will come from La Jolla, Calif. Miss Barbara Lee Burkham, Ridgewood, N.J., Miss Hungerford's former roommate at Pine Manor College, will also arrive in St. Louis Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mesker and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Westerman Shipley will give a party at the Mesker home on Old Jamestown road, Florissant, Sunday for debutantes and their escorts, and the out-of-town guests. The party will start at noon and guests will swim, play tennis and go boating on the Mississippi. That evening, Mr. and Mrs. Kramer will give a cocktail party at their home, 1334 McCutcheon road, Richmond Heights.

The following day, Mrs. Herbert Luedinghaus will entertain a large group of debutantes as well as the guests from out of town at a luncheon at her tome, 19 Oakleigh lane.

The rehearsal dinner will be given in the Hedgerow room of Clayton Inn for the bridal party and those from out-of-town the evening before the wedding.

The day of the wedding, Mrs. Frederick Kramer Sr. will give a luncheon at Old Warson Country Club for guests here for the wedding.

Fight for Marriage

Dear Martha:

I HAVE A SISTER whose husband is a brute. They have been married 30 years and during 20 years of that time he has had many girl friends. His wife knows his weakness. She is so miserable she is wasting away because of his cruel treatment and wicked way of living. She is a wonderful wife. Please give him some good advice.

SISTER.

Physical brutality and infidelity — although they stem from the same selfishness and lack of concern must be treated differently. If he is actually brutal and inhumane in his treatment of her, she must seek protection, from the police, if necessary. His unfaithfulness is a symptom of trouble which she may be able to help cure by seeking professional counsel for herself. Try to encourage her to fight for her marriage rather than giving up to his weakness by retreating and leaving the field to her competition. I'm afraid any advice I would give him would fall on deaf ears as long as he is content to go on his merry way with no regard for the vows he took 30 years ago and no conscience about his self-centered and juvenile attitude.

Dear Martha:

THIS SUMMER I was invited to spend a weekend at the home of a friend in another city. When I returned, I bought a nice gift for her and brought it home to wrap and mail. Just at that time my mother became seriously ill and, frankly, I forgot all about the gift. I had already written a thank-you note before this happened. Recently, a mutual friend called me to say she thought I should know that this hostess was very hurt because I hadn't sent a gift. I know I was remiss, but don't you think the thank-you note really was sufficient? I'm so disgusted now that I don't think I'll even apologize. What do you think?

M.R.

The courteous thing is to send a gift, as well as a note of thanks, to a weekend hostess. However, even if you had no excuse, you would be guilty of no more discourtesy than she has in complaining to an outsider that you hadn't sent a present. Of course, if you send it now, she may feel her complaint had caused you to hurry down and buy a present. But, on the other hand, she may believe you if you tell her frankly what happened and offer your apologies.

Dear Martha:

MY PARENTS recently bought a new home and when I told one of the fellows at the office about it, he said it was right on his way and he would pick me up if I wanted him to. He's married and I don't think his wife would like the idea, but I hate to sound stuffy about it. What should I do?

BETTY LOU.

Don't worry about how it sounds. You're right. His wife wouldn't like it. Make whatever graceful excuse you can think of, and take the bus.

Are you lonely and looking for new friends? Martha Carr's free club lists will help you. Send for your list of clubs for senior citizens, young adults or those between 30 and 80. Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

'Unfinished Business'

BRUSSELS (Delayed).

DELEGATIONS HERE for the meetings of the World Federation of United Nations Associations were invited the other night to visit the German Pavilion at the World's Fair. Tables were arranged out on a high terrace and refreshments were served. Everyone enjoyed sitting around in the cool evening air and looking at the lighted buildings. I think the fair is even more attractive at night than in the daytime. Certainly, the United States building is beautiful when lit up at night.

I was told by some of the people at the fair that our commissioner general had removed a part of our exhibit that was called "Unfinished Business." This section had showed that we still had some slums to do away with, and I imagine these slums were in both rural and city areas. It also dramatized the race question, which is still "unfinished business" with us.

Two things that almost any foreigner invariably brings up in conversation today are the situation in Little Rock and the story of the Negro who has been condemned to death for stealing a small sum of money from an elderly woman.

Removing this "Unfinished Business" exhibit from our pavilion, however, will hardly take it out of the minds of foreigners visiting our building. I think it probably would have helped us rather than hurt us to show that we still felt there were things left undone. I, for one, am very sorry that there was enough influence brought to bear to remove something about which practically every foreigner knows. In such a situation I think it is better to acknowledge one's failures or one's "unfinished business."

A nation like ours, where we have such good communications, cannot hide for long certain conditions that really exist. Fortunately, however, in the newspapers here at least, alongside a statement by Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas is printed the fact that integration is taking place without interference in a number of schools in Tennessee and several other Southern states.

Here one may read both sides of an issue in such newspapers as the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune; Le Monde; a French newspaper; the Zurich Zeitung, and others. But when I get into the Soviet Union we will have nothing but the Communist papers and there will be no publication of any of the good things, I regret to say.

Social Problems

DEAR MRS. POST: Recently the father of a club friend passed away and although we have a rule that flowers are sent to a family in that instance, several of the girls in addition sent flowers individually for the reason that the girl's house had been open for so many of our club parties and all of us knew her father personally. At a meeting this bereaved friend thanked everyone collectively for all they had done. Those who sent flowers individually did not receive a thank-you note. Shouldn't she have written to these members personally?

Answer: A few words of thanks across her visiting card should certainly have been sent to each of these individual givers.

Berle Ready to Try TV Again

By Charles Mercer

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)

FOR TWO YEARS various people have been urging Milton Berle to return to television on a regular basis. For two years Berle has been saying that an hour a week is too much, that even eight or 10 hour-long shows in a season is too much.

MILTON BERLE

Then, after he convulsed a national audience at the Emmy awards presentations and appeared in a straight dramatic role on "Kraft Theater" several months ago, something interesting happened. The public began urging him to come back. Thousands of letters poured in, saying in effect, "We want Berle."

So Milton Berle will return to weekly television Oct. 8 with a half-hour show which, he says, has "a no format format." He comes back a far more relaxed man than the comedian who quit television two years ago, vowing never to return.

"Nothing is going to bother me," he says, "All I'm going to do is try to do the best I can. All I care is that the public be pleased."

Berle is convinced that the public is not pleased with a show with a rigorous format that "becomes set, uninteresting, expected, shop-worn. Such a show has no surprise element, no shock treatment."

Except for Berle and Billy May and his orchestra, there are no plans at present for regular performers. Does that mean numerous "big name" guests?

"Well," says Berle, "I think the guest bit has become a bore to the audiences. They're tired of seeing X pop up on Y's show and then Y pop up on X's. No matter what they do, they look the same. When we have guests, we hope to make them off-beat.

"There's a tremendous amount of talent that has yet to be discovered by a national audience. Although I don't intend to do a Ted Mack or an Arthur Godfrey, I hope we can bring some of that talent to television.

"I love Mr. Veteran Showbusiness, but I'd like to bring Mr. New Talent to the home audience. Us veterans — Jack and Bob and Bing and George and Milton — we've carved a niche for ourselves in the business. I think there's room for all of us and new talent, too. I want to put a new comedian on the show—and a new singer. There must be another Judy Garland around.

"I don't think guest stars make a program. I think a program makes a program over-all and the public makes a program. A guest star can help a program—and, unfortunately, do the reverse."

Berle is putting his new show in the hands of a top-flight staff headed by Hal Kantor as producer and chief writer. (Kantor, by the way, bears the reputation of having "made" George Gobel on television.) So great is Berle's faith in his new staff that he'd rather talk about it ("The brightest, best in the country") than himself.

"Back in '47 and '48 when television was in its diaper stage, I did everything connected with my show because I knew as much about the new invention as anybody else," he said. "Today plenty of people's knowledge of television is just as good as mine, if not better—and you can put that in capital letters. There was a time I was afraid to put a show of mine in other hands. Now that's no longer so."

The new Berle show will originate in Hollywood. "Emanation," he said, "is less important than words and material. The staff that offers the best words and material happens to be in Hollywood—so that's our point of emanation."

Reed and Redwood

SAN FRANCISCO, (UPI) — Reed and redwood—that's the room divider combination for a contemporary look.

Reed curtains and screens in closely woven meshes or in gracefully looped open designs merely hint at a separation for entries or dining areas.

Slim wands of rattan curved into birdcages or shallow baskets hold plants as decorative dividers when suspended from the ceiling on reed chains.

Redwood boards, carefully cut for floor to ceiling height, fit into a vertical louvred entry marker in a matter of minutes.

Small metal clips with non-slip rubber backing go over the top of each board to hold it snugly angled. Bank the new entry with plants, and the job is done.

Inexpensive and easy to work with, both the reed and the redwood at the homemaker's whim.

Deciphering Clay Tablets

By Ramon Coffman

ABOUT 300 YEARS AGO, travelers located a few clay tablets in the valleys of two great rivers, the Tigris and Euphrates. The tablets contained writing, but no one knew what the writing meant.

The clay tablets found their way into museums in Europe. Scholars looked at them, but shrugged their shoulders. How could anyone figure out the meaning?

Shortly after the start of the past century, a 27-year-old school teacher decided to try to do what no one else had done before. He made a wager with a friend that he could figure out the meaning of one line on a clay tablet!

That teacher lived and taught in a grammar school in Gottingen, a small German city. During his university career, he had given special study to languages. His name was George Grotefend.

Weeks and months passed while the young teacher gave his free time to the project. An important idea came to him. He saw that one group of marks was repeated time and time again, and suggested that the meaning was "king." He was right in his guess.

On several tablets, Grotefend found wedge-shaped marks alongside an old form of Persian writing. Bit by bit, he built up facts which gave him the ability to read the wedge-shaped words which had been placed on the clay.

It would be a mistake to suppose that Grotefend was able to understand everything in the strange writing. He did, however, publish what he learned, and pointed the way for other scholars in Europe to learn more.

The years passed, and many additional clay tablets were found in the country now known as Iraq. This country, long ago, was called Babylonia. It included two smaller (and more ancient) countries known as Sumeria (or Sumer) and Akkad.
